IT IS STRANGE how you hear folks say time and time again that trucks don't pay enough highway use taxes. When you press them and ask how much they think the trucks do pay in comparison with the passenger car, you get answers like "maybe twice, perhaps three times as much."

Nothing could be further from the truth.

In 1951, in Michigan, it took the total road taxes paid by over 40 automobiles to equal those paid by just one large transport truck! Dollar-wise, the comparison was $46.07 for the average passenger car against $1,961.00 for the average large transport truck!

Just think of the revenue Michigan gets from Public Servant No. 1, the TRUCK!

Start 4-H Foundation Fund

Officials of the newly formed Michigan 4-H Club Foundation look happily at the first contribution to the fund to expand the 4-H Club program in Michigan which was presented by four Michigan racing associations. It was a check for $25,000, the first of ten annual installments of a like amount to total $250,000. Officials of the foundation are, left to right: F. H. Coward, Lapeer banker and treasurer; George A. Haggarty, Detroit attorney and foundation chairman, and A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H Club leader at Michigan State College and secretary. The foundation hopes to raise more than two million dollars to expand the 4-H Club program in many ways. Initial goals include funds to build a 4-H Club Center in northern Michigan to provide camping facilities; promotion of 4-H Club programs for urban boys and girls and an exchange of living experiences between rural and urban yauth in Michigan.

Mr. Farmer:

It takes a large volume of livestock to attract a large number of livestock buyers.

The Traverse City Livestock Commission sells more livestock than any sale in Northern Michigan.

The bigger buyers attend the Traverse City Livestock Auction, therefore you are assured the full market value when you consign your livestock to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. Don't hesitate to spend a little extra money for trucking to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. It will be repaid many times.

'Finish' Brings Top Dollar In Beef Market

The top sale dollars always go for the well-finished animal . . no matter what the beef market trend, advises George A. Branaman, in charge of beef cattle at Michigan State college. Feeders rushing steers to market without proper finish are cheating themselves. If they sell for fear of a market drop, they lose money by forcing their steers into a lower grade, he explains, and at the same time they help depress the market. He cautions, however, that it does not pay to hold steers from sale when they are finished for their grade.

A downward trend in the beef market generally makes a bigger difference between high-grade and low-grade steers and recent cuts have hit the lower grades hardest. This situation probably will continue until the end of the big movement of grass-fed animals and then lower gradea should pick up. From now until spring, there doubtless will be the usual lowering in prices for the higher grades . . . with more winter-fed beef cattle, with more finish, arriving.

When the supply of cattle without finish is up, the feeder who puts a finish on his animals will get a better price. When the supply of finished cattle increases, the feeder needs that finish on his steers to compete.

It always pays to put a finish on ateers.

Government Buying Dairy Products To Aid Price Support

The Federal government is making several purchases of dairy products to support farmer prices for milk and cream. F. M. Skiver, Chief, Bureau of Dairying, Michigan Department of Agriculture reports that his inspectors are doing the sampling and grading of products purchased in Michigan. During December, inspectors graded and sampled 788,000 pounds of dry skimmed milk, 220,000 pounds of American cheese, and 190,000 pounds of butter. During the first four weeks of January, inspectors sampled and graded 11 carloads (550,000 pounds) dry skimmed milk, 4 carloads (160,000 pounds) of American cheese, and 26 carloads (1,040,000 pounds of butter for offer to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Increased milk production has brought a surplus of butter and cheese at a time of the year when we are usually drawing on storage stocks of butter.

Increased production in Michigan is due to better feeding to increase the production per cow and to an increase in the number of cows milked. Lower beef prices have undoubtedly lengthened the lives of many dairy cows and left them on the farms where they are producing milk.

Many of the fluid milk markets that were rather short of milk in October are already selling surplus milk to be manufactured into butter. Michigan butter and cheese production during November and December was about 20 per cent above the same period a year ago.

New U. S. Extension Director From MSC

C. M. Ferguson, recently named as director of extension work in the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, formerly served in the poultry department at Michigan State college and was a poultry extension specialist.

Ferguson, who has been director of the extension program in Ohio, started his agricultural career in 1921 on the Michigan Extension staff and for many years was in charge of the Michigan Egg Laying contest. He was on the MSC staff until 1928.

The federal extension director will succeed M. L. Wilson, who will continue to serve the U. S. Department of Agriculture in an advisory capacity on extension programs in the nation and the world.

Curing Pork, Corning Beef On Your Farm

Making pork sausage, curing pork and corning beef to your taste can be done on the farm these winter days. No fancy equipment or recipes are needed, reminds Lyman J. Bratzler, meat specialist with the Michigan State college animal husbandry department.

Curing pork requires following of a few basic rules, he advises If the pork is home-dressed, chill the carcass quickly and cut it into cuts your family prefers. Hams, bacon, shoulders and even pork loins can be cured and smoked at home.

Here's a good recipe for curing 100 pounds of pork by the eweet pickle cure: Into a claan stone crock or wooden barrel put aight pounds of salt, three pounds of augar, three ounces of saltpeter and five gallons of water. Pack the 100 pounds of meat in so that the liquid covers all of tho cuts. The curing can bo done in any room where the temperature does not go over 45 degrees fahrenheit. A 15-pound ham will cura in 45 days, a 10-pound ham in 21 days, other cuts in proportion to their weight.

The final step in curing pork is smoking. Any hardwood—hickory, maple, oak—can be used. Corncobs are a good substitute, suggests Bratzler, but don't use soft woods as they may give the meat a bitter taste. A minimum smoking time is 24 hours and longer smoking will mean the meat will keep better.

Beef can be corned in substantially the same way and here is Bratzler's recipe for 100 pounds Into a solution of eight pounds of salt, three pounds of sugar, four ounces of baking soda, two ounces of saltpeter and four gallons of water, put your favorite corning cuts—boneless brisket is a good one but other beef cuts can be corned. A brisket will corn in 12 to 15 days. As a rule, corned beef is not smoked.

Bratzler says that country pork sausage can be easily made to suit your taste: Use fresh trimmings about thrae-fourths lean and ona-fourth fat. Cut them into one-inch cubes and spread them on a tabla. Seasoning for 100 pounds of sausage could be about one-and-a-half pounds of salt, four ounces of ground black pepper, two ounces of ground sage, one ounce of nutmeg or cloves. Sprinkle tha seasoning on the sausage cubes, mix it in well and grind the meat and seasoning through the fine plata of a meat grinder.

The sausage recipe can be varied according to your likes, adds Bratzler, and there's nothing like your own pork sausage these winter days—or along in the early spring with pancakes and some maple syrup from your own "sugar bush."

IMPORTANT IN THE LIFE OF A BOY

The two Grand Rapids telephone men demonstrating signaling here are typical of hundreds of telephone employees throughout Michigan Bell who give generously of their time and their talents working with Boy Scouts.

Several of these telephone men, including three in Grand Rapids, have been honored with the national Boy Scouts' Silver Beaver Award for "distinguished service to boyhood." Fellow townsmen recommended the awards.

Telephone scouters work with boys in countless ways—on camping trips, on committees, teaching first aid and artificial respiration, and on many community projects. Why do they do it? One man explained:

"A hundred years from now it will not matter what my bank account was, or what sort of house I lived in. But the world may be different because I was important in the life of a boy."

As good citizens and good neighbors, these telephone folks are trying to make their community a better place in which to live. This same spirit of service is reflected in the efficient, friendly and courteous telephone service they bring you every day.

It's people who make telephone service good

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Just a Little "Outdated"

Back in December we sent out our yearly calendar. It listed the last date for renewing drivers' licenses, and things like the dates for registering to vote, when the hunting and fishing seasons open — even suggested you note down the wife's birthday, too.

I figured dates like these were important to keep in mind—and this was a good way to do it. Unfortunately, it now turns out I never really paid close attention to my own calendar!

Not 'til today that is—so here I am not able to drive the car this weekend until I get my driver's license renewed on Monday!

From where I sit, I guess good advice, like charity, should begin at home. I'm always advising all of you to worry less about your neighbors (what they do, or say, and whether or not they should enjoy a temperate glass of beer) and pay more attention to whether you yourself are doing the right thing. Guess I'll "make a note" to follow my own formula!

Volunteers Scrub Community Hall

Ellsworth — A group of ambitious, civic minded citizens (men of course) decided to act and not talk, so, armed with soapsuds, sponges, administered with plenty of elbow grease, they gathered in the main auditorium of Ellsworth community hall last Saturday and went to work. Others who also donated time and labor were Max Bolser, Charles Edson, Gene Inman, Harold Jones, Dick Wieland, Corney Klooster, Grant Hastings, Ron Donaldson, Andy Kooyer, Jim Smith and John Elzinga.

A delicious lunch prepared by Mrs. Henry Smith and brought down to the workers by Mr. and Mrs. Smith was a welcome respite during the afternoon and John Klooster did the same in the morning.

On Monday, a crew of workers hired by the Township board, started in to varnish the cleaned surfaces.

Now, we can point with justified pride at our Community auditorium.

Next Lecture To Be Held Wednesday

a member of the University's expedition to the Near East from February to September, 1951, he traveled from Beirut on the Mediterranean across the Syrian Desert to Damascus, Amman (Jordan) and to Baghdad, heart of Mesopotamia.

He worked in several official circles in the Iraq government at Baghdad. His travels also included a tour of the Kurdish territory near the Armenian Knot and the Azerbaijan border where he lived in a Kurdish home in Rowanduz. He also surveyed the port of Basra, the Kuwait oil fields at the head of the Persian Gulf and Kirkuk oil fields of Iraq.

An interesting function which he attended as guest of the royal Subah family at Kuwait and with the nomads of the Arabian desert, was the Arab Kuzzies (sheep-feasts).

His personal comment on the trip is "I saw the Arab world in all its oriental complexities . . . noise, color, hospitality, hostility, and fanaticism of the Arab World".

On the return trip he dipped into Istanbul, the rugged Greek lands of Thrace and Macedonia, the glorious city of Athens, crossed Titoland up through Belgrade and Zagreb, and on to Trieste, Rome, Paris, Frankfort and London.

On Feb. 4, Dr. Ronald S. Anderson, who has spent many years in Japan and the Far East spoke on the problems of that area.

Persons who are not enrolled for the entire series, may attend single lectures.

New Industry Fund Campaign Is Over Top

World in Review

THE GOVERNMENT last week freed auto manufacturers to make all the cars and trucks they are able to as the new Eisenhower Administration started tearing down the two-year-old basic industrial rationing system.

THE FEDERAL Government also announces that it is ending all controls over extension of natural gas service March 1. The Petroleum Administration for Defense stated it will shut down "because the defense needs of the nation for natural gas are now being met."

SECRETARY OF Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has announced that the Government will not intervene directly in the beef market to support dropping prices. He warned that beef prices will skid still further if farmers get "panicky" and unload their animals.

UNDER THE Internal Revenue Code, owners of property damaged by Michigan floods last spring can expect no relief from the Internal Revenue Department. The floods are interpreted as being the result of a "gradual and continuing erosion."

DESPITE go-slow signals raised by President Eisenhower and Congressional leaders, the House Ways and Means Committee voted 21 to 4 to cut personal income taxes about 10 per cent July 1.

THE HOUSE Appropriations Committee launched its 1953 budget-cutting drive Monday by slashing 60 per cent from a supplemental money measure. The committee sliced $1,409,046,670 off $2,313,719,590 requests by all Government agencies, approving only $904,672,920 in new funds.

TAX EXPERTS reported to the Citizens Advisory Tax Study Committee that Michigan's tax riddle can be solved without permanent new taxes if the State can revise its handout policies and make more of their own bills.

The sponsor in this country is the general department of United Church Women of the National Council of Churches. The program comes from a different country each year. The 1053 service comes from the Christian women of Africa.

The offering is divided equally between the Divisions of Foreign and Home Missions which allocates it for inter-denominational work.

Seeing Double? -- That's Right, You Are!

Supt. R. G. Bennett (left) looks puzzled as Mrs. Dorothy McRae, kindergarten teacher, attempts to enlighten him on the enigma of the twins in the Charlevoix public schools.

At the moment she is explaining that in the back row (left to right) are Lucille and Lucy Himebauch, Susan and Janet Crump and Cora and Connie Paul but even she isn't too sure of her identifications despite the fact that she had had most of the twins in her kindergarten classes.

Gail and Clyde, twins from another Allison family, and Christine and Mary Lou John are in the front row.

Standing with Mr. Bennett are Danny and Johnny Pearl.

The Charlevoix public schools average one set of twins for each one hundred students enrolled.

There are no triplets enrolled.

The Himebauch twins are the oldest of the group. They are juniors and the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Himebauch, the Crump sisters, daughters of the Randall Crumps are freshmen and the Pauls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Paul are sophomores.

The Blain twins are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blain. The older pair are in the sixth grade and the younger set are in the first grade. The Allison girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Allison, are in the eighth grade.

Gail and Clyde Allison, kindergarten pupils, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Allison. The John twins, first grade students, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin John.

Johnny and Danny Pearl are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pearl.

Local Musical Groups To Present Concert

Three Charlevoix high school musical groups and the city band will join forces Thursday to present a concert at the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. under the direction of C. A. Odmark.

Proceeds from the tickets being sold by the band members will be turned over to the Band Uniform fund to purchase new uniform jackets and caps for the senior band.

The Junior band, which is composed of seventh and eighth grade students who are making their first public appearance, will open the program with the march, "On the Street," Mesang; overture, "Day of Youth," Fulton; waltz, "The Blue Danube," Strauss, Leonard; and the march, "Activity," Bennett.

The 62-piece senior band will follow with five selections including the march, "Hall of Fame," Olivadoti, and the overtures, "Grand Festival," Zamecnik, and "Citadel," Bennett which they will play in the District Band and Orchestra Festival at Petoskey Feb. 28 plus the march, "Parade March No. 2," Goldman and selection, "Nocturne," D'Arcy.

Movies of the 1952 All-Star-Los Angeles Rams football game will be shown at the high school auditorium immediately following the band concert tonight. The film shows the game between the two squads with Bob Carey playing for the All-Stars.

Proceeds from the showing will be given to the Band Uniform Fund.

The showing will begin at 9:30 and continue for an hour.

The Girls' Glee club composed of 40 voices has been building a repertoire since the Christmas program and has selected for this concert the following selections, "By the Bend of the River," Edwards; "The Big Brown Bear," Mana-Zucca and "The Alphabet," Mozart. Mrs. Leonard Burns will accompany the group.

The Charlevoix city band, making one of its rare winter appearances, will conclude the program with the march, "On the Square," Panella; overture, "Poet and Peasant," Von Suppe; waltz, "Mayfair Cinderella," Ketelby; dance, "Spanish Dance No. 1," Moskowski and the march, "Colonel Bogey," Alford.

The city band, composed of adult musicians supplemented by older members of the high school band, is one of the few remaining municipal bands in Michigan, a fact which is a source of great pride to the adult nucleus of the band. During the summer months it appears in weekly concerts and although it is supported financially by the city, it is a completely amateur group playing for the enjoyment it affords. Many college students, home for the summer recess, reenforce its ranks at that time. The band, however, practices the year around, preparing for the strenuous summer months.

Area Farmers Enjoy Annual Meetings Here

As the farmers of Charlevoix county and the adjacent areas gathered at the high school auditorium here last week for the second annual Little Farmers' Week, the Charlevoix Courier, in an effort to get a concensus of opinion regarding the event, interviewed several farmers with varied interests from throughout the area.

Among the questions asked the four men who represented different kinds of farming were: Do you think the program fulfills its purpose, do you like it and what changes, if any, would you like to see made in the present program?

Brown, Myers Win In Light Primary Vote

With only 236 out of a possible 1,850 voters visiting the polls in the Primary election here Monday, one of the lightest votes in recent years was recorded for the city of Charlevoix.

There were no contests for local offices and in the race for circuit court judge nominations the city followed the trend of voters elsewhere in a four county area by giving Judge Charles L. Brown of Traverse City 171 votes to 32 for William Myers of Traverse City, his closest opponent, and 31 for Arthur T. Cook of Bellaire.

Brown won the nomination by more than a four to one margin throughout the four counties which compose the 13th Judicial district, Antrim, Charlevoix, Leelanau and Grand Traverse counties.

In Charlevoix county the vote was 1,195 for Brown, 178 for Cook and 124 for Myers.

Brown will be opposed by Myers on the non-partisan ticket in the April General Election.

All incumbent city officials were nominated without opposition. They were: John Knight, mayor; Nelle A. Hammond, treasurer; Hugh Mayne, clerk; Charles Bellinger, Harry Zeitler and Harry Gebeau, first, second and third ward aldermen respectively;

Petoskey Wins Over Charlevoix By A 49-45 Score In Overtime

The Charlevoix Rayders bowed to Class B Petoskey by a 49-45 overtime score here Tuesday after the regular game between the arch rivals had ended in a 45-all tie.

The loss evened scores for the season, for the Rayders snatched the first game from the Northmen on the latter's floor earlier in the season by a 34-33 score.

Bill Mosier's winning basket made the difference in that game. The loss of his height under the basket with five minutes of the third period gone might have been a deciding factor in the game here Tuesday. He left the game with an ankle injury after scoring 11 points for the Rayders.

The Charlevoix five got off to a fast start and held a 19-10 first period lead and a 34-21 half-time margin. They were still ahead 40-31 when Mosier was lost to the line-up after hurting his ankle.

As the third period ended Petoskey closed the gap to 41-39

Doug Peihl tied the score with a bucket early in the period. Dick Spitler put Petoskey ahead by one point on a free throw before Bennett scored a basket for the Rayders. Bob Gregory scored a bucket and Gordon Mol dropped a two pointer for the Rayders for a 45-44 score with 50 seconds to go. Charlevoix drew a foul and Spitler connected on the second

The Sort Of People God Has Made

By Rev. Harold E. Kohn

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of guest editorials to be written by Charlevoix ministers during the next few weeks in observance of Lent.

"What are little boys made of .
What are little boys made of?
Frogs and snails and puppy dog tails,
That's what little boys are made of
What are little girls made of?
What are little girls made of?
Sugar and spice and all that's nice;
That's what little girls are made of."

When some of us chanted that nursery rhyme years ago as we played on the sidewalks, we half believed it was true. Little boys have a way of behaving sometimes as if they were mixtures of such unpalatable odds and ends as frogs and snails and puppy dog tails. Especially were the girls apt to agree with Robert Southey's sentiments that little girls are made of sugar and spice and all that's nice. But as we grew up and faced life more realistically, we were bound to discover that boys are not unmixed collections of repulsive traits. They are capable of being quite as winsome as girls at times. And girls are not such saccharine-sweet morsels of humanity as Southey pictures, but they are often capable of showing the frog, and snail, and puppy dog tail elements too. Living among others of our kind and watching their lives, while examining our own upon occasion, we soon learn that we are mixtures of the good and the bad, the wrong and the right, the physical and the spiritual, the animal and the godly.

That is the conclusion reached in the book of Genesis, which relates the story of the making of man. The writer saw in man that which is base and as low as the dust under his feet. But at the same time he saw in the heart of man that which is winsome, and wholesome and as high as Heaven. And he wrote his astute observation into the story of creation. "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." The Scripture writer knew that in a human being the dust of the earth and the very breath of God confront one another. On the one hand we have bodies of earthly quality, composed of the same chemicals as the bodies of the cattle of the field, and the dog that sleeps in your basement.

Our bodies are structurally so much like them that doctors experiment with medicines upon these creatures, knowing that a drug that affects them in a certain way will likely act upon us in a similar fashion. That isn't a very flattering thought, is it? If you really want to puncture your pride, consider that we humans are emotionally and temperamentally much like God's other living creatures. We may display anger or sudden rage, but so does a maddened bull. We have a fear of falling, but so does the elephant that tests the bridge before he crosses it. We are capable of affection, of motherly or fatherly care, but so is a robin or a water spaniel. Why, we are so much like the animals that we often live by their law, the "law of the wild", the survival of the fittest, seeking our own good no matter the cost and suffering to others.

If that were all that could be said about us, teaching religion would be futile. We might as well lock up the churches, board up the windows, dismiss religion from our minds, and let sheer animal instinct reign within us. But that is not all, said the Scripture writer. Added to the dust of the ground is the inbreathing of God's Spirit. God added a touch of himself to us. There is a dirty side to all of us . . . the animal nature . . . made as we are from the dust of the ground. But when deity is added to dirt then you have a living soul. There is a fleck of God in this common clay of ours, a sparkle of the Divine in the dust. That is what makes us men and women rather than cattle.

One thing more ought to be added to this story of our creation. We were not meant to be a delicately balanced scale with animal instincts on one side of us and a touch of the Divine on the other, the scale teetering first to the base and the bad on the one side and then to the good and the clean on the other all through our lives. We were given a will, an ability to choose, to throw on one side of the scale or the other. We can cast the weight of our choice on the side of the base animal nature, or we can place it on the side of the Divine nature. Which . . . dirt or Deity . . . shall have the ascendency is up to us. And most of us want to give God the upper hand. The title of an old Negro spiritual, "Keep Me From Sinkin' Down" is pertinent here. The prayer of all of us, spoken or unsaid, is "Keep Me From Sinkin' Down". We want to measure up to the divine, rather than to sink down to an animal level of living.

Perhaps this truth that we need to be kept from sinking down is most apparent when we consider our contentment with what we are. To be contented with yourself as you are . . . that is to give in to the animal, for self-satisfaction is a characteristic that is common in the animal kingdom and virtually non-existent among great religious souls. Have you ever come across a dog that wanted to be anything better than a dog? Or have you ever known a horse to aspire to be anything other than a horse? While my acquaintance with dogs and horses is considerable, I've never seen a dog craving to be a better dog, or a horse a better horse. Self-contentment is common in the animal kingdom. But animal self-contentment is apt to get the upper hand in our lives, too. To be contented when our stomachs are full, when we have shelter over our heads, and are free from disease, and when our family is about us . . . to be satisfied when our bodily and instinctive needs are met, that is one of life's greatest dangers. There you have all that an animal craves . . . food, shelter, and the reproduction of young, and little else. To be satisfied with that is to live on the cattle-level of existence. May God keep us from sinking down to that low plain of living.

Lent, which began yesterday with Ash Wednesday, is the period of 40 fast days (Sundays are not counted) that lead up to Easter. The Christian Church has traditionally observed this period as a time of penitence and dissatisfaction with self. When we reflect upon the goodness of God and the supreme sacrifice Christ has made for all mankind, how can we help but feel discontented with what we are, unworthy of the love of so great a God and the redemption bought by so great a Savior?

May we pray:

O God, Creator and Sustainer of our lives, cleanse us from every wicked way. Our desire is to be more God-like. Be a gardener to our souls. Remove from us all the weeds of wickedness. Supplant them with a flowering faith that will make each life an oasis of beauty in this desert-world. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

WE DON'T know about most people but we've always been fascinated by wishing wells . . . You know, drop in a coin and make a wish . . . Sounds wonderful . . . That's one reason we'd like to see the McFarland's new place in Florida . . . It's got a little wishing well formed by a pool centered with a little statue . . . And all this in a setting of tropical flowers and shrubs . . . Bob Neff, just back from Florida, was telling us about that and the new restaurant itself where everything is as modern as tomorrow's jet plane . . . Lots of glass and in the kitchen, just everything . . . And in the backyard? . . . Gladioli, hundreds of 'em planted and tended by none other than Chevy Sevcik so that there can be fresh flowers on the tables every day . . . It all sounds grand so if you're down Pompano Beach way, stop by and take a look, for the red carpet is always out for Mrs. Pete's friends from home . . .

WE CAN never remember what it means when the ground hog does or doesn't see his shadow come Feb. 2, but there's one sure sign of spring that we recognize . . . robins . . . Mrs. Walker Miles called us last Thursday to tell that a flock of 14 of the harbingers of spring were in an apple tree in their yard . . . And she had witnesses too . . . So now we'll sit back and wait . . .

YOU'VE ALL heard of fresh fish but we'll bet you've never heard of fish any fresher than the ones a friend of ours from southern Michigan got last week . . . He came in late and during the evening someone mentioned smelt, which made him say he'd like some . . . We'd heard they were biting out at Ironton so a quick call to Glenn Williams told us that he didn't have any but when he heard our story he said he'd find out about getting some . . . He was back to the phone in a couple of minutes to tell us that someone would go out and catch some if we'd like . . . We liked . . . so the next morning he called to say he had 116 of the silvery, tasty fish which were soon on their way south, packed in ice . . . We thought at first he had trained the fish in the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix but he admitted they had all been fishing earlier and knew they were biting when I called . . . That's service . . .

SOMEONE told us earlier in the fall about a pair of bald-headed eagles that had been seen along the lake but Ted Miller gave us the low-down on them . . . Seems they are making their home somewhere near the mouth of McGeagh creek along Lake Michigan . . . He doesn't know exactly where but is going to look for the nest, which must be something to see, for each year the bird builds its nest on top of the old one until it gets so high it breaks the tree over by its weight . . . Another thing he told was that they mate for life . . . They're huge things with about a six foot wing-spread, so if you see something slightly smaller than a plane wheeling over the lake shore, take a second look, for it will probably be one of the eagles, which are quite rare around here . . .

OBSERVATIONS at the game Friday night . . . The big hand given Coach Bill Carey of Pellston when he brought his team to his 'home' gym for the first time . . . The spirit of the Pellston fans when they knew that victory had flown out the window . . . Their loyalty might well be an example to everyone . . . The Rayders purdy new jerseys . . . And the novelty of seeing the five regulars holding down the bench with Coach Terrill while the 'little guys' were given an opportunity to play better than half of the game . . . The high school band, which always puts on a good show at half time and between games responding to the baton of student director, Bob Richards, in the absence of Mr Odmark . . . And all putting on a good show . . . And our cute cheerleaders who are always a sight for sore eyes being given an able assist by two newcomers, Sam Supernaw and Dave Schuchard . . . Games are lots of fun, you ought to take them in now and then . . .

BY THE WAY, if any of you can tootle a flute or beat a drum or play any of the instruments needed in a band, see Mr. Odmark, who also has the city band . . . He's looking for adult recruits to give the band a little more depth . . . It's great fun and if you don't believe us, come to the band concert Thursday night and see for yourself, for the city band is joining with the high school bands to present a super program, with the proceeds going to dress up the band with new uniform jackets and caps. .

THESE Charlevoix people do get around . . . A card from Florida brings the news that the John Schroeders are settled at South Miami for a month . . . Another card postmarked Hot Springs, Ark., carries the news that the Angus Fochtmans are spending some time at the health resort enroute to Florida . . . Can you imagine 47 springs at a temperature of 147 degrees F. . . Oh to have some of that here . . . And from California a card from Mrs. Harvey Campbell, who is in the west with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Arba Cameron of Detroit and her brother-in-law, Don Campbell . . . The card brought a picture of the NBC studios in Hollywood where they had just seen and heard Bob Hope make the program you heard last night . . . It was wonderful to see all the performers, she added . . . And we agree that would be fun.

MRS. HERB Campbell called early this week to ask if we'd had any reports on robins because she thought she'd seen five in her yard but couldn't believe her eyes . . . She felt better after we assured her that the robins had returned . . . A short time later Mrs. Walter Howe told us about wandering around on Dixon ave. last Wednesday trying to find what she thought was a robin . . . She finally found several, all of whom were chirping . . .

WINTER it seems, is the time most people devote their efforts to hobbies and Mrs. Howard Stephens is no exception . . . Her hobby, however, is for she's been making miniature model cars . . the kind that used to haunt the highways long, long ago . . . None of this modern stuff, you understand . . . There's a 1910 Stutz, a Model T Ford to name a couple although she has quite a collection now . . . Seems you even put the passengers in the model . . . And how did she happen to pick this particular hobby? . . . She got her husband one for Christmas. . .

THE BALD-HEADED eagles we mentioned elsewhere in the column were seen in town Tuesday so keep an eye cocked for them . . . Charlie Bleha saw them flying up from Round Lake to Dixon ave. on the north side early in the morning . . .

LITTLE OLE Charlevoix got a plug on the radio Tuesday afternoon when Tracy Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs Walter Harvey, was interviewed at Pearl Harbor. He's serving aboard a destroyer in the Pacific . . .

"An emotional upset should be treated the same as a physical illness. People must be educated to call on us just as they call their family physician. There is no reason for fear or shame."

"The Petoskey Child Guidance Clinic is a mental hygiene clinic, operated on the principle that prevention and treatment of a problem in the early stages is more likely to be successful than waiting until mental illness sets in and then trying to effect a cure," stated Henry Zimmerman, clinical psychologist, explaining the purpose and work of the clinic.

This clinic is one of 13 located throughout the state and serves six counties, Cheboygan, Antrim, Charlovoix, Emmet, Otsego and Presque Isle. Sponsored jointly by the State Department of mental Health and the area it serves, the clinic offers free services to any child 16 or under, or still in school. Anyone, with the consent of parents, may refer a child to the clinic.

Besides Mr. Zimmerman, the clinic staff includes Robert Gillespie, psychiatric social worker, Mary Ann Kelbel, secretary, and Dr. Paul Jordan, director of the Flint clinic, who visits the local clinic the first Monday of each month.

"One of the boys referred to the child guidance clinic was 7 year old Jack. Since he and his mother had to travel 60 miles to reach the clinic, they were seen at the same time (ordinarily a separate conference is arranged with parents). This also made it necessary to complete as much of the diagnostic work as possible during the first visit in order to determine how the clinic could help Jack.

"Jack was extremely reluctant to leave his mother and once out of her sight, burst into tears. It was of utmost importance for the psychologist to proceed cautiously if the tests were to be of any value.

"The results of the tests indicated that Jack was a very insecure seven year old who had superior intelligence. His vocabulary approached that of an average 10 year old. His reading and arithmetic were outstanding and yet he was to be retained in the first grade because he was unable to complete the required work. In emotional development, Jack was more like a 3 or 4 year old child.

"While Jack was with the psychologist, the social worker interviewed the mother. Her reason for referring Jack to the clinic was 'because he won't let me out of his sight for one minute.' Throughout the interview she was extremely apprehensive and at the slightest sound in the hall would stop talking to listen. When asked about this she told the worker she expected Jack to come running to her at any time.

"In the material presented by the mother there were two outstanding facts. Jack had not been a "wanted child." he was only 11 months younger than his brother, and the mother herself was an insecure person.

"After the psychologist and social worker together went over the material they had obtained, plans were made to see both Jack and his mother at regularly scheduled appointments. These were scheduled for every other week because of the travel factor. The entire treatment program went on for almost a year.

"During that time Jack 'acted out' much of his feelings through play therapy. He was also able to verbalize many of his feelings as he began to show improvement and gain confidence in his therapist.

"At the same time the mother was working out some of her problems. By bringing them out into the open and discussing them [illegible] At the [illegible] understand Jack's problems and be more sympathetic toward him.

"At the time contacts with Jack and his mother were stopped one could hardly recognize him as being the same boy. He had learned that his mother did love him and would not leave him. He not only would 'let her out of his sight' but would suggest that she go shopping while he stayed home to look after his little sister.

"It should not be implied that Jack will not have his share of ups and downs. But it is safe to assume that he will lead a happier, more normal life than he was headed for when his mother first contacted the clinic. Who can say where a continuation of his pattern of behavior at that time might have lead?

"The above is only meant to show one of the types of cases seen at the child guidance clinic. There are many other kinds. The important thing clinic workers must remember at all times is that each child has his own distinct problems and reacts to them in his own unique way.

"Tangible results are sometimes not immediately evident," Mr. Zimmerman concluded. "However, without a doubt, the treatment of emotional problems in the early stages will create a marked decease in the number of patients in our mental hospitals in the future."

Charlevoix IN UNIFORM

From their soldier son stationed in England with the Army, Mr. and Mrs. Orval McGinnis, former residents now living in Flint have received an account of the recent floods which caused great devastation along the coast of England.

Lowell McGinnis, doctor's assistant, writes the following account of his experience during the flood:

I quit my regular job and [illegible] to help search for [illegible] of the dead. I had to [illegible] death certificates and help load the bodies on planes for another place where they were to be embalmed, for the English don't believe in embalming.

I helped load 10 Americans ranging from 11 months to 40 years. There was one little boy in the bunch so cute that I couldn't keep from serving.

The flood struck so fast they didn't have a chance. Quite a few English were drowned but not too many Americans. They are still finding bodies. It tore all the houses down and washed away their cars and everything they had.

Colliers Running Feature On Beaver Island Ice Cutting

St. James — All of us were greatly surprised this week when we discovered that Collier's magazine wanted to feature an article on the way ice is put up and stored on the island.

Martin Iger, photographer from Jamaica, N. Y. and Alfred M. Lansing, writer from Sea Cliff, N. Y. have been looking for some time for a spot where the rare and fast dying art of cutting natural ice by horse power and hand saws is still practical. After looking through the New England and mid-western states with no success they were informed by the Michigan conservation department that James W. Gallagher of St. James performs this operation each winter.

They contacted Mr. Gallagher and arrangements were made for photographing the ice cutting.

Mr. Lansing and Mr. Iger and Allen Brukard, pilot of Escanaba, Michigan had to make several trips to the island to get all the needed pictures in the proper sunlight.

Personal

Bernadette Malloy spent Monday in Charlevoix.

County Little Farmers' Week Is Great Success

Laud Business Men For Cooperation With Entertainment Feature

The second Little Farmer's Week, held last week in Charlevoix, was a huge success according to reports received by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. The average attendance was 115 people per day for the five days and there were 241 different persons who attended the program. Credit is due to Charlevoix high school and to all the businessmen who helped put over this program. Rebman said without this kind of co-operation, the Little Famer's Week would not be a success.

Dairy Day

J. G. Hays, Dairy Specialist from M.S.C. started the program by stressing the importance of good legume hay in the ration for dairy cows. It should be leafy and of a green color. Hays suggested a seeding mixture of six pounds of alfalfa, two pounds of brome grass and one-half pound of ladino to the acre. It should be cut young when the alfalfa is about 1-10 to 1-4 bloom. The method of harvesting will not increase or decrease the feeding value. However, one method may enable the farmer to save the crop while another will not.

Corn silage versus hay silage is much discussed. A bushel of corn silage will weigh 23 pounds while a bushel of hay silage will weigh 20 pounds. Alfalfa brome silage will have twice as much protein as corn silage but it also has less energy feed. Pound for pound there is not much difference. With corn silage cows should get one pound of grain to six pounds of milk and for hay silage they should have one pound of grain for four pounds of milk. Cows on corn silage might need some protein feed.

Hays warned the farmers to be careful of feeding Urea. In mixed feeds Urea may be used up at about five or six percent of the mixture. Minerals are important. Use trace mineral salt in grain ration and also free choice of loose trace mineral salt. Grass silage for summer feeding will fill the gap in the pasture program for July and August.

Don Murray, another dairy specialist, discussed quality milk production. First he stated that the solids, not fat, in milk must be paid for and not just fat as is true at the present time. The cows must be clean and healthy. Protect the teats and don't let them become injured. Clip the cows on the udder, flanks and top line. A pair of lice on September 15 if left alone will produce about 314,000,000 lice by February 15. Clipping the top line helps control lice.

The barn should be well ventilated to prevent off flavors getting in the milk. Keep and use clean sterile utensils to permit souring of the milk. Cool the milk promptly to keep the bacteria count down.

Barnyard Economics

Everrett Elwood, farm management specialist, discussed the 1952 income tax. Tax rates are higher and farmers should keep track of all expenses. Capital gains in regard to livestock can use the 50 percent rule. If the animal was owned 12 months or more and if the animal was held for draft, breeding or dairy purposes only one-half of the income need be counted.

James Nielsen, also from farm management department, stated that net income for farmers will be about the same or slightly less in 1953 than in 1952. Gross incomes will be about the same while expenses will be higher. Milk prices will be higher while butter fat will be lower and poultry about the same.

Elwood and Nielson stated the best principle to follow in 1953 is more production per man. On dairy farms several ways can be used such as increasing the number of cows, keep better cows, and feed better. Net income will increase if any or all of the above three are used.

Forestry and Building

Lester Bell, extension forester, presented a picture of Michigan's forests, whose products produce an annual income of $317,000,000 This is an income of about $7.50 per acre but the woodlots are only 1-2 or 1-3 productive so this income could be $15.00 to $22.50 per acre. Bell also discussed a forestry program for Charlevoix county. The five steps in such a program are establishment, protection, management, harvesting, and marketing.

Arthur Bell, extension agricultural engineer, stated farmers can save $50 per thousand on lumber by using home grown materials and harvesting the logs themselves. Pen barns and stanchion barns were up for discussion. Pen barns must be arranged correctly. They will save labor, are cheaper to construct, better for animals health, and produce better manure. Stanchion barns are warmer to work in and will take less bedding.

Ventilation of stanchion dairy barns is important. Every cow gives off 7 1-2 guarts of water in 24 hours. The best system for ventilation is the electric system. Barns must be insulated and each cow must have 60 cu. ft. of air per minute. Use the correct equipment and install it properly.

Crops and Soils

Dennie Clanahan, farm crops specialist spoke on increasing crop yields in Charlevoix county. A good stand is important and the right kind of good seed should be used. Weeds should be controlled as they rob the crop of moisture and plant food. Diseases should be controlled. Many times this can bo done with disease resistant varieties. The best adapted variety to this area is necessary for high production. The fertility of the soil is very important and soil tests and proper fertilizers are a must in a good cropping program.

Stable manure was the topic of E. D. Longnecker, soils specialist. Livestock in Michigan produce between 25 and 30 million tons of manure a year. Assuming one-half of this is produced in the winter and that the nitrogen, phosphorous and potash in a ton of manure is worth $2.55, farmers have a fertilizer worth about 40 million dollars. This is 30 percent more than the value of the commercial fertilizer used in 1952. Cow manure is 86 percent water and she will return 75 percent of the nitrogen, 61 percent of the phosphorous and 82 percent of the potassium of the feed she eats to the manure.

This means manure is very valuable and must be taken care of and saved. Use plenty of bedding. Any material such as straw, sawdust, corn fodder, peat and shavings are good for soking up the liquid part of the menure. Fresh manure can be spread every day and plowed under in the spring but old manure should be plowed under as soon as it is spread.

Livestock

Farmers starting in the beef program should have at least 20 beef cows W. L. Finley, livestock specialist, said. Livestock is suited to this area. They furnish a market for the good roughage crop produced here. Farmers can start with cows on the farm using a beef bull, or beef heifer calves, or beef wet cows, Use a good sire since he is one-half of the herd. Feed and take good care of heifers having their first calf. Raise good pasture and hay to reduce grain needed. Corn silage is good and minerals are needed. Lice must be controlled.

Swine production was the subject for Harry Moxley, livestock specialist. There will be 18 percent less pork in Michigan in 1953 than was produced in 1952. This will mean 10 pounds less pork per person. Pigs should have well balanced rations. Antibiotics are very helpful when the animal is young. Minerals are important. Use 1-3 trace mineral salt, 1-3 limestone, and 1-3 steamed bone meal and put about two pounds of this mixture to 100 pounds of grain. Hogs will make very good use of pasture. This will also help in controlling deseases.

Farmers who want more information on these subjects can get it by contacting the extension office, Ed Rebman said. Any comments on this years Little Farmer's Week or what should be held next year would be appreciated.

Klooster's Annual John Deere Day Set For March 3rd

Conrad Klooster, John Deere implement dealer at Atwood, has announced his annual John Deere Day this year for Tuesday, March 3.

Plans are underway, he said, to make the event this year an enjoyable as well as an educational event for everyone interested in agriculture and farm equipment. The show will open at 10 o'clock in the morning and continue throughout the afternoon, with a free lunch at noon. The afternoon program will include interesting movies and the usual array of gift prizes.

The occasion also will afford farmers an opportunity to see displays of the newest in John Deere farm equipment and tractors.

Soil Conditioners Expensive

Soil scientists at Michigan State college point out that some soil conditioners can do a good job of improving soil tilth and conditions. The trouble so far, they explain, is that the soil conditioners are too expensive for general farm use.

Add Four Brown Swiss Bulls To Breeders' Herd

Four Brown Swiss bulls are now on sire duty at the Michigan Artificial Breeders Co-operative which has handled Brown Swiss calls in the past mainly with semen from out-of-state. The expansion resulted from field requests for the service, according to A. C. Baltzer, co-operative secretary-treasurer and extension dairyman at Michigan State college.

The first Brown Swiss bull acquired was V. B. Tex-Jane Collegian. Collegian is a proved bull, with average records by his daughters of 465 pounds of butterfat and 12,000 pounds of milk.

Two others are half-brothers and are sons of the nationally-recognized Colonel Harry of J. B. classified "excellent." Colonel Harry has been used by the Northern Ohio Artificial Breeders co-operative. One of the sons, a 10-year-old from Al Richards farm at Rankin, is also classified as "excellent." The other has been proved through daughters in Indiana.

A third younger bull, obtained from August Heisler of Albion, is being proved. It has a proved sire and its dam—who has seven records and a "very good" classification—is a daughter of a proved sire.

Mr. Farmer:

It takes a large volume of livestock to attract a large number of livestock buyers.

The Traverse City Livestock Commission sells more livestock than any sale in Northern Michigan.

The bigger buyers attend the Traverse City Livestock Auction, therefore you are assured the full market value when you consign your livestock to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. Don't hesitate to spend a little extra money for trucking to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. It will be repaid many times.

Score 61-27 Victory Over Pellston Team

The Charlevoix Rayders moved one step closer to another Northern Michigan Class C title Friday night by defeating Coach Bill Carey's Pellston Hornets 61-27.

Wins over Harbor Springs on Friday and-or Gaylord on Feb. 27 will assure the Rayders of the title. Even if they should lose both games they would be eligible for a share of the title with East Jordan and Gaylord who are now tied for second place with seven wins and three losses. Charlevoix has a nine win and one loss record.

On Friday the Rayders will travel to Harbor Springs to play the Rams who handed the local five their only loss of the season by a 55-50 score last month. The Rayders will conclude their schedule the following Friday when they host Gaylord here.

Cherlevoix's starting lina-up composed of Bill Bennett, Dean Davenport, Mark White, Bill Mosier and Jim Lewis played less than 16 minutes in the game against Pellston Friday as Coach Del Terrill gave his substitutes a chence to show their stuff. The second eight who played part of the second period, five minutes of the third period and all of the lest quarter include Gordon Mol, Tom LaBlanca, Dave Glasford, Don Smith, Joe McDermott, Jerry Albright and Bill Golden. All but Smith and Walker got into the scoring column.

Schedule District Basketball Tournaments For Early March

With less than three weeks of the current basketball season remaining, interest is turning to the area district basketball tournaments scheduled for the first week in March.

Northern Michigan Class C teams will enter tournaments at Petoskey, Gaylord and Cheboygan. The latter is hosting a district tournament for the first time.

A Class B district tournament is scheduled for Petoskey for the first time in 20 years, T. A. Treloar, tournament manager, has announced.

Charlevoix will enter the district tournament at Petoskay along with three other Class C teams, Herbor Springs, Boyne City and East Jordan.

In Class B at the same tourney will be Rogers City, Cheboygan, Alpena Catholic Central and Petoskey.

Six Class D teams are also scheduled to enter the district meet. They are Ellsworth, Central Lake, Bellaire, Alanson, Boyne Falls and Petoskey St. Francis.

The Petoskey tournament will open March 3 and run through March 7 with two games being played each night except Friday and Saturday night.

The drawings have been tentatively set for Feb. 26.

At Gaylord four Class C and six Class D teams are entered in the tournament which will be held March 4 through 7.

Class C teams entered include Gaylord, Grayling, Kalkaska and Mancelona, according to Henry Smith tournament manager. Kalkaska is playing at Gaylord for the first time replacing East Jordan which is scheduled to enter the Petoskey meet. In the past Kalkaska has gone to Traverse City.

Six teams including Johannesburg, Alba, Hillman, Atlanta, Vanderbilt and Gaylord St. Mary's will enter the Class D tourney.

Two Class D games will open the tournament March 4 with two Class C scheduled for March 5 followed by two Class D games March 6. The finals in both classes will be held March 7.

Tournament drawings are scheduled for Feb. 25.

Two upper peninsula teams St. Igoace and Soo Loretto, will enter the Class C tourney at Cheboygen, Ernest Brown, tournament manager said this week. Other teams entered are Pellston Onewey, end Cheboygan Catholic Central.

Charlevoix To Play Harbor There Friday

As the Northern Michigan Class C conference teams draw near the end of the current schedule, Friday. Charlevoix will travel to Harbor Springs, East Jordan will invade Boyne City, Gaylord will host Mancelona and Pellston will entertain Onaway in a non-loop meeting.

The Rayders, whose only loss this season has been to Harbor Springs, will take on the Rams in a return game Friday. Since then, however, the Rams have lost to Gaylord by a 64-49 score, a team Charlevoix defeated 45-38. If the Rayders continue to play the type of ball that has kept them on top of the league, they will even scores with the Rams for the earlier defeat.

East Jordan barely edged past Boyne City in the first meeting of the season and will heve to play top ball when they travel to the Ramblers' floor this week. The pair are traditional rivals and even though Boyne City is in fourth place with only three wins they can be depended on to give the Jordanites a close game.

In their first meeting Mancelona gave Gaylord a close game with the score changing often before the Blue Devils came through with a 10-point win. Unless Gaylord plays better ball this week than they did against East Jordan the last week, Mancelona may knock Gaylord from their second place tie with East Jordan. The two teams are traditional rivals and anything can happen.

In games scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 24, East Jordan will play at Harbor Springs in a make-up game and Gaylord will entertain Grayling in a non-loop game.

Little Rayders Defeat Pellston Reserves 53-38

Charlavoix got off to a 13-3 first period lead on three field goals by Mathews, one field goal end two gift shots by Swansor, a field goal by Powell, end a free throw by Dennis. Pallston's three points were made on free throws.

The half-time score was 23-16.

The Rayders put on a scoring spree in the lest period for 18 points on four field goals by Walker, two each by Swenson end Towsley end one by Carson. Pellston's scoring was confined to six points on two field goals and two free throws.

Charlevoix's 53 points were scored on 22 field goals, and nine free throws out of 20 attempts. The Rayders had 11 personal fouls.

Pellston had eight field goals and eight out of 23 tries in the free throw department. They had 14 personal fouls.

Recommend Fish Dishes For Good Lenten Dinners

High protein food at moderate cost is the double blessing of the fish dishes you prepare for Lenten meals. Michigan State college home economists point up the advantages of serving fish in a series of five attractive bulletins on how to cook burbot, trout, carp, smelt and white fish.

These folders and bulletins are available free of charge from your home demonstration agent's office or by writing Bulletin Office, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

The smelt folder, ESF 8, gives some mouth-watering recipes for the Lake Michigan smelt coming into markets now in abundant supply. Smelt with onion cream gravy or tomato sauce, deep-fat fried smelt and baked or pickled smelt are some of the suggestions made in this folder.

Carp, an orphan of the fishes, is a highly edible member of the Great Lakes fish products. Instructions on dressing a carp and making tempting sauces and loaves are given in folder ESF 1.

Recipes for Lake Trout and Whitefish is the title of a bulletin, No. 209, which gives careful instructions on how to select fish, prepare it and dress it up. Suggestions for hearty dishes such as baked noodles and trout, fish balls and fish salads appear in this bulletin.

Here is the recipe for a fish loaf, easy to make and nutritious Put through a meat grinder two cups of raw fish, a small onion, a stalk of celery, six stuffed olives, a tablespoon of parsley. Add and mix half a cup of bread or cracker crumbs, two eggs, half a teaspoon salt and pepper. Bake for an hour in a moderate oven in a well greased baking pan.

Schedule District Basketball Tourney

River, Mackinaw City, Wolverine and Millersburg, are also entered in the meet.

This tournament will open March 4 with three games scheduled for the opening night and two games on the following two nights. The tournament will close March 6.

The drawings are tentatively set for Feb. 25.

The regional tuornaments will be held March 11-12-13-14 with Class B teams playing at Cadillac; Class C teams at Petoskey and Class D entries at Traverse City.

The quarter-finals will be played March 18 at sites to be announced later.

Cull trees in a woodlot can be stripped of bark, treated with pentachloraphenol and made into fence posts, advise extension foresters of Michigan State College. The cost is about 20 cents per post.

Last Week With Class "C" Teams

The final standings in the Northern Michigan Class C league took shape Friday night as Charlevoix trounced Pellston 61-27; East Jordan won over Mancelona 55-44 and Harbor Springs defeated Boyne City 63-52.

The Rayders' win put them that much closer to another loop title; East Jordan moved it to a second place tie with Gaylord who were idle; Harbor Springs took over third place; Boyne City and Mancelona remained in a tie for fourth place and Pellston, with only one win, remained in the league cellar.

At East Jordan the Red Devils went it to an early lead over Mancelona and were ahead 11-8 at the quarter; 25-18 at the half and 35-25 at the third period. Worren Fronk paced the scoring with 18 points. Andy Patrick had 16 for Mancelona. The Ironmen made a last quarter comeback by scoring 19 points but it was not enough. The scoring, however, was a family affair with Andy Patrick and his nephew, Harold Patrick, together scoring 18 of the 19 points.

The Harbor Springs Rams, completly recovered from the flu, had no trouble with the visiting Boyne City Ramblers as they led 15-9 at the quarter, 31-21 at the half and 46-33 at the third period. Stan Pifer continued to pile up points with 21 for the game while Don Arner had 12 for the Ramblers.

Winter pruning of apple trees can help apple sales next fall, according to C. A. Langer, Michigan State college horticulturist. Careful removal of about a third of the lateral branches of big trees over 15 years old would open the trees to sun light, lighten the apple load and help produce bigger and better-colored apples to sell at better prices.

Floyd Rice Is Arraigned Here On Murder Count

Floyd Rice, 61, of Ferndale was arraigned in circuit court here Feb. 6 on a charge of murder and his case continued to the March term of court which opens March 2.

Rice stood mute before Judge Charles L. Brown and a plea of not guilty was entered by the court. March 3 has been tentatively set as the opening day of the trial.

Rice is charged with the murder of his good friend and hunting companion, Clyde Hughes, 47, also of Ferndale in Boyne City Nov. 30. The pair, accompanied by Rice's wife, Pat, were spending the Thanksgiving week-end at the home of Mrs. Rice's mother, Mrs. Mabel Gill, and during the day were deer hunting in the area.

The shooting occured in the yard of the Gill home late Nov. 30. Rice was picked up near Grayling by State police four hours later. He admitted the shooting, according to state police officers, but said he shot Hughes in self defense.

Since then he has been held without bond at the Charlevoix county jail.

Review Services Furnished By County Red Cross During 1952

The Charlevoix county chapter of the American Red Cross will launch its 1953 fund drive March 1 to raise a quota of $3,770, George LaBlance Jr. of Charlevoix, county fund chairman, has announced.

However, before asking for further funds to continue the work of the chapter, Mrs. Don Haig of Boyne City, chapter chairman, has requested that an account of the chapter's activities for 1052 be revealed so the people of the county may see what is being done to carry on the work prescribed by the Red Cross.

According to a report compiled by Mrs. H. W. Patrick of Boyne City, executive secretary and the chapter's only paid worker, the chapter handled 208 cases last year, 132 of which were new cases opened during 1952. In addition to this there were 129 requests not considered cases. Cases include such things as investigations for the military regarding servicemen, for the Red Cross is the only recognized liaison organization between the military and the civilian population, letters and telegrams regarding families of servicemen and other matters that demand investigations and reports. Requests are usually what the word implies, requests for information relating to a variety of subjects.

The chapter also has several programs which provida funds for servicemen, vetarans and civilian needy. One is the loaning without interest of funds to servicemen. During 1952 nina loans totaling $398.35 ware made. Five grants totaling $103.78 were made to veterans and sarvicaman's families who were in dire reed and who turned to tha Red Cross for aid. Among the grants was ona given to a vateran's widow so that she and her two small children, who were left without funds following his unaxpactad death, might raturn to her parants' home in the south.

During the year four families were given grants totaling $170.76 after losing their homes in fires. The chapter also helped collect clothing and furnishings for them and six other families and in some instances transported the things collected to their new homes.

In the water safety program, two Charlevoix county boys were sent to Aquatic school at the chapter's expense so that they might be trained as life guards to serve on beaches in the county. During the months when summer camps and public beaches have swimming programs the chapter handles all aquatic awards made by lifeguards throughout the county.

At Christmas time the chapter joined with other chapters throughout the country in providing "Christmas on the high seas" gift parcels so that servicemen enroute to and from overseas stations might have Christmas gifts. The chapter sent 10 parcels at tho cost of $25.00.

In June a successful Blood Procurement program was sponsored by the chapter under the direction of Mrs. R. G. Bennett of Charlevoix, blood chairman, with clinics in East Jordan and Charlevoix. The chapter set up the program and recruited volunteer workers who co-operated with the Michigan Department of Health mobile unit to secure 99 pints of blood from 108 registered donors. A percentage of this blood was turned over to the military for use on the war front and the remainder processed by the Health Department into plasma and fractions for use by the civilian population of the county, who received it without cost. One of the derivatives obtained is gamma globulin now used in the treatment of polio. The canteens, financed by the chapter during the clinics, cost $35.22.

Tha Junior Red Cross program in November raised $152.45. Of this $50 went to the childran's fund, $40 for enrollment fees and tha remainder was kept here for use in the county. Last year 55 gift boxes were packed by the children after tha chaptar had purchased the materials.

The Charlevoix county chapter has but one paid worker, an executive secretary, Mrs. Patrick, who operates the Red Cross office in Boyne City and who travels about the county where she is needed. All other workers are volunteers who give their time without compensation. The chapter offers 24-hour service on emergency calls every day in the year. Mrs. Patrick, as executive chairman, accepts calls at any time as do home service workers in East Jordan and Charlevoix. In East Jordan Mrs. E. H. Clark, who is also a director, is in charge of home service there. In Charlevoix Fran Martin is the home service worker.

County officers are: chairman, Mrs. Haig of Boyne City; secretary, Mrs. Hazel Fritz of Boyne City; treasurer, Mrs. A. L. Livingston of Charlevoix; directors, Mrs. Bennett Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Harry Watson of East Jordan, Mrs. Ross Alexander of Ironton, Mrs. Leo Jabolinski of Boyne Falls and Mrs. Frank Burns of Walloon Lake.

In 1952 the county raised a total of $3,607 with approximately 50 per cent remaining in the county to finance the Charlevoix county chapter. The remainder goes to help cary on the national program.

Walt Moore Leases, Garage

Walt Moore, local Hudson dealer, has leased the Louis Wallace display room and garage at 106 Antrim st. The new location will serve as show room for the new Hudson cars and all repair work and lubrication jobs will be handled in the garage.

The garage at the corner of Antrim and State streets, formerly operated as Hudson Sales and Service, will be converted into a shop for handling all kinds of auto body work, according to Moore.

Water Treatment Is Approved By Health Officials

The fluoridation of public water supplies to reduce the dental decay attack rate both in primary and permanent teeth has received the approval of the Michigan Department of Health following a seven-year experiment made in Grand Rapids, Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, director of District Health Department No. 3 announced recently.

This statement of policy on the fluoridation program was made after the experience with the controlled study of fluoride supplementation in Grand Rapids revealed the value of the procedure.

The most recent data shows that there has been a greatly reduced dental decay attack rate both in the primary and permanent teeth of the children in Grand Rapids consuming the supplemented water since Jan. 1045 when the study was initiated.

Reductions as high as 53 per cent in the primary dentition and 66 per cent in the permanent teeth of six year-olds has been obtained. Some benefits in decreasing amounts has been accrued to ohildren examined in the older age groups.

Grand Rapids is one of 24 communities of all sizes in the state of Michigan now adding fluoride compounds to the public waters. Another 14 cities including the city of Detroit have approved the program.

As the result of this study and the reports from many other studies in other states, the Michigan Department of Health and the local health department recommends the supplementation of all public water supplies in the state deficient in fluoride, Dr. Litzenberger concluded.

Mr. Schloop is in the office mornings and by appointment for the convenience of any who wish to consult him.

The young adult Fellowship has planned a "Fun Night" program for Thursday, Feb. 19 to replenish its treasury. The program includes games, a humorous play and refreshments. Dr. and Mrs. Whitten are in charge of arranging the program. Mrs. Howard Stephens is refreshment chairman.

Charlevoix High School Band To Participate In Festival

The Charlevoix high school band and its director, C. A. Odmark will go to Petoskey Saturday to participate in the District Band and Orchestra Festival sponsored by the Michigan Band and Orchestra Association.

The Charlevoix band will be aiming for its seventh successive first division rating which qualifies the group for participation in the State Festival at Michigan State college April 25.

The Charlevoix group, first division winners in state competition for the past three years, will appear before the adjudicators at 9:18 a.m. Despite the fact that the band will be under the handicap of the loss of 25 Seniors from last year's state champions, the band stands a chance of maintaining its perfect record in District Festival competition if the flu bug doesn't hit too hard, Mr. Odmark said this week.

Judges for the event will be Clifford Lillya of the University of Michigan Music faculty; Homer LaGarsey, supervisor of Instrumental Music in the city of Detroit; Norman Dietz, Central Michigan College band director and Paul Liddicoat, supervisor of Music at Muskegon Heights.

The 62-piece Charlevoix band will play the concert march, "Hall of Fame," by Olivadoti as its warm-up march followed by the "Grand Festival Overture" by Zamecnik as its selected number and the state required number for Class C bands, "Citadel", by Bennett.

Charlevoix will be one of nine Class C bands entered in the festival. The others are Harbor Springs, Onaway, Boyne City, East Jordan, Gaylord, Grayling, Frankfort and St. Ignace.

In addition there will be Class A entries, bands and orchestras from Traverse City and St. Ignace; two Class B bands from Petoskey and Rogers City and several Class D bands including Alanson and Elk Rapids.

In all 19 musical groups from 17 northern Michigan cities are entered in the festival making it the largest ever held in the district. Its growth portrays the emphasis and enlargement of the band movement in northern Michigan.

All sessions are open to the public without charge. Parents and friends are cordially invited to attend.

World Affairs Lectures Are Well Received

The concluding lecture in a series on World Affairs was delivered by Dr. George Kish, associate professor of geography at the University of Michigan at the high school auditorium Wednesday night.

He discussed the Problems of South and Central Europe, thus rounding out the series devoted to the 'trouble spots' of the world today. The series was presented as a part of the Continuing Education program offered by the Charlevoix high school in co-operation with the University of Michigan Extension Service.

Last week the class, which included many high school students, heard Dr. Nicholas M. Efimenco discuss the problems of the Middle East. After visiting the countries of the Middle East as a member of the University's Expedition, he had much interesting and enlightening information to offer on the area.

Others who have spoken during the series which has given those enrolled a new and enlightened, outlook on world politics and problems today, were Marshall M. Knappen whose lecture on The Foreign Policy of the New Administration opened the series and paved the way for the succeeding lectures. Henry L. Bretton discussed Problems of Western Europe and Ronald S. Andersen the Problems of the Far East.

Supt. R. G. Bennett reports a fine reception of the Continuing Education program offered by the school this year. Approximately 135 adults enrolled in the program which included not only the World Affairs series but several other commercial and homemaking subjects and driver training offered weekly at the high school. These classes will continue for several weeks.

Commenting on the coming campaign, Richards stated "This Easter Seal appeal raises funds to finance specialized care which enables crippled children to live lives closely approximating those we want most for our children. In the state of Michigan alone, there are some 34,000 children with orthopedic handicaps, some 162,000 with significant speech disorders, and some 170,000 physically disabled adults."

The unofficial goal for the 1953 Easter Seal Sale has been set at 400,000.

Local Scouts Win Honors In Annual Derby

Two Charlevoix Boy Scout patrols of Boy Scout Troop 1 entered the annual Klondike Derby at Petoskey Sunday and returned home with top honors.

They were the Apache patrol with Bob Pierce as patrol leader which captured two blue ribbons, one for proficiency and the second for their sled, and the Cobra patrol, with Larry Burns as patrol leader, which won a red or second place ribbon for proficiency and a blue ribbon for their sled.

The Charlevoix patrols were two of 25 patrols from throughout the area which participated in the Derby which started at the Petoskey winter sports park. The trail extended through the hills east of the park to four stations where each patrol was tested on wild life, first aid, fire building and knot and ice rescue techniques.

Following the Derby the participants were treated to refreshments furnished by the Petoskey Kiwanis Club.

Accompanying the Scouts were their new post advisor, Ted Miller and Frank Bird, E. B. Bowman and Kit Carson. The latter three served as judges.

Personnel of the participating patrols included Bob Pierce, patrol leader, Lawrence Bergmann, Clifford Pierce, Edward O'Neill, Fred Putman and Clarence Peters of the Apache patrol and Larry Burns, patrol leader, Kit Carson, Clayton Walker, Doug Reynolds and Charles Dennis of the Cobra partol.

A third patrol planned to enter but had a sled break-down so were unable to make the trip

Postpone Trial Of Floyd Rice To Later Date

The trial of Floyd D. Rice, 63, of Ferndale, charged with the murder of his friend and hunting companion, Clyde Hughes, 47, also of Ferndale, has been postponed to a later date, C. M. Bice, Charlevoix county prosecutor, said Wednesday.

The trial had previously been scheduled for the week of March 2.

Reason for the postponement is the absence of Dr. A. F. Litzenburger, Boyne City physician, who was called to examine Hughes after he was shot by Rice on the night of Nov. 30 at Boyne City. The shooting occurred in the yard of the Mabel Gill home where Rice, Hughes and Mrs. Rice, daughter of Mrs. Gill, were spending the week-end. Rice was captured by State Police near Grayling a few hours later and admitted the shooting but told police officers he had shot Hughes in self defense.

He has been held without bond at the Charlevoix county jail since Dec. 1.

He was arraigned by Judge Charles L. Brown in circuit court here Feb. 6 and his trial set for the March term of court which opens March 2. The postponement was requested by Mr. Bice when it was learned Dr. Litzenburger was in Florida for several weeks.

Red Cross Drive To Raise $3,770.00 Will Be Launched March 2

To finance expanded service programs, including the collection and processing of thousands of additional pints of blood for conversion into gamma globulin, a new weapon against polio, the American Red Cross will launch its annual fund drive March 1, George LaBlance Jr., 1953 fund chairman for Charlevoix county, said this week.

The chapter's quota for the drive is $3,770, a slight increase over recent years due to the expansion of the Red Cross defense blood collections for the production of gamma globulin which prevents paralysis in polio.

The Red Cross was asked to undertake the polio assignment last November by the Office of Defense Mobilization in an effort to meet the summer's epidemic needs. Additional costs to the Red Cross for equipment, personnel and processing account for most of the increase in the national as well as the county's quota this year.

In addition the Red Cross continues to carry on its work with the armed services and in disasters as well as the routine work on a chapter level.

In Charlevoix county the Red Cross, through the county chapter, offers services to the armed forces and to veterans and members of their families, a water safety program which provides qualified life guards for public beaches, a Red Cross blood program which not only includes a blood procurement program for plasma, whole blood and its fractions but also recruits blood donors when necessary, disaster assistance which in this county is confined to fire victims, and a Junior Red Cross program.

Approximately 50 per cent of the funds raised in the campaign will remain in the county to carry on the work of the county chapter. The remainder is used to continue the national program of the American Red Cross.

In Charlevoix the fund campaign has been organized by city chairman, Mrs. J. C. Marshall, whose volunteer workers are poised for the campaign's opening Monday. Mrs. Marshall has announced plans to conclude the local drive during the first two weeks of March.

Ward captains and their workers follow: First ward, Mrs. E. D. Hawley, captain; Mrs. Henry Ingalls, Mrs. Kit Carson, Mrs. Ralph Hess, Mrs. Edith Beaudoin, Mrs. Drew Young, Mrs. Leonard Burns, Mrs. H. In Class D games scheduled for the same tournament, Ellsworth will meet Boyne Falls at 7:15 Wednesday, prior to the Charlevoix-Boyne City game.

Central Lake, which drew a first-round bye, will play the winner of the St. Francis-Alanson game at 6 p.m. Friday and Bellaire, which also came up with a bye will meet the winner of the Ellsworth-Boyne Falls game at 7:30 Friday.

The Class D finals are scheduled for 7:15 Saturday night.

Class B teams will take over the hardwoods Thursday night with Alpena Catholic Central playing Cheboygan at 7:15 and Petoskey meeting Rogers City at 8:45 p.m.

The Rayders will be meeting an old adversary when they meet Boyne City next Wednesday. During the regular season, Charlevoix defeated the Ramblers by 49-34 and 46-40 scores. That, however, will mean little when tournament play starts for Boyne City has always come up with a strong tourney outfit.

Harbor Springs and East Jordan have each tallied one win in their meetings. East Jordan 50-38 in their first meeting and Tuesday night the Rams came back to defeat the Jordanites 79-66 so their meeting next Tuesday should tell the story.

The Two Types Of Worshipers

By Rev. G. R. Kars

There are two kinds of people who observe Lent. Not necessarily the good and the bad but those whose worship and service is accepted of God and those whose worship and service is rejected of God. It will be interesting to know to just which group we belong.

Jesus gives us a parable over in the 19th chapter of the Gospel according to Luke and verses 9 to 14 where He tells about two men: One a Pharisee; the other a Publican.

The Pharisee was a deeply religious man; Spent years studying the law; Well versed in the Scriptures: A moral, well behaved man. The Publican was a self-confessed sinner, holding nowhere near the prestige that his fellow worshipper possessed.

Now the parable goes on to say that both of them went up to the temple to pray and the Pharisee takes the limelight. Verse 11 says that "he stood and prayed with himself." He came to pray to God and ended up praying with himself." He was proud, boastful, self-righteous. He turned out to be a spiritual braggart. He starts his prayer out this way, "God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this Publican." This Mr. Pharisee judged himself by other people. He used his Publican friend as an example. Notice, he classes the Publican with the extortioners, the unjust, and adulterers. The Pharisee may not have been too far wrong in his condemnation of his fellow man but he had to bring Mr. Publican to the lowest moral level in order to impress God with his own worth and self-righteousness. In this we find he was terribly wrong.

The Pharisee continues his prayer by enumerating his good works. He says, "I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess." His good works are very impressive. We do not doubt either that what he said was the truth. But he was trusting in his accomplishments to save him and to get a hearing before God. There are many fasting and giving during this lenten season to merit divine favour and even salvation, but God's Word says in Romans 3:20 that "by the deeds of the law shall no man be justified" . . . "for by grace are ye saved through faith, and that, not of yourselves, it is the gift of God." (Eph. 2:8). Over in Romans 4:5 God tells us that "to him that worketh not, but believeth on Him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness."

The picture now suddenly changes. We see the Publican standing afar off. He realizes that he had sinned, and that the Pharisee's indictment of him was true. He realized that he needed God to have mercy on him and save him. He is so ashamed of his own unworthiness that he can't so much as lift up his eyes to heaven. And beating himself on the chest he humbly, and sincerely prays the sinner's prayer, — "God be merciful to me a sinner." Blind Bartimaeus was another man in the Bible who prayed that prayer and he received his sight. Something happened to the Publican too. Jesus says in verse 14, "I tell you, this man (the Publican) went down to his house justified, rather than the other."

The moral of the parable is quite obvious. To which class of worshippers do we belong?

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

ABOUT THE robins . . . more people have reported seeing them but Mrs. Harrison Trimble tells us they've been around here all winter . . . and that she's had trouble finding food for them . . . Seems they're fussy and won't eat just everything like the other birds . . . Mountain ash berries they consider a delicacy but they stick their noses, or should we say, bills, up at most everything else . . .

SEEMS THAT no matter where Charlevoix people go they attract other Charlevoix people and end up at a reunion . . . usually a picnic . . . That's what happened in California recently when more than a hundred people with roots in Charlevoix gathered at Glendale . . . So if your ears were burning on Feb. 15 . . . It's because you were being discussed by that crew in the west . . . And if you'd like to know who was there, there's a story on it elsewhere in the Courier . . . and from the Charles Emerys ,a big hello to their friends back here . . .

THE FIRST symptoms have been noted by the experts who are worried about the situation, for to date they have found no remedy for the ailment . . . So we are warning you to beware of the malady known as tournament fever . . . Yes, it's that time again . . . The drawings are this week and the race for tournament tickets will begin almost at once . . . Looks like a good district tournament with the Rayders, East Jordan, Boyne City and Harbor in on the first round . . . It's going to be tough for our lads but we're sure they've got what it takes . . . They've gotten past all the possible opponents at least once this year and they can do it again . . . And we're issuing the same warning we've given for a long time . . .

NOBODY WANTS to win more than those kids who make up the Rayder squad . . . They've played hard all year to prepare themselves for this one last scrap . . . They and Coach Terrill are prepared to give their all and will, so just keep that in mind when the tournament starts . . . You've had a good winter of basketball and the tournaments are just your reward for being good fans, so don't expect miracles . . .

EVERY LITTLE boy, at some time or other, must try his hand at barbering . . . Some give hair cuts to other kids . . . Some trim their own . . . The latter was the case of Ricki Miller who showed up in the first grade one day last week with the most unusual haircut . . . just hunks of hair gnawed out not just in front but all over his head . . . How he got the scissors to the back of his head no one can imagine, but he did . . . The last time we saw him he was on the way to the barber shop to have it 'evened up' a little . . . although we can't imagine how that was possible . . .

REMEMBER the picture and story we had on the twins last week . . . We recognized the twins by name but couldn't attempt to identify them so sent the picture to school where we were sure the teacher would know them . . . No such luck, however, so the identical twins had to be called in to identify themselves . . . So how could the rest of the world be expected to know them? . . . And our apologies to the Berg twins, Donna and Donald, who were inadvertently omitted from the group . . . They are the tenth set of twins in the public schools . . . No wonder the teachers look puzzled at times . . .

LOTS OF MAIL this week . . . A note from the John Schroeders with the news that they'd had dinner with the Dr. G. B. Saltonstalls, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitchell and their daughter, Mr. Bisbee of the Belvedere Bisbees and Jimmy Reis . . . who has recovered from his illness of last summer and looks fine, according to John . . . They also took in the G. M. Motorama which is a bigger show than the one in New York so must be something to see . . .

And from California a card from Mrs. Harvey Campbell who tells of visiting the largest tuna cannery in the world . . . Plus the news of a heat wave, 80 degree weather, millions of flowers and almost as many butterflies . . And in February . . . And Charlevoix with weather hovering around 20 degrees . . .

A note from the Dr. Russell Palmers who returned to Mexico after a time at McAllen, Tex . . . But it came on the most unusual card . . . a beautiful picture of a bull-fighter . . .

From Frankie Lagerman, stationed at Victorville, Calif., a letter and several pictures he'd taken at the Tournament of Roses parade . . . The most beautiful scenes done in flowers . . . We can't quite imagine it . . . And in the letter, news of seeing Ralph Hess Jr. who is stationed only 40 miles away, and plans to go to Frisco to see Itch Bennett . . . Expects to be sent to Pope AFB, N. C., in a couple of months so will make it home at that time. Our little Frankie's doing OK . . and it will be good to see him, as it is to see all the fellows in uniform . . .

A RECENT story in the Daily Hampshire Gazette of Northampton, Mass., has brought further fame to the "Collegiate Stompers" whose membership includes Bob Shanahan and Nick Hamilton . . . The clipping was given us by Mrs. James Flynn and tells the story of one of its players, Sam Ellsworth, who is credited with getting the combo on the Godfrey Talent Scouts show in December . . . Seems that Ellsworth who plays the bass fiddle with the band, prefers to follow his plans to get a city planning degree rather than become a band leader . . . In the story, which was accompanied by a picture of Ellsworth, is the tale behind the organization of the band with mention of our two members and their home towns . . . And after reading the story, we can understand why Nick and Bob were so hungry when they returned from New York after appearing with the Talent Scouts . . . Seems they didn't have a square meal while they were gone . . .

Colors, Fabrics, Discussed At Garden Club

The Charlevoix Garden Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harley Ochs to hear Mrs. Edward K. Shanahan present a lesson on colors and fabrics. In her talk she brought out not only the use of colors and fabrics in modern decorating but also the history of them.

Also of interest was a letter from Mrs. Jerry Finney of Birmingham, the former Virginia Ranger, who as a teacher in the Birmingham schools was selected by the Garden Club there to attend the Conservation Training School at Higgins Lake.

After attending the school each teacher had to write a letter to be sent to all Federated Garden Clubs telllng of the experience and what each gained from the school. She said it was one of the 'most meaningful and educational experiences she had ever had and as a result she had much more information by which to guide children in goals of conservation studies'.

She plans to attend a reunion of those who attended the school when the ways the information has been utilized will be discussed.

Area Breeder Group Elects New Directors

The Antrim-Charlevoix Breeders Association elected three new directors at their annual meeting held last month at Ellsworth. Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent reported. These new directors are Harold Thomas, East Jordan, Jerry Aardema, Central Lake, and Jack Peebles, Ellsworth. According to the by-laws of the association no director can be re-elected to succeed himself.

At the board of directors meeting held at Bud Best's at Ellsworth the officers for this association were elected. Dan Triplett was re-elected president, Jerry Aardema was elected vice-president and Elais Sommerville was elected secretary-treasurer. Glen McDowell is the inseminator manager for the association.

Jerry Aerdema, vice-president on the left, Elias Sommarville, secretary-treasurer and Den Triplett, president, look over the records of the Antrlm-Cherlevoix Artificiel Breeders association.

The associetion during 1952 had e very successful yaar. Over 1,000 first services were reported end meny new members joinad the essocietion during the year.

Some herd owners had reported trouble with artifical breeding. Others are having excellent results. Co-operation is the key word to the success in an artificial breeding program. The seinen must be in a good quality, the technique of the inseminator must be excellent, the health of the dairy cow must be very good and the herd owner should do all he can to help in the program. By the use of these excellent sires farmers can expect their production to increase considerably and thereby raise their net income.

Resaarch Aids All

Research, such as that going on at Michigan State college, aids every man, women and ehild, pointed out Dr. H. H. Kildee, dean-emeritus in agriculture at Iowa State college, on a recent visit in East Lansing.

Fertilizer production increases annually, but demand keeps ahead of it, remind Michigan State college soil scientists; it pays to order and accept delivery early.

Barn Accidents Can Be Avoided By Using Caution

Barns are where winter farm chores center and animals gather, and "good" places for bad accidents, warns Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County agricultural agent. Some precautions can save the time, money and pain that accompany accidents, he suggests, as well as guard farmers against some ways to put in labor short-livestock losses, and turn up cuts.

Some hazards and inconveniences may have been lurking in a barn for years, awaiting to be discovered and corrected, or waiting for a careless drudge to turn into a victim. The farmer who looks for troubles will find them, but when he has his eyes open.

Loosa objects thet cen fall on you or trip you into e fall, stumbling blocks like high door sills, jogs in floor levels, weak or "spring" boards, anything you can trip over should be ramoved. Solid, flat continuous floors don't cause accidents to fermars or lossas in livestock, raminds Rabman. A bigh door sill, for instenca, can cause mastitis in dairy cows.

It's never too late to clean house in the barn, except "after" the accident that cripples you so badly you can't. Alleyways and work areas are no place for feed, tools, harness, or carts. Don't work in the dark, the agent advises; see that dangerous corners and work areas are properly lighted. Avoid storing loose material overhead, especially pitchforks.

A sound stairway with a handrail is the best way to get into a haymow, especially if the stairway is kept clean. Using stairwells as feed chutes is a good way to provide uncertain footing. Feed chutes should be separate from stairs and have high-level guards around them in the mow.

Care In Seed Selection Will Pay Dividends

Special attention by Charlevoix county farmers to seed selection for oats and forages, the county'a two most important crops, will pay off, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent said today.

D. L. Clanahan, Michigan State college extension specialist in farm crops, says oats are the north's top grain crop, with 10 to 11 per cent of the land planted to oats. Nearly 50 per cent of the cropland is in forage crops.

Eerly plenting is importent for northern oets and variety is importent. Oats must be rust-rasistant to grow successfully year after year. Recommended varieties ere Clinton, Eaton, Bonhem and others that ere rust-resistant.

Annual new seedings of legumes must be of hardy northern-grown strains, recommended ones are northern-grown Grimm and Canadian variegated. Growers should check the seed tag for the place grown.

Bacterial wilt, a factor in alfalfa production, is more serious on some farms than others. Unless stands are to be left for more than two or three hay-cuttings years, other varieties may give greater tonnage than the wilt-resistant ones. Certified Ranger is recommended where wilt is a problem and stands are to be left longer.

Red clovar is en axcellant forage crop. Growers will see larger quentitias in the future of Kenland and Pannscott sead but Kenland has not yielded much higher in tests then locally-grown strains.

Seeding two to three pounds of bromegrass in the mixture per aere helps thicken the stand, helps the yield of older stands and, in pasture, may help in bloat control in cattle.

Chicks Should Be Ordered Now

Chicks must be ordered immediately if they are to get into egg production and have large eggs when the prices are best, reminds J. M. Moore, extension poultryman at Michigan State college.

Best prices for large eggs are paid from July to December and it takes eight months to bring a baby pullet to the large-egg stage. Chicks ordered today may not be delivered for three or four veeks, or more, or between March 15 and 30.

Reserves Stage Last Quarter Wins But Harbor Wins 42-38

The Charlevoix Reserves, despite a last quarter comeback when they scored 22 points, bowed to the Harbor Springs reserves 42-38 Friday night.

Starting for the little Rayders were Guy Swanson, Bob Mathews Gene Towsley, Joe Powell and Quint Walker with Joe Etienne, Charles Dennis, Gary Vandenberg, Kit Carson, Dick Elzinga, Bob Albright and Walt Pouquette also seeing action.

Harbor Springs got off to a fast start and racked up 12 points to the Rayders eight in the first period. Walker scored three points on a field goal and a gift shot, Swanson had one field goal and Mathews, Towsley and Powell added a gift shot each.

In the second period Charlevoix's scoring was confined to free throws by Towsley and Mathews as Harbor Springs took a 19-10 half-time lead.

Harbor continued to roll up points with 15 scored in the third period on six field goals and three gift shots to six for Charlevoix on field goals by Elzinga and Walker and free throws by Mathews and Pouquette. The third quarter score was 34-16.

Charlevoix caught fire in the last quarter and scored seven field goals and eight free throws to threaten as the game ended 42-36. Walker led the scoring with two field goals and two gift shots for six points; Swanson had five on two field goals and a free throw; Etienne added four on a field goal and two singles; Towsley and Mathews added two on a field goal and Carson connected on two free throws and Dennis added one. Harbor had scored eight points.

Walker led the Rayders scoring attack with 11 points; Swanson had seven, Mathews, five; Etienne and Towsley, four each; Carson and Elzinga; two each; Dennis, Powell and Pouquette, one each.

Larson had 14 for Harbor Springs.

The Little Rayders will conclude their season Friday against the Gaylord Reserves to whom they lost 35-34 in an earlier game.

Rayders Meet Gaylord Here Friday Night

The regular Northern Michigan Class C basketball season will end this week with the league champions, Charlevoix, hosting Gaylord; Harbor Springs traveling to Mancelona and Boyne City invading Pellston. East Jordan will meet a non-loop opponent Onaway, on the latter's floor.

On Tuesday East Jordan was to play at Harbor Springs in a make-up game.

If Harbor Springs is back at full strength with high scoring Stan Pifer back in the line-up they could give Mancelona another beating as they did in their first meeting when the Rams won 62-50. Regardless of the outcome, however, Harbor Springs is assured of its place in league standings.

Boyne City edged past Pellston by a five point margin in their first meeting but may find the going tough on the Hornets floor where, on occasion, the Pellston team has looked exceptionally good. The outcome will be a toss up despite the fact that Boyne City has three wins to Pellston's one.

Standings could be juggled in this last week. For instance, if Harbor Springs should defeat East Jordan Tuesday or Gaylord lose to Charlevoix on Friday either could drop to third place. However, if both lost they still would remain in a second place tie.

The district tournaments will follow the regular season with Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Harbor Springs assigned to the Petoskey tournament, Gaylord and Mancelona to the Gaylord tourney and Pellston to the Cheboygan meet.

Last Week With Class "C" Teams

The Charlevoix Rayders won their third consecutive Northern Michigan Class C title Friday night by defeating Harbor Springs 64-51 for a record of 10 wins and one loss during the 1952-53 season. The Rayders will conclude their current season Friday against Gaylord on the local floor.

East Jordan and Gaylord by virtue of wins over their respective opponents remained in a second place tie with only one game to go. East Jordan won over Boyne City 51-46 and Gaylord trounced Mancelona 76-60. In the other game Friday night Pellston bowed to Onaway 48-44.

In a game marked by fouls and the loss of four regulars with five fouls each, East Jordan led Boyne City 13-6 at the quarter, 20-19 at the half and 37-32 at the third period. Shorty Smith paced the scoring with 22 points for the Ramblers. Warren Frank had 17 for the victors. Don Arner was lost to the Boyne City line-up midway in the third period and Frank, Sammy Milstein and Steve Hayden to the Jordanites' line-up.

Mancelona never threatened as Frank Karwoski and Dick Riddle dumped in 18 points each for the Blue Devils who led 14-11 at the quarter, 32-20 at the half and 51-38 at the third period. Dick Derrer had 16 for the Ironmen.

Pellston trailed Onaway for better than three periods before going ahead 44-42 with two minutes to go. Onaway came back, however, in the closing minutes and dumped in three quick buckets for a four-point win. The quarter scores were 10-9, 23-18 and 38-30. John Schauffler paced the scoring with 18 points for Pellston. Tucker had 15 for Onaway.

As the season draws to a close, Charlevoix remains in first place East Jordan and Gaylord in second place; Harbor Springs in third; Boyne City and Mancelona tied for fourth and Pellston in fifth place.

Mrs. Grant Hastings

Stork Shower

Mrs. Peter Vander Slik and Mrs. Sam Kelly were hostesses at a shower for Mrs. Leonard Strange last Wednesday evening in the Vander Slik home. Appropriate games provided lots of fun and Polly received a lovely assortment of gifts.

The hostesses served a lunch at the close of the evening.

Post-Nuptial Shower

A post nuptial shower for Mrs. A. M. Peterson of Lansing was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Edson, Saturday evening, Mrs. Peterson will be remembered as Isabel Edson, a former resident of Ellsworth.

Games provided entertainment and after lunch was served Isabel opened her gifts and expressed her thanks to the group.

Hostesses for the party were Mesdames Henry Elzinga, William Patterson, Emery Wilson, W. L. Chellis Sr., George Koster and Grant Hastings.

Easter Concert Planned

Those of you who attended the special Easter Choir program last year will be glad to know that a similar program will be given again this year.

Members of the choir include residents of this and surrounding communities.

The choir, with Mrs. Jay Wind as director, and Mrs. Hans DeYoung, as organist, practices each Tuesday evening.

This special concert will be held at the Ellsworth Community Hall the evening of Easter Sunday and you may watch your paper for further details.

Mrs. John Boss, Arthur Drenth and Mrs. Grant Hastings are serving on the committee arranging details of the program.

Notice

Because of the basketball tourney, the Ellsworth sportsman club meeting next week on Thursday night, March 5 will be postponed.

Bentley Hill Farm Bureau

Bentley Hill Farm Bureau met Feb. 19 in the school house, getting an early start at the business meeting, with 24 present.

The tax on farm tractors was discussed and the group resolved that the tax on farm tractors be limited to a personal tax as long as possible. If changed to a weight tax and license, plus personal tax, we feel that the same personal tax should apply to trucks on the highway.

The Antrim County Farm Bureau Women will meet with Mrs. Harm Sitzema the second Tuesday in March. She would like to have all the Bentley Hill Farm Bureau women hand her the aprons they are making for Meadowbrook Hospital on or before that date.

Following the meeting Rose Carpenter, Lila Carpenter and Mildred Marchett served cherry pie, sandwiches and coffee.

Red Cross Kick Off Dinner

Members, friends and workers [illegible] 1953 Red Cross Drive which [illegible] next month are urged to [illegible] Annual Kick-off dinner [illegible] Bellaire [illegible] dining room [illegible] February 26.

Each community group is responsible for its complete menu for the potluck dinner and should also bring own table service.

[illegible] of Ellsworth will be toastmaster and an interesting program has been arranged.

Chamber Elects

The annual meeting of members of Ellsworth Community Chamber of Commerce was held on the evening of Feb. 17, at which were discussed several subjects of community interest.

Three new directors were elected for a term of three years! Andy Koover, Conrad Klooster and Fred Schoenfelder. The board now consists of the above three with Gerrit John Drenth, Charles Edson, John DeYoung, G. P. VanderArk, Wesley Shooks and Joseph Bugai. The board will meet within a short time to elect their officers, president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

The Chamber placed itself on record as being strongly opposed to construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. It was pointed out that the proposed project involved unwarranted waste of large sums of money with no prospect of compensating benefits to our communities. It was stressed that the Straits, because of their historic background and picturesque setting, have been a great attraction to people of many states, this asset contributing greatly to our economy and enjoyment; that this asset would be injured, if not totally destroyed, by the construction of a bridge.

Substantial proof was given that nowhere in our country new communities were built because of a bridge, like is claimed for Mackinaw and St. Ignace. That it is hard to find people sitting on benches near bridges watching the cars roll by, while many in both Mackinaw and St. Ignace enjoy the beauty of the Straits and watch the boats float by.

Rev. E. Boeve and William [illegible] expected to attend classes held in Muskegon Heights Christian Reformed church Wednesday of this week.

P.T.A. Open House At Banks School Is Well Attended

Ellsworth — A good number of parents and friends attended Open House at Banks P. T. A. Tuesday night, February 17. After the group had visited the different rooms and viewed the various exhibits, a short program was enjoyed. The girls quartet composed of Joan Edson, Sue Kaley, Roselynn Carpenter and Betty Lou James sang a few numbers.

Serveral members of Mr. Inman's speech class were introduced by Mr. Inman. Everett Fikse very cleverly gave a negro dialect reading, Marilyn Goeman, a dramatic reading "Little Boy Blue" and Karen Campeau gave a humorous reading on the difference of a boy friend teaching his best girl how to drive a car and a friend husband teaching the little wife.

Rev. Fikse of the Atwood Reformed church gave a short talk on the home and the teachers responsibility in the school; the parents, as the first teacher of their children, have the God given natural responsibility and authority and how they perform their duties with their children will determine how well the teacher can train them when they do start to school.

Mrs. Helen Marker of Bellaire gave a short talk on what the Red Cross is and will be doing and the need for a good response in the annual drive next month.

The Red Cross has been assigned the task of obtaining blood to provide the necessary derivative for fighting Polio and also has had calls on its funds because of the flood disaster in the Netherlands and vicinity.

Also, Mrs. Marker and Mr. Smith, superintendent of our school, announced that anyone wishing to enroll in the Adult First Aid Class may see Mr. Smith or Grant Hastings.

An offering of $20 was taken to give to the Polio Fund.

At the close of the meeting Mesdames Lynn Carpenter, Kenneth Peebles, Si Doctor, Jack Peebles, Pete VanderArk, Jake Tornga, Nathan Carpenter, Claud Fairman and John Tillotson served lunch, Mrs. Roy Strange also on the committee was unable to attend.

Mrs. Potter's room again received the money in the "Kitty" for having the largest percentage of parents present.

Wrong "Train" of Thought

Most of us knew the streamliner stopped about four miles from town last Thursday — but we didn't know why . . .

Seems the train was hurrying along, then came the screeching of brakes — some fellow had pulled the Emergency Stop cord.

When the conductor asked him why he did it, he said, "The train was just going too fast—I wanted to get you to slow down."

From where I sit, that streamliner has been going at that speed for the past seven years with a perfect safety record and the passengers have always been pleased. Now—along comes a fellow who wants the train to go at his speed. Some people are like that. Some still would begrudge another person's right to a temperate glass of beer even though that person wouldn't dream of flashing a "Stop" sign on their preference for, say, milk, coffee or tea. Respecting the rights of others is the only way we can keep "on the right track."

Mr. Farmer:

It takes a large volume of livestock to attract a large number of livestock buyers.

The Traverse City Livestock Commission sells more livestock than any sale in Northern Michigan.

The bigger buyers attend the Traverse City Livestock Auction, therefore you are assured the full market value when you consign your livestock to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. Red Cross Aids Nation's Blood Bank For Polio

The American Red Cross last week turned over to the Office of Defense Mobilization 1,714,096 cc of gamma globulin which will provide 245,000—average polio shots for national distribution by the ODM this coming summer to be used in the prevention of paralysis from poliomyelitis, George LaBlance Jr., Charlevoix county fund chairman was notified recently.

This was the first consignment of the blood fraction which the Red Cross will provide the ODM under an agreement of last December when the program was inaugurated in the national interest. The Red Cross is collecting the blood for production into gamma globulin and is paying for the fractionation processing and packaging, Mr. LaBlance said in making the announcement.

The Red Cross will continue to turn over to the Office of Defense Mobilization all supplies of gamma globulin as it comes from its laboratories. All allocations of gamma globulin will be made solely by ODM and all final distribution of the product will be the responsibility of the state health officers, the Red Cross spokesman emphasised.

Pointing out that although the allocation and distribution plan being projected will assure a supply of gamma globulin to communities where it is needed in every state, the Red Cross also emphasized that only through wise citizen participation can the program be successful.

Workers in Charlevoix county opened their drive Monday to raise funds to carry not only the expanded blood program necessary if a supply of the precious gamma globulin is to be stockpiled but also to perpetuate the organization's routine services. Among these are services to the serviceman, the veterans and their families: the water safety program: a blood procurement program to provide whole blood for the armed services and plasma for the home front: and disaster services wherever a disaster may occur.

Charlevoix county's quota for 1953 has been set at $3,770.

A report on the current drive will be made next week, Mr. LaBlance said.

In Charlevoix Mrs. J. C. Marshall is heading a corps of more than 60 workers who will visit all business places and homes in the city and the adjacent areas to receive contributions to the Red Cross.

The trial of Floyd D. Rice, 62, of Ferndale charged with the murder of another Ferndale resident, Clyde Hughes, 47, at Boyne City Nov. 30 has been set for March 30 by Judge Charles L. Brown.

Judge Brown set the new date Monday after C. M. Rice, prosecuting attorney, asked for a postponement when it was learned that Dr. A. F. Litzenburger of Boyne City was in Florida on a vacation trip. Dr. Litzenburger was called to examine the victim following the shooting and signed the death certificate.

The trial was previously scheduled for this week.

Rice has been held at the Charlevoix county jail without bond since Dec. 1.

Civic Leader Worked Hard To Promote New Industries For City

Charlevoix was shocked Tuesday by the unexpected death of its popular young mayor, John Knight, 45, who was found dead at his Belvedere Club home Tuesday morning.

Dr. L. E. Grate, family physician, said death was due to a heart attack suffered several hours earlier. Friends said Mayor Knight had been at his office in the city hall Monday and had complained of not feeling well at that time.

Funeral services will be held at Christ Episcopal church at 4 p.m. today (Thursday) with the Rev. Carl A. Hoch of Petoskey, pastor of the church, officiating. The body will be at the family home at 19 Belvedere Club until the hour of the funeral. Arrangements for burial will be made at a later date.

Members of the Charlevoix City Council will be honorary pallbearers. They are Harry Gebean, Dean Davenport, Harry Zeitler, Ray L. Kipke, Drew Young and Charles Bellinger.

All city offices will be closed Thursday due to the death of Mayor John Knight.

All business places will be closed during the hour of the funeral.

Mr. Knight first came to Charlevoix as a child with his grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John James Knight, and after many years as a summer resident, returned here in 1946 to make his home.

Shortly after returning here he built and operated the Michigan Cleaners and more recently the Knight Insurance Agency.

In 1947 he became interested in city government and in 1948 ran for the office of third ward alderman and won. He served in this office for three years before announcing his candidacy for mayor. After a stormy election campaign he was elected to the post which he has held since 1951. He was nominated without opposition for a third term in the recent primary election.

Last summer he was a candidate for Republican state representatives from the Charlevoix district and was defeated in the August primary election by incumbent Louis Anderson of Northport. More recently he was named as a delegate from Charlevoix county to the Republican state convention in Detroit.

As alderman and mayor he had only the interest of Charlevoix at heart. As a director of the Northwest Michigan Industrial Development Corporation and secretary of the Charlevoix Development Corporation, he worked diligently to bring new industry to Charlevoix in an effort to develop the area and to give year-round employment to Charlevoix residents.

He worked hard at the job of mayor and devoted his efforts to fulfiling the trust his constituents had placed in him.

Always interested in sports he served as chairman of the north-

Band Receives A Second Division Festival Rating

The Charlevoix high school band, directed by C. A. Odmark received a second division rating in the northern Michigan district Band and Orchestra Festival at Petoskey Saturday and thus saw it's string of six consecutive first division ratings come to an end.

Only one of the nine Class C bands entered in the festival, East Jordan was awarded a first division rating thus qualifying for the state Band and Orchestra Festival in Lansing in April.

Judges for the event were Clifford Lillya of the University of Michigan Music faculty; Homer LaGassey, supervisor of instrumental music for the city of Detroit; Norman Dietz, director of bands at Central Michigan college and Paul Liddicoat, band director at the Muskegon Heights high school.

One bright feature of the band's performance Saturday was a Division 1 rating for sight reading but this did not offset the 2 ratings received for concert performance.

Chief criticism was lack of rhythm and precision in the band.

Mr. Odmark said that while the band was disappointed, it had accepted the criticisms in good spirit and will probably be a better band because of it.

The Three Temptations

By Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop

The forty days of Lent are taken from the forty days which Jesus spent in the wilderness during his templation. There Jesus pioneered the way for overcoming evil.

The first templation has been called the "snare of the short cut." So John Bunyan in "Pilgrim's Progress" described a road which he calls "By-Path" which looks like a shorter, better road. For a while it runs alongside the right road, but after a while it diverges sharply from it. Everybody wants "bread". To seek it seems to be the purpose of living. We wonder if anyone really wants the Word of God. Yet man begins to live when he obeys it. Jesus blazed the way of obedience to the Word of God, and made it possible for us to follow Him.

The second temptation has been called "Playing to the Grand Stand". It is only natural to want to be popular, to win others' approval. But that desire has in it deadly peril. For it is possible to win appreciation by lowering one's standards. It is possible to have the praise of men and lose the approval of God. Jesus refused to play to the grand stand. He calls us to follow Him.

The third temptation was to become "the man on horse back". People are so hard to convince and even more difficult to change. Why not regiment the people of the world for their own good? [illegible] whole [illegible] revolted against the idea. However attractive, it was the way of the devil and not of God. For God seeks our love [illegible] growth in freedom and not cold and rigid organization, however efficient.

[illegible] we all face these same [illegible] possibilities. We may be shocked when we read about public servants who have taken [illegible] but we, too, are tempted to cut [illegible] there is a moral let down. But how do we climb [illegible] to integrity and honor? By turning back from the Short Cut and getting on the right path of living according to the Word of God.

Certainly, not all invitations to play to the grand stand come to our basketball team. How about the girls who are tempted to be popular with the young men they know by lowering their moral standards. How about the church people who can not refuse a social drink? How about the folks who like to see their names in print, but let someone else do the hard or disagreeable work? In a hundred little ways we are tempted to play to the grand stand. Let us remember there is Someone Else watching us play the game of life. Someone who does not judge [illegible] after the sight of his eyes, or the hearing of his ears, but with equity . . ." In the words of a wise man, "Two must always Lose a Third".

The temptation to be "the man on horse back" seems remote to [illegible] But every church, every community organization, every city [illegible] team. On the other hand the inclination comes to [illegible] We are willing to "let George do it", to [illegible] This is the kind of [illegible] Those who would [illegible] of freedom [illegible] to preserve [illegible]

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Feb. 24, 1953
Editor Charlevoix Courier

When there appears to be laxity in the business policy of our city I believe the people should be informed of the situation. With that in mind I request the Courier to print my criticism for their consideration.

Those responsible for the sale of electric power manufactured by the city nave refused to furnish me with electricity for an expansion of my business on the grounds that a previous occupant of the building I had rented still owed a delinqnent electric bill. City officials informed me that I can guarantee payment of the delinquent bill and get the electricity connected.

I maintain that if the city is operating its electric business on this type of legal technicalities (if it is legal) it is jeopardising the sale of its product and placing obstacles in the path of free enterprise. I have been paying a sizable electric bill to the city of Charlevoix every month for the last 8 years, which should be some assurance that my bills will be paid in the future. The attitude of the city in this case is as asinine as it would be for me to refuse to sell gasoline to the owner of a second hand car because the first owner of that car still owed me a gas bill.

If the taxpayers of Charlevoix are going to continue in the manufacture and sale of electric power the cost of operating a plant will be paid from the sale of power or it will be paid in the form of taxes. I, as a taxpayer, prefer to operate the municipal power plant at a profit.

Very truly yours,
Walter J. Moore

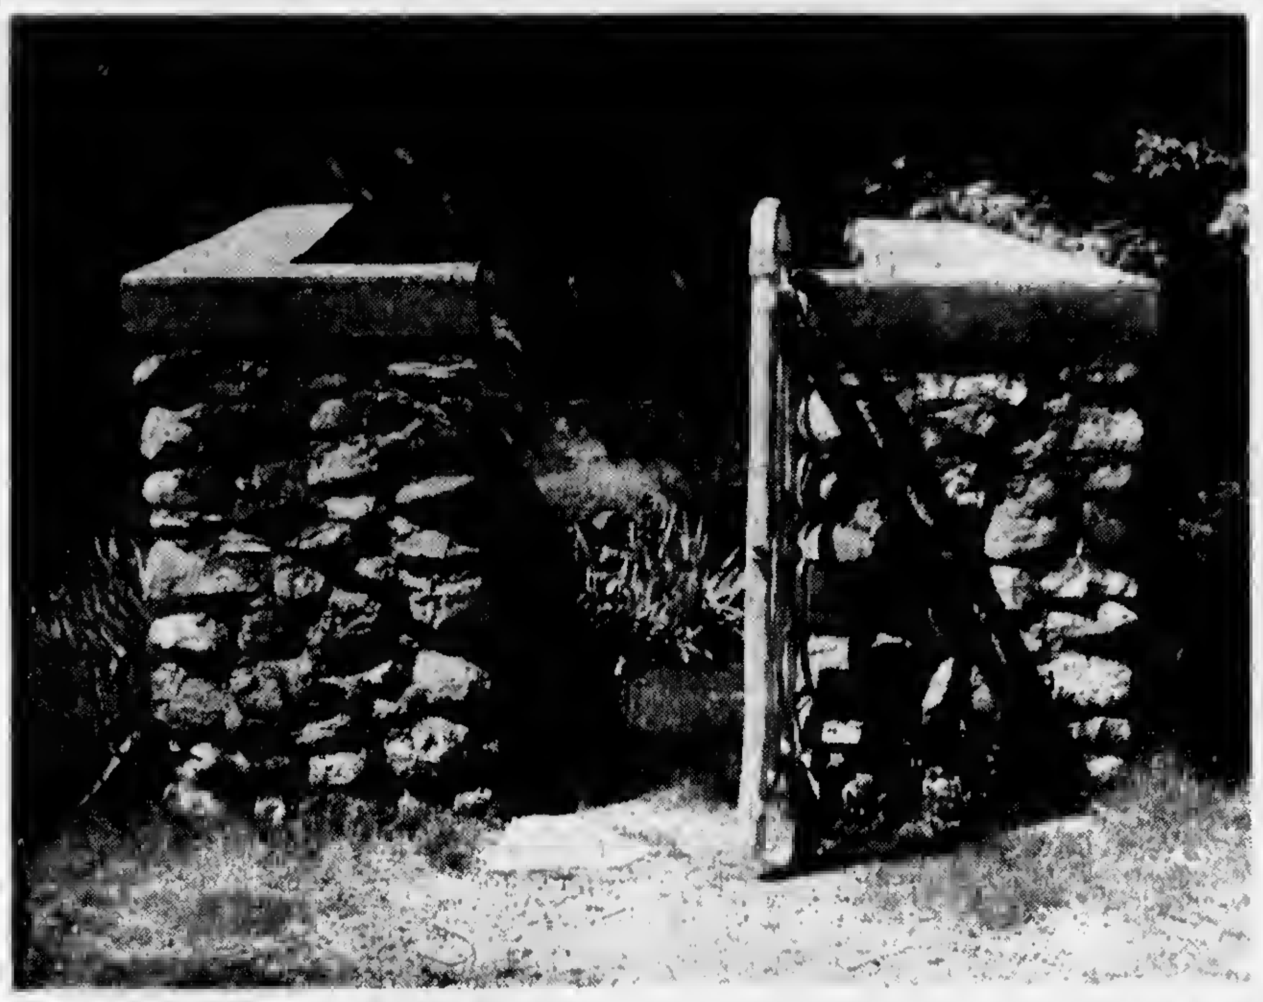
Beaver Island Residents Honor Feodora Protar



The field stone tomb built by grateful island residents at the grave of Beaver Island's good samatarian, Dr. Feodora Protar, the mysterious Russian exile who administered to the island's ills for many years.

During recent months much has been heard of the need of a resident doctor on American's Emerald Isle, Beaver Island, located 35 miles northwest of here in Northern Lake Michigan.

Through the efforts of its 360 year-around residents, the island now has a resident physician, Dr. Harry Vail of Bay City, who with his wife visited the island last week and who will return there in the near future to open his practice.

During the search for a resident doctor since Dr. Russell Palmer's retirement in October, the name of an earlier island 'doctor', Feodora Protar, has been heard many times and probably one of the first stories Dr. Vail will hear will be that of the mysterious Russian who gave medical care gratis to the island and residents almost from the time of his arrival in 1892 until his death in 1925.

Wednesday marked the twenty-eighth anniversary of his death and, as they have every year,, members of the older generations of island people made a trip to his field stone tomb located on his former farm five miles southwest of the island's only village, St. James.

The reason for this pilgrimage along the King's Highway to the little farm is best told in the bronze tablet which marks the tomb: "To our heaven-sent friend in need, Feodora Protar, who never failed us. In imperishable gratitude and adoration. His people of Beaver Island".

Why this strange man whom most believe was of Russian nobility selected this island in northern Lake Michigan for his refuge no one ever knew. They say that he left the lake steamer one day in 1892, a big man with a black beard dressed in a fashionable Prince Albert and a spotless white vest. He purchased an 80 acre farm in the country and settled down to make his home. He never once left the island during the next 33 years.

No one remembers how his medical skill came to light but shortly after his arival, someone needed medical care and received it from him. Those were the days when the island population, composed mostly of lumbermen and fishermen, was about 1,800 people and serious accidents were always happening. Soon Dr. Protar, as he became known, was much in demand as a physician and counsellor although after 1902 there was usually a resident doctor on the island.

James H. Gallagher, who was only a boy when the stranger came to the island to live, recalls how his parents always sent the good doctor fresh or smoked fish and other food because he would accept no other payment for his services. Others repaid him for his help in much the same way.

No one knows where Proter received his medical training but there are many even today who attest to his skill. There are those who believe Protar was an exiled Russian nobleman who, until the Russian Revolution in 1917, received an income from estates there. Others say that for a short time after coming to this country he published a Russian language newspaper in Rock Island, Ill. The Revolution ended his remittances and thereafter he was cared for by his grateful island people.

He was a generous man, others will tell you, who could always find some way to help a needy family.

In later years an old friend, a German doctor, came each summer to visit the doctor but no one knew where they had first known each other. There was a nephew, a Dr. Paul Kirsch of Rock Island, but he, too, kept his counsel during his visits to his uncle.

During his years in the Irish colony, no one ever invaded the privacy of this mysterious man so when death came to him at the age of 85 years on March 4, 1925, island friends who had cared for him in his last illness knew little more about him than when he first came to their shores more than 33 years before.

But on March 4 each year, those who remember him make the pilgrimage to the lonely grave in gratitude for the solace and care he had brought into their lives.

SELF-PRESCRIBING IS OFTEN "BAD MEDICINE"

Copr. Advertisers Exchange Inc. 1953

Diagnosing one's own ailments — and prescribing for them — is not only bad practice, it is bad medicine as well. Bodily symptoms are far too numerous and deceptive for an amateur to toy with. What may appear to be the sign of a trivial ailment may actually be indicative of a serious illness. And a symptom that frightens the "self-doctor" to death may be nothing at all. Don't play doctor when you have reason to be concerned about your health. Play it safe. See your physician because he alone is qualified to diagnose and prescribe what is "good medicine" for you.

Vandenberg-Potter Vows Exchanged In Single Ring Clandlelight Ceremony

Ellsworth — The Atwood Reformed church was the setting for a lovely wedding Friday evening February 27 when Martha Vandenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Vandenberg of Ellsworth became the bride of David Potter, son of Mrs. Ed Potter and the late Mr. Potter of Charlevoix. Rev. H. Fikse, pastor of the church officiated at the single ring ceremony, performed before the candlelighted altar, decorated with palms, evergreen boughs and clusters of white wedding bells.

Mrs. Hans DeYoung, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. James Vandenberg who sang "Always" before the entrance of the bridal party and "I Love You Truly" just before the vows were spoken. She also sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt following the speaking of the vows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was lovely in a white bridal satin gown, fashioned with a fitted bodice, featuring a sweetheart neck line and long sleeves coming to a point over the wrists and with a full gathered skirt ending in a long train. Her finger tip veil of illusion was held in place with a tiara of simulated pearls and rhinestones. Sha wore a strand of pearls ano carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with pink rosebuds.

Esther Heeres, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant and she chose a mint green formal of net over taffeta and carried a colonial bouquets of pastel pink carnations.

Franklin Potter of Charlevoix, a cousin assisted the groom as best man and Nathan Boss and Pet Potter also of Charlevoix, seated the guests.

The men of the bridal party wore white carnation boutonnieres.

Mancelona First In District To Add Fluorides Drinking Water Supply

Mancelona with a population of 1,000 recently became the twenty-fifth city in Michigan to approve the addition of flourides to its municipal water supply, Dr. A F. Litzenberger, director of district health department No. 3, has announced.

Mancelona is also the first city within the jurisdiction of District Department of Health No. 3 to join the program.

Michigan is one of the leading states in the use of flourides to prevent tooth decay and ranks first in the nation in the direct application of flouride and second or third in the flouridation of public water supplies, Dr. Litzenberger continued.

The total population of flouriding cities is 786,856, comprising 20 per cent of the people of the state served by municipal water supplies.

Programs for the application of flouride solution directly to the teeth have increased from 52 centers in 1951 to 105 centers last year. Michigan is the only state using dental and dental hygiene students, under supervision, in giving this protection to children.

Direct application of flouride will prevent an average of 40 per cent of new decay. Floridation of water will prevent as much as 66 per cent of tooth decay in children who drink the water during their first eight years when teeth are forming.

Application blanks together with complete rules fo rthe 1953 Blue Cross Nursing scholarship contest, are available through high school principals, schools of nursing, Blue Cross district offices or by writing directly to the Michigan League for Nursing, 557 Hollister Bldg., Lansing, 8. Michigan.

Completed applications must be returned to the Michigan League for Nursing on or before April 15, the contest deadline.

The competition will be conducted by the Michigan League for Nursing, official state-wide organization of the nursing profession. Winners will be determined on a merit basis by a Special Nursing Scholarship committee.

Higher Output Of Cows Now Price Problem

Causes for the current milk production surplus in Michigan and other states in the nation's "milk-bucket area" are very evident. But the cures are well hidden and rather complicated, Michigan State college agricultural economists find.

Gerald Quackenbush, dairy economist at M.S.C., points to increased production per cow and more cows in the herds as a prime reason for 0.3 percent greater milk production now than a year ago in the north central states.

Behind this is the mild winter weather, more liberal feeding of concentrates and the failure to send low-producing cows to slaughter. Poor cattle prices cause less culling.

A Flint dairy firm surveyed and found its producers with an average of 16 cows in the herd compared with 11 two years ago.

Southern dairymen are feeding 15 percent more concentrates than a year ago and despite the drought cutting hay and pasture yields, herds in those areas are producing more than a year ago. That's true everywhere in the United States.

Although "beefing" prices are off from one-fourth to one-third from peak prices, economists believe closer culling is the answer. Too much surplus, which must be turned into butter, cheese and dried milk for government purchase at support prices, could hurt the dairy industry.

Should Look For 'Nematodes' Here

Muck farmers, market gardeners and nurserymen should be alert for sneak thieves in the ground — microscopic "eel-like" organisms called nematodes, cautions Dr. Robert E. Lucas, soil scientist at Michigan State College.

Blamed for extensive damage in many southern states, these nematodes also operate in Michigan. One group called "rootknot" nematodes causes chubby, dense root growth and root galls in celery, onions, carrots, tomatoes and parsnips.

Transplants should be examined before being used, advises Dr. Lucas. All equipment should be cleaned of infested soil when changing fields. Seedbeds should be steam-sterilized or fumigated Fumigants include methyl bromide, ethylene dibromide and ditural agents can advise in this control work.

District Extension Workers Hold Meet

Extension Service representatives from 10 northern Michigan counties gathered in Gaylord last week for a one-day district council and district board meeting.

Among those attending from Charlevoix county were Mrs. Sims Baker of Charlevoix, district chairman of the Advisory council of Home Demonstration work; Curtis Nicloy of East Jordan, Agriculture extension service; Mrs. Harry Sloop of East Jordan, county Home Demonstration Extension service and K. C. Festerling of Petoskey. 4-H Extension service.

Present Awards At Annual 4-H Meeting

A record turnout of 4-H leaders met for their annual meeting last week at East Jordan, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent announced today. The 4-H leaders group were treated to a chicken dinner as a reward for their service to the 4-H club program in Charlevoix county.

Mrs. Henry Erher of Boyne City and president of the association was in charge of the program. The recreation for the evening was under the direction of six leaders of the peninsula 4-H club. These leaders had recently attended a recreation school at Bellaire and they presented to the group some of the latest in games and entertainment for 4-H club members.

Mrs. Paul Hufford of Petoskey gave a report to the group on the state 4-H council meeting held at Lansing the last week in January. Mrs. Hufford represents the northern part of lower Michigan on the state council. Mrs. Emma Reinbold, home demonstration agent gave several suggestions to clothing leaders in preparation of 4-H achievement day.

The spring 4-H Achievement Day this year will be held at the Charlevoix high school. Exhibits and materials will be set up after school on Tuesday, April 7. Judging will take place that evening and during the next day. Amalia Vasold and Kenneth Ousterhout, assistant state 4-H leaders, will be the judges. The program which will be opened to the public will be held Wednesday evening, April 8 starting at 8:00 p.m.

Several awards were passed out by K. C. Festerling, district 4-H club agent. Mrs. Sadie Liskum from East Jordan received a 15 year leadership pin. Mrs. Leatha Larsen also of East Jordan received a 17 year leadership pin. These pins are furnished by the New York Central Railroad. The Michigan Farmer makes a paper weight available to the outstanding, all around 4-H club Girl and 4-H club boy. The winners of these were Joyce Fiedler of Charlevoix, who has eight years of 4-H club work and Joe Martincheck of Charlevoix who has seven years of 4-H club work.

General Mills also makes available to outstanding 4-H club members in cereal projects two awards. Both of these awards were won by girls from Charlevoix. Carolyn Stoel received a baking set as being the county champion winner in the cereal baking contest. Jean Swanson received a table service for six and table cloth for her outstanding work in cereal cooking.

New officers were elected by the group for the coming year. Mrs. Robert Straw of Charlevoix was named president. Mrs. Agnes Healey of East Jordan vice-president, and Mrs. Homer Nasson also of East Jordan was elected secretary-treasurer.

Chickens need a good supply of vitamin D to make use of the calcium in oyster shells, point out Michigan State college poultrymen. Fish oil provides both vitamins A and D.

Report Records Of "400" Club Potato Growers

Records of 154 Michigan potato growers who raised more than 400 bushels per acre have been reported to the farm crops department at Michigan State college. Forty per cent went over 600 bushels. The 48 seed growers averaged 498 and the tablestock men averaged 526.

This is the second year that this group has been known as the "400 club", Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, notes. From 1922 to 1950, it was called the Michigan 300-bushel club but qualifications have been raised, explains D L. Clanahan of the M.S.C. farm crops department.

The club is organized to encourage the most modern production methods and to honor the growers who put the methods into good use. In 1052, Frank Falkies of Delta county set a new state record, 1,083 bushels per acre on 13 acres. He has been growing potatoes for six years, averaging 826 bushels per acre. He was state champion in 1947 with 795 bushels, in 1048 with 847 bushels and in 1952 with 1,083 bushels.

Rebman believes Charlevoix county growers would like to know how growers made these record yields. Falkies had his field in alfalfa bromograss sod, pastured in 1051. He used 38 bushels of certified seed per acre and planted them May 12. Fifteen loads of manure and 800 pounds of 0-12-12 fertilizer preceded the potatoes. The field was cultivated twice and a weeder was used twice. Sixteen fungicide sprays for plant disease control and four with DDT for insect control were included.

Farmers using electric welders should make sure the wiring is adequate, floors dry and the welder properly grounded, urges David G. Steinicke, safety specialist at Michigan State college.

Foods enriched with synthetic vitamins are as nutritionally valuable as natural vitamins, advise Michigan State college home economists.

Winter Grass Institute To Be Next Week

Grass will be enthroned as king of profitable farming as farm folks join Michigan State College extension specialists in the 1953 Winter Grass Institute, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent said. These institutes are a follow-up on the Grass Day's held last June and are being held only in those counties that held a Grass Day in 1952. Ways to gain profit from pasture, to improve storing of silage and how to use forage feeds to best advantage will be discussed at the institute.

Farmers from Charlevoix and other neighboring counties in this area will gather at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, March 12 at the Lincoln school gymnasium located one block northeast of the Junction U. S. 31 and M 131 in Petoskey.

A motion picture, dealing with all phases of grassland farming and provided by the College Grass Day committee will be shown from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m., according to R. S. Lincoln, the host county agricultural agent. The morning program will also include discussion on "Soil Management for Higher Forage Yields" by E. D. Longnecker, soils specialist; "Managing Forage Crops for High Quality" by D. L. Clanahan, farm crops specialist, and "Harvesting and Storing Forage for High Quality" by R. G. White, agricultural engineering specialist.

Luncheon will be served at noon by the school hot lunch department for 75 cents per plate. All people attending will register and have an opportunity to purchase luncheon tickets as they arrive. Included in the long lunch hour from 12 to 1:30 p.m. will be a chance to see grass, hay, silage and allied exhibits and the judging of grass silage and hay samples brought in by farmers.

A discussion on "Feeding Forages For Greater Profit" will open the afternoon program at 1:30 p.m. This discussion will be led by Donald Murray, dairy specialist and W. L. Finley, animal husbandry specialist.

Of special interest from 2:30 to 3:00 p.m. will be a round table discussion on Profitable Pasture Production. Farmers on the panel will include James Griffen and Everett Shepard of Harbor Springs, Kenneth Bare and Robert Williams of Petoskey and Stanley Vorce, Cross Village, Charles T. Lathers of Bratns will be the panel leader.

Will Hold Hearing Next Thursday On Red Cherry Rules

A hearing will be held by the Michigan Department of Agriculture in the Pantlind Hotel, Grand Rapids, Thursday, March 12, to discuss the department's regulation requiring compulsory grading of all red tart cherries sold for processing.

The hearing to be conducted by Director Charles Figy, will start at 10:30 a.m.

The regulation was promulgated by the Department of Agriculture in the spring of 1952 following requests received from both growers and processors.

The regulation makes it unlawful to sell red tart cherries for processing unless such cherries have been graded by Federal-State inspectors.

The hearing will be for the purpose of hearing testimony on whether the regulation should remain as now written, or whether changes should be made in it.

Any grower or processor may attend the hearing and offer such information as he may have.

Work Of Home Demonstration Service Told

"Knowing your Co-operative Extension Service In '53" has been adopted as the organizations theme for the year by the Co-operative Extension Advisory Boards.

The theme was adapted in an effort to better acquaint the public with the work being accomplished by three Services which compose the Co-operative Extension Service. They are Home Demonstration, Agriculture Extension and 4-H Extension.

This week Mrs. Sims Baker, district chairman of the Advisory Council of Home Demonstration work, will explain the work of the Home Demonstration Service its aims and its operation.

During the year a variety of subjects are studied in the lessons taught to leaders who in turn bring the information to the 15 Home Demonstration groups in the county. Among the topics are sewing, cooking, nutrition, home decoration, family relationships, health, gardening and landscaping.

Each lesson is taught by Mrs. Emma Fero Reinbold, Home Demonstration agent, or by a specialist from the Michigan State College Extension Service.

Each of the 15 groups in the county has from eight to 14 members with a total membership of more than 300 women. Each club has its own officers plus two leaders who attend county leaders meetings and return to the club to instruct the members.

In Charlevoix county each member pays dues of 25 cents per year. Twenty cents of the total remains in the county to finance the organization's activities [illegible] and to help pay the expenses of the county delegate to the Homemaker's Conference in Lansing in July.

Three of the remaining five cents goes for state dues and two cents to a scholarship fund which [illegible] two $150 Home Economics scholarships each year at [illegible] State college.

Appeal For Aid For Victims Of Holland Flood

The governor of Michigan, G. Mennen Williams, designated the month of March as the Netherlands Emergency Relief month. He called upon the mayors, village presidents, township supervisors, and other civic officials to form local Netherlands flood relief committiees "to spearhead the efforts in every part of the state." Three nations of western Europe, England, Belgium and Holland, were struck by a gigantic catastrophe, almost without warning. By far the worst loss of life and property is being experienced by the Netherlands. Its age-old enemy, the sea, has won its greatest triumph over the Lowlands in five centuries. According to present estimates the toll of lives lost will reach as high as 2000. One-sixth of the area of Holland, one fourth of its arable land, is under water and saturated with ocean salt. Property damage has been described as "appalling."

According to the latest report, nearly 400,000 Dutch people are homeless and 700,000 others are said to be in distress. A minister from The Netherlands writes the following: "The sufferings experienced are worse than terrible. Entire families have drowned and men and women have seen their loved ones perish in the waves. In one village more than 300 men were caught by the swirling water, while they were busy with repair work, and were drowned together. We are being afflicted sorely in our national existence. The present calamity is comparable with that of war-days, in some respects worse . . ."

I am sure that not only the people of Dutch descent, but all the people of Charlevoix sympathize deeply with Holland. Several clothing drives are already in progress, but the latest reports tell us that money is needed rather than food and clothing. It was decided therefore that the churches in this area take a special offering for this emergency need on Sunday March 8. Most of our local stores will also give everyone an opportunity to contribute to the relief of the flood victims. Can we count on you to help those who have been impoverished?

The Netherlands Flood Relief Committee of Charlevoix,
Rev. J. Bekkering, chairman.

Mayor To Be Chosen By Slips, Write-Ins

Two alternatives were offered this week to the problem of filling the vacancy in the Republican candidacy for mayor in the April 6 general election following the death of John Knight, who was nominated for the post in the recent primary election.

Norman D. Ance said that any qualified person could become a candidate for the office by running on slips or stickers or having his name written in on the ballot or the city committee of the Republican party could select a candidate and place his name on the ballot. However, since the city does not have such a committee, the first method will likely be used.

Since the ballots have not been printed it would be possible to use either method.

In either event, any qualified person may be a candidate for the office by running on slips or stickers or by having the electors write in his name on the ballot. If this is done no petitions are required.

On Wednesday no one had actually declared his intention to run for the office. However, Harry Gebeau, third ward alderman, said he had been approached by a local group and had told them that if they chose to promote him for the office, he would accept the post if he were elected.

Importance Of Conservation Is Explained

The week of March 8 through March 15 has been designated as "Join a Sportsmen's Club" week by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Kit Carson, president of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club announced this week.

Efforts of local club members will be devoted to gaining new members to the local club and to publicizing the work of the group.

In proclaiming this "Join a Conservation Club" week, Governor said "Michigan is blessed with an abundance of natural resources,—beautiful lakes and streams, fertile soil, a profusion of trees, plants and shrubs and many forms of wildlife.

"Since these natural endowments are in no small way responsible for Michigan's economic and cultural development, it is highly important that they be properly conserved for the enjoyment of this and future generations.

"To increase our awareness of this natural heritage and to stimulate our interest in its protection and preservation, conservation clubs have been organized throughout Michigan to impress upon our people the wealth of our outdoor heritage and the determination with which we must preserve it for the future."

All citizens who are interested in adopting methods of utilizing the natural resources of our state to be the best advantage are urged to get in touch with the local conservation club and to extend their support in achieving these ends, Mr. Carson concluded in commenting on Governor Williams' proclamation.

Drive For Red Cross Fund Is Underway Here

Disaster strikes in Arkansas and immediately the nation-wide resources of the Red Cross are mobilized for aid to the victims.

A Michigan serviceman in Korea needs advice and help with a problem at home and gets it from a Red Cross field director, attached to his unit.

An accident victim in Charlevoix county receives life-giving blood plasma collected earlier through the cooperation of the Charlevoix county Red Cross chapter and the Michigan Department of Health.

Every day throughout the nation and the world the Red Cross contribution you make here at home is at work . . . in your behalf . . . to relieve distress, save a life, comfort the stricken. Your dollars make Red Cross service possible wherever and when ever it is needed.

At the present time the annual fund drive is being held in Charlevoix county to raise $3,770 as the county's share to perpetuate the many services of the Red Cross.

In Charlevoix a total of $478.00 had been contributed at noon Monday, Mrs. J. C. Marshall, local chairman, reported.

The drive will continue throughout the month to accept your contribution to this humanitarian cause.

Rayders Lose To East Jordan In District Finals By 43-42

The Charlevoix Rayders, playing without regular forward Bill Bennett, who was out of the line-up with the flu, bowed to the East Jordan Red Devils 43-41 as the latter won the Class C district title at Petoskey Friday night.

East Jordan, by virtue of their win, advanced to the Class C regional tournament at Petoskey this week.

The district finals marked the conclusion of the high school athletic careers for three Rayders Dean Davenport, Bill Mosler and Jim Lewis, all Seniors who played important roles in Rayders successes during the past season.

The game at Petoskey Friday night was not without its dramatic moment. East Jordan, with less than a minute to go and holding a one point lead, went into a last minute stall. Dean Davenport in the closing seconds gained possession of the ball and started down the floor when he slipped and as he did he passed to Bill Mosler who scored. However, 'traveling' or 'steps' had been called on Davenport as he slipped and therefore the final basket did not count. The players and fans had not heard the official's whistle and for one brief minute, it was thought Charlevoix had won.

In the starting line-up for the Rayders in the all-important game were Dean Davenport, Bill Mosler, Mark White, Jim Lewis and Gordon Mol, who replaced Bennett. Dave Glassford also played.

East Jordan got off to a fast start and held an 11-8 first period lead on four field goals and three free throws. The Rayders' scoring had been on one field goal and a free throw by Lewis, a field goal by White and three free throws by Mosler.

Charlevoix had their best quarter during the next eight minutes when they scored 14 points for a 22-21 half-time lead. Davenport had scored three field goals, Mosler had one lay-up shot and two free throws and White and Mol had one field goal each. East Jordan had scored five field goals.

The Rayders continued to lead 32-28 as the third period ended. White had scored two long shots from the side and Davenport and Lewis had three points each on a field goal and a free throw apiece.

East Jordan had only seven points on a field goal and five free throws.

The four point lead the Rayders had as the period ended was the biggest point spread of the game but it was short-lived as East Jordan scored two field goals to tie the score 32-all as

The return of Grayling to the league will bring the membership to eight schools. The others are Pellston, Harbor Springs, Boyne City, East Jordan, Mancelona, Gaylord and Charlevoix.

Announce Local Cost Estimate To Add Fluoride

Fifteen years ago the mystery of why civilized man's teeth continue to decay, despite better health and better nutrition, bade fair to remain unsolved.

But then came a series of discoveries, almost accidental in nature, that pointed the way toward a hitherto unsuspected method of prevention . . . the fluoridation of water.

Extensive investigations and experiments following this initial discovery show that, measured in terms of health, the benefits resulting from the addition of a specific amount of fluoride to the drinking water are great. Two thirds less tooth decay; better, more attractive teeth and a reduction of illnesses due to maladies caused by dental abscesses and infections head the list of benefits.

Figures released this week by the District Department of Health No. 3 show that for an annual investment of approximately 16.3 cents per person, Charlevoix can add the necessary fluoride salt to the water to bring greatly improved dental health to the younger children.

The estimated cost of 16.3 cents per capita per year is based on the use of a million gallons of water per day by the community's 2,695 year-round residents (1950 census).

The cost of the feeding machine which adds the fluoride salt to the water supply is between $1,000 and $1,500. An estimated 14 pounds of the recommended flouride salt will be required daily. At the cost of .086 per pound, the salt would cost $1.204 per day or $439.46 per year.

As the fluoridation is continued, more and more children will be protected until eventually all who have drunk the water from birth will be benefited to the highest degree.

Plan Memorial Fund For John Knight To Buy Kipke Field Lights

Plans to establish a John Knight Memorial Fund to light the football field at Kipke Field have been inaugurated by friends of the late Mayor who died unexpectedly at his home here last week.

In searching for a suitable memorial, friends remembered his interest in sports and his hopes of lighting the field for night football. After consulting Mrs. Knight and receiving her whole-hearted approval of the project, initial plans to start the fund were made at a meeting of a small group at the city hall Sunday afternoon.

On Monday the proposed memorial was discussed with Supt. R. G. Bennett who presented it to the Board of Education. In a resolution adopted unanimously, the Board voted to accept a John Knight Memorial to light the football field and any additional facilities the fund may provide. However they asked that specifications for the facilities be presented to them for approval and that the project be completed before it is turned over to the school.

Contributions to the fund may be deposited in the John Knight Memorial Fund accounts at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank and the Charlevoix County State Bank or mailed to Fran Martin, acting secretary-treasurer. Names of others to whom payments may be made will be announced later.

A public meeting to complete the organization of the fund committee will be held at the City Hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 17 to elect officers and a board of directors.

Clifford Riley was named temporary chairman and Fran Martin acting secretary-treasurer at the meeting held Sunday and attended by William Lusk, Don Meggison, Jack Warner, Danford Gallagher, Jerome Whitley and James Willis.

Mr. Riley and Mr. Whitley were appointed to a committee to obtain estimates and plans for the project. They will report on their findings at the general meeting Tuesday.

Completion date for the installation of the lights on the football field has been set for September, 1953.

Fluoridation Proposal To Be On Ballot

The Charlevoix City Council, meeting Monday night for the first time since the untimely death of Mayor John Knight, adopted a resolution expressing their sorrow over his passing and their gratitude for his years of public service.

The resolution to be sent to his family and spread upon the minutes of the City Council recognized his service to the city as third ward alderman and later as mayor "during which time he served Charlevoix faithfully and well, giving tirelessly and generously, of his time, funds and ability in relentlessly working for the industrial development of the city and the economic improvement and general betterment of its citizens in the highest tradition of civic service."

In other action taken at the regular meeting Monday at which Harry Gebeau, mayor pro tem presided, the council approved the sale of 44.34 acres of land in Charlevoix township east of M-66 to I. T. Quarnstrom of Detroit for $3,326.25. The property was sold with the understanding that a factory building with a minimum of 6,550 sq. ft. floor area would be built on the site within a year or the property would revert to the city.

A proposal to fluoridate the city water supply to reduce tooth decay was studied before the council decided to submit the issue to the vote of the people in the April 6 general election.

Nelle A. Hammond; Hugh Mayne and Norman Ance were named election commissioners for the coming general election.

Bills totaling $9,996.96 were approved and ordered paid.

True Devotion

By Rev. George L. Majors

Just a few days before the crucifixion, in the very shadow of the cross, Jesus dined with his friends in the home of one Simon the Leper, in the little village of Bethany, a suburb of Jerusalem two miles out. While he sat at meat something rather unusual took place. A woman having a box of precious ointment stepped up to Jesus, and breaking the box open she poured the oil upon his head.

This would be thought of as a strange compliment today, but at that time it was considered quite proper as a means of expressing the highest degree of respect. However there were those sitting by who saw no reason for this lavish display of devotion and considered it a waste of money which might have been put to better use.

The striking thing about this incident is not so much the act of this woman, nor the reaction of those who criticized, but the motive behind her act. That which prompted her to do as she did could be nothing less than her recognition of Jesus Christ as the Divine Son of God, with some understanding of his mission, and a sense of what was to follow.

Here is the all important point of the Christian faith, the very heart of the gospel, the key-stone of the Christian structure — the Divinity of Christ.

Many today are willing to acknowledge him as a great moral teacher, a good man, or a great prophet, and indeed he is all of this but more. He is the Divine Savior sent into the world for the express purpose of giving his life as a ransom for sin. The angel said, "thou shall call his name Jesus for he shall save his people from their sins".

Isaiah the Prophet writing some five hundred or more years before the birth of Christ said of him, "He is despised and rejected of men", and so he was. He said, "He is a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief" and so he was. He said "Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. He was sounded for our transgression, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed"

"When I survey the wonderous cross
On which the Prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.
Were the whole realm of nature mine
That were a tribute far too small;
Love so amazing so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all."

Attention Voters!

A qualified person is to be elected for Mayor by slicker or by writing the name on the ballot.

For the last three years considerable time and effort has been made to bring Industries to the city, which we all appreciate and are very thankful for. But we neglected our tourist trade.

A hearty "Welcome" is to be extended to the tourists and to bring them back to our beautiful Charlevoix.

The Mayor will have to be a man that will protect the taxpayers. Taxes are too high and the way things look, they will go higher.

It is up to you, the people, to get busy and decide who your Mayor will be.

How about having a political meeting and discuss the subject?

Let's hear from you.

AN UNUSUAL sight observed Sunday . . . Round Lake not only frozen over but covered with a blanket of snow except for a small spot at Pine River . . . It's something rarely sees for usually there's a small place on the north side of the lake that's open.

And speaking of ice, it looks as tho' Lake Michigan isn't going to freeze over this winter . . . There was drift ice between the points but that was all and it's getting pretty late . . . Surely Spring can't be far away . . .

Wasn't it lovely Sunday with all that new snow covering everything . . . a real Winter Wonderland . . .

Last year the ice in Lake Charlevoix did a lot of damage along the shoreline due to the high water. We noticed the same thing is happening this year . . . The ice is pushing up along the west shore of the lake near the depot and toppling the few pine trees that are left near the water-line.

CHARLEVOIX lost a basketball game last week . . . a 43-42 loss to East Jordan in the district tournament . . . It was a tough loss for our kids for, playing without Bobo Bennett, they gave their all . . . Never saw kids play so hard . . . It was equally hard on Bo, home in bed with the flu . . . for he felt as tho' he'd let the team and Coach Terrill down . . . But we think we speak for everyone when we say we're mighty proud of the Rayders . . . They came through in great style despite the disappointment of not winning . .

LAST WEEK we lost a friend . . a good friend who will not or cannot be replaced in our heart . . The untimely death of John Knight has left everyone shocked for one just does not connect death with a person who had such a zest for living . . . The Farmer Takes A Truck!

MICHIGAN'S farm industry, which ranks near the top in the 48 states, is highly mechanized. The gasoline engine, on and off the road, has made it the producer of 10% of the State's income.

Next in importance to the farmer of the land itself is highway transportation, borne out by the fact that nearly 80,000 of Michigan's trucks are on its farms.

Yes, the farmer would be lost without the motor truck, for ⅙ of Michigan's potato crop, ½ of its apple crop, more than ½ of its tomato crop, all of its sugar beet crop and cherry crop move to market by truck.

Into Detroit come trucks from all over Michigan's farm lands bringing 99% of the city's eggs, 91% of its dressed poultry, all of its live poultry, 85% of its cheese, 77% of its butter.

Pests Yield To Chlordane Use

Chlordane is an insecticide, but it's hard on other pests, too, including crabgrass and chickweed, reports Dr. Buford H. Grigsby, weed control specialist at Michigan State college.

Chlordane leaves a residue in the soil that affects seed germination, the M.S.C. researcher found, and that set him to work on making use of this property. Most crabgrass killers require several applications.

Alter Curtain Length To Aid Decor Of Rooms

In dead of winter a homemaker's thoughts often turn to spring cleaning and refurnishing. If that is the case and you have new curtains in mind, Mary Shipley of the textiles, clothing and related art staff at Michigan State college has some suggestions.

Curtains can help give the right feeling to a particular room, she points out. If your living room, for example, is a formal one then you need to treat your windows in a very different way from the women who has casual, informal decor.

Miss Shipley emphasizes that curtain or drapery length is one of the most important factors. There are three possible choices to help carry out the feeling of your room.

The first choice is to have the curtains end just at the window sill or perhaps a quarter of an inch past. This length has some disadvantages, Miss Shipley advises, for the city home where dirt collects on sills. But this short length will give the right expression to an informal room.

Another length for curtains is to the lower edge of the woodwork that surrounds the window. This, too, will be good in a casual living room. Miss Shipley recommends this longer curtain, since it doesn't collect dirt or blow in and out of the window easily.

Charlevoix Soil Conservation District Elects Officers For '53

Clayton Healey of East Jordan was re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District at their last board meeting, Ed Rebman county agricultural agent and secretary of the board reported today. Other officers who were elected at the same time were Harold Goebel, East Jordan, vice-chairman; Robert Straw, Charlevoix, treasurer, and Ed Rebman was re-elected secretary to the board. Bob Riedel, Boyne City, was the new director elected at the annual meeting to replace Norval Korthase.

The Charlevoix Soil Canservation District board is planning a very extensive program for 1953. George Klooster of East Jordan, farmerly chairman of the soil conservation district, and now at the present time a member of the advisory council far the agricultural program at the East Jordan high school, met with the board.

Plans are being made betwean the futura farmers of East Jordan end tha edvisory council end the Soil Conservation District board to construct a series of run off plots. These run off plots will be financed by tho board but the egriculture boys of East Jordan under the direction of Richerd Schroedor, their instructor, would take cere of the plots.

These run off plots are usually constructed on a slop of between 5 to 15 degrees. They usually have 4 or 5 different rotations on this slop that is typical of the area. At the bottom of the slop catch basins are canstructed of concrete ta callect the soil and water that runs off these plots. Peridocally measurements are taken to measure this run off, and thereby the proper sail conservation rotatian for that particular slop can be determined.

There will be many ather programs far the soil district. The education committee will strive to improve soil canservation education in the caunty. The program cammittee will work to improve the pragram for the district. Claytan Healey, chairman of the district reminds all cooperators that the district program is their own and that any suggestions will be appreciated.

Can Raise Pigs To Advantage On Synthetic Milk

Pigs can be raised successfully on synthetic milk, points aut Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, but it's not putting the sows out af business yet. This practice has been used for years at the Michigan Agricultural Experimental Statian and the idea has been adopted in commercial milk places.

The benefits of synthetic milk are not 100 per cent certain, according to Dr. A. J. Hoefer, swine feeding research specialist at Michigan State college. The pig hatcheryman can use the method to breed sows quicker and boost his volume. The man with prolific sows, arphan pigs or pigs from sows that fail to milk can save pigs this way. Valuable bloodlines from a diseased herd can be salvaged for a new start with elean animals. Anyone can try the method, notes Dr. Hoefer, but it's best to try it first on one or two litters and learn management problems before putting litters of the whole herd on synthetic milk.

Advanteges of synthetic milk, Rebmen explains, includas more pigs per sow per year . . . . about 2½ litters. Pigs are heavier at 56 deys and there are fewer runts; pigs get all the milk thay want with no hind taat or blind nipple problems. Tha first week after farrowing is worst normally for death losses; pigs put on synthatic milk at two days are safar.

Heavy losses can result if management detail is neglected, warns Rebman. Pigs on synthetic milk need strict sanitation, clean equipment and quarters and better housing, with 85-degree floar temperature and draftless ventilation. There is danger of diarrhea or scouring. The synthetic milk will saur . . . the powder becomes rancid . . . without proper storage. Pigs shauld be weaning at four weeks . . . these replacers are expensive . . . and should be starting on a highly-fortified pig starter.

MABC Annual Meet At MSC March 19

The ninth annual Michigan Artificial Breeder's Co-operative meeting will take plece Thursday, March 19 at Michigan State college in Fairchild Theatre. The group of about 400 delegates from 69 counties will jain in a dedication ceremony far the new Giltner Hall veterinary medicine center.

Terms af four directors are expiring, according to Frank Helm af Jackson, president. They are Marshall Pierce of Hastings, at-large; Dale Anderson of St. Johns, Guernsey; M. F. Irwin of Perrinton, Holstein, and John Evatt of Grand Blanc, Jersey.

Rural Safety Will Be Topic In April

Rural safety will play a big part in the Michigan Safety Conference, April 21 to 23, at Grand Rapids, according to David G. Steinicke, Michigan State college farm safety specialist. The program will include a 4-H demonstration an electrical safety and a Girl Scout demonstration on "how accidents happen". A motion picture will cover corn-picking accidents.

Dairy Farmers Seek Better Feed Systems

Charlevoix county dairy farmers, who are weather-consciaus and try to keep calves dry and aut of drafts, alsa seek better feeding systems to bring calves to full growth at goad body weights, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent said.

Leave the calf with the cow a day or two and make sure the calf gets the colostrum, the first milk after calving; then feed the calf a pound of milk far each 10 pounds of calf but not more than 10 pounds a day. By the fifth week, start reducing the whole milk to wean the calf at six weeks . . . unless size and vigor rules otherwise.

Stert feeding a good calf meel in the third week, a helf pound e day end greduelly more, with fairly free access by the fifth week, but e five-pound limit until the 16th week. Then put the celf on tha dairy milking herds reguler grain ration.

This limited whole milk feeding would require from 350 ta 400 pounds of calf meal to grow the calf up ta five months. If skim milk is available, switch the calf gradually from whole to skim milk at faur to six weeks and continue skim milk up ta four ta six months. Farm grains alsa are to be fed during this period on skim milk.

Always give the celf free access to frash hay and water, and if celves over six weeks ere unthrifty or lack appetite, give a daily dose of e taespoon of cobalt solution: mix an eight ounce of cobelt sulfete in e pint of weter for the solution.

Good results also are reported from feeding milk substitute from the fourth day on, Don Murray, Michigan State college dairy specialist said. One company reported Holsteins averaging 326 pounds and Guernseys 251 pounds at four months of age.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Difficult "Situation."

Did you see that "Classified Ad" last week? The one that wanted a farmhend who had to be "an expert agriculturist, sheep herder, tractor driver, bridge player," plus being "an authority on chemistry and mathematics"?

Slim Thomas, who ran that ad more or less as e joke, called and said, "I got 23 answers and almost every one claimed they could meet all those qualifications! That means I went to keep the man I heve—'Handy' Peters.

"He was thinking of quitting but now I've got to talk him into staying. Handy never pretends to be an expert, he's just a good all-around hired hand."

From where I sit, Slim's smart to be wary of people who consider themselves to be all-around "experts." Some folks will "expert" on anything—from the clothes a man should wear to whether he ought to drink beer or buttermilk. Personally I don't want to "classify" myself as knowing all the right answers.

Many Players Complete High School Careers

Many high school athletes whose names have become familiar in northern Michigan Class C sports circles are completing their high school athletic careers in the basketball tournaments. All are seniors who will graduate in June.

Boyne City will be hardest hit with the loss of eight men; Mancelona and Harbor Springs will lose six men each; East Jordan, four and Gaylord, Charlevoix and Pellston three each.

Boyne City will lose eight of their first ten players. On the list are such regulars as Don Arner, Ron West, Shorty Smith and Bob Fairchild along with Denny Pratt, Merle Karskin, Roger Pouquette and Dave Hosmer.

Harbor Springs will find itself without regulars Frank Granstra and Al Chingwa, who played major roles in the team's successes this season as well as Marty King, Herman Ross, Ed Stolt and Mika DeWitt who did their share to put the Rams in third place as the season ended.

Mancelona will also lose two regulars in Harold Patrick and his uncle, Andy Patrick, as well as four others who were on the substitute list. They are Jim Whiteford, Juosef Jabara, Vern DeWent and Ken Councillor.

East Jordan, who finished in second place and who captured the Class C district title at Petoskey, will find themselves without one of their two top scorers, Warren Frank, as well as Sam Milstein, Dick Freeman and Jim Shepard.

Charlevoix lists only three but the trio is from the starting line-up of the present squad. All were important in this season's successes, which included the Conference title with 11 wins and one loss. The Rayders' leading scorer, Dean Davenport heads the list followed by two able players, Jim Lewis and Bill Mosiar.

Gaylord also lists three players but only two are from the regular squad. They are Tom Buell who came through toward the end of the season to play an important part in Gaylord's recent successes and Larry Northey. The third player is Bud Jones who has seen little action recently.

Pellston also loses three players, Ray Andrews and Fred Ball, from their starting line-up and Lee Arena who saw limited action as the season ended.

On the strength of their returning lettermen, East Jordan, Gaylord and Mancelona should be the potential threats next season.

"Train X" Makes First Visit To Northern Area

"Train X", a revolutionary new train being developed by the C & O, made its first appearance in northern Michigan when it came north with the regular train recently.

The experimental adaptor instrument car and the experimental car which compose the unit may be the forerunner of a new type of train which the C & O someday may put into regular service.

Compared to a conventional car, Train X is a little over a third the length, four inches wider, three feet lower and two and a half feet nearer the rails. It has one set of wheels at the rear of the car like a semi-trailer and special couplings are used to run the car with the conventional train.

The cost of the new car is $15,000 while a standard deluxe coach costs $150,000. The new coaches can also be operated for 60 per cent of the normal cost of the larger car although the new car seats only 28 while the present car accomodates 44.

Several 'bugs' have yet to be worked out but C & O officials are confident that the problems will be solved and "Train X" will be the train of the future. It is understood that at the present time a diesel engine is being built to haul this particular type of car.

Redhead Ducks Are Migrating Earlier

Lansing — Flights of redhead ducks landing in the Detroit River and nearby waters indicate an early waterfowl migration this year, the conservation department notes.

Generally, large flights of ducks are not seen until mid-March. Mild weather this winter is probably responsible for the early movements.

Thousands of ducks, including large numbers of canvasbacks and redheads, wintered in Detroit area waters, but recently flights from the south have been reported.

One out of every ten girls in the United States between the ages of seven and 17 is a girl Scout, or a total of 1,450,000 girl members.

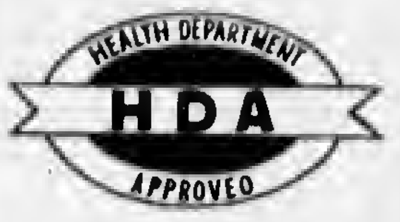
Resorts To Show New 'HDA' Signs For Next Season

An eye-catching, green and gold sign with "HDA" in bold letters will make its first appearance at Michigan's approved resorts this summer. It will replace the time-honored black and white "sanitation approved" signs that have been landmarks of safe vacationing spots in Michigan for many years.



The new sign will emphasize that a resort is "Health Department Approved." It will mean to resort patrons that the establishment has been inspected by the district health department sanitarian and that it meets both the state and local health department standards for approved resorts.

The "HDA" will mean that the resort has a safe water supply, satisfactory sewage disposal, regular garbage disposal, good building construction, proper ventilation, adequate lighting, proper heating equipment and cleanliness.

The sources, storage, preparation and handling of food will be sanitary and pasteurized milk and milk products will be used. If there is a bathing beach, it will be free from dangerous pollution or undue safety hazards. Noxious plants such as poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac will have been eliminated or kept under control. Each guest of the resort will be required to register and the registers will be kept for not less than three years. While it will not mean that a resort is "modern", it will mean that it is considered to be sanitary.

So starting next summer, get acquainted with the letters 'HDA' They mean "Health Department Approved." They mean protection for you and your family when you are vacationing in Michigan.

Local Dealers To Show New Models

A Larger Trading Unit

The idea of European unity unquestionably is growing. Its embodiment in working organizations may be slow, but approval even in principle of the Dutch proposal for a six-nation customs union shows progress.

This approval was given at the meeting in Rome of the foreign ministers of Italy, France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg. To be sure, it is an endorsement only "in principle." To work from the general aim down to specific agreements will be a matter of months and years. But the adoption of the goal is evidence that the nations which have launched the Schuman Plan believe in broader application of its fundamentals and that these same nations, joining in the European Defense Community, see economic solidarity as the best base for security.

The object of the customs union would be the gradual and progressive elimination of tariff barriers among the six participating nations.

In one sense it would aim at extending to all commodities the freedom of trade within the six-nation area which the Schuman Plan provides for coal, iron, and steel. Obviously this is a big order, involving thousands of items and careful price balances on which tariff-protected industries depend.

In another sense the proposal aims to add considerably more than tenfold to the area of the Benelux (Belgium-Netherland-Luxembourg) customs union which was proclaimed at the end of the war. That ambitious program has fallen far short of some of its goals, such as complete convertibility of currencies, and has encountered Belgian displeasure over low-priced Dutch imports. Nevertheless, it is still in existence—which both contributes to hopes for a larger union and counsels patience in seeking to achieve its objectives. — The Christian Science Monitor.

Conducts Survey On Demonstration Work In County

A membership in a Home Demonstration Group can bring many benefits to the entire family, Mrs. Sims Baker reports following a recent survey on why more than 300 women throughout Charlevoix county belong to a Home Demonstration Group.

According to the survey, most members feel that on the whole their families are better fed, more attractively dressed, live in a more pleasant homo and have a better home life. In addition members accomplish this and at the same time save money and have a fuller life through thier association in the groups.

Lessons offered in the Home Demosstration classes throughout the year bring a variety of topics to its members.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

THERE'S a date we'd like to have you keep open . . . it's March 27 . . . the date of the one performance of the Minstrel show . . . We've been talking with Mr. Odmark and from what he tells us about the show it sounds wonderful . . . So start planning now . . . for the date, March 27.

WE DON'T know much about the flower called the amaryllis but Mrs. Joe Moore was telling us about one she has . . . She had gotten the bulb from Mrs. Cal Price in Florida five years ago and it's blossoming for the first time . . . with a flower that's eight inches across . . . If you can imagine that . . . and there are more buds . . . We hope to see it this week . . .

HAVE YOU been 'bothered' by robins waking you up in the morning? . . . There's been one in our neighborhood who just can't seem to realize it's still winter and he chirps like mad in the morning . . . But, you know, that robin may be smarter than you think . . . the willows are getting that 'golden' look that's a sure sign of spring . . . And if you don't believe us, look across Round lake and you'll see for yourself . . . Incidentally, we owe that bit of knowledge to Fred Bergmann who called our attention to it last spring . . . And then there's the many pussywillows that are out . . . We told you about Dickie Harrington's last week . . . This week the Terrs brought us pussywillows with a bit of forsythia which is about ready to pop . . . So, again we ask, can spring be far away . .

WE HEAR a lot about being a good neighbor but too few people do anything about it . . . But there's one little girl in our neighborhood, Janet Schofield, who has taken the admonition to heart . . This week she left at our door a little card, handmade and colored with crayons with the following message which made us very happy. "I'm glad that you're my neighbor . . . And I'm your neighbor too . . . Please let me know whenever I can help you" . . A very sweet and generous thought, we think . .

IN THE mail recently a letter from the Dallas Henry's who are at the Belleview Biltmore Hotel in Clearwater this winter . . . It brought the news that the weather hadn't been too good but they were hoping for a change for the better . . . A comment by Dal in a postscript said that the Duke of Windsor had just arrived for two weeks . .

THE basketball tournaments which opened two weeks ago are drawing to a close . . . All roads will lead to Lansing this weekend as fans and coaches make their way to the state semi-finals and finals . . . It will be old home-week for coaches, particularly, as they meet friends and former players . . . The fans will see a lot of basketball . . . good basketball . . . and then return home to await another season . . At the moment we're not looking forward to next year . . . but give us a month's breather and we'll be back in the groove . . .

BUT IF WE had our way about it, there wouldn't be any basketball tournaments . . . There's too much responsibility riding on the shoulders of kids . . . There's too much heart-ache for the kids who play their hearts out . . . This is not 'sour-grapes' for we've felt that way about it for a long time . . . And when you're through what does it prove . . . not a thing . . . F'rinstance, chances are that Alpena Catholic Central, nine out of ten times, could beat Petoskey . . But what happens? . . . Comes the tournament . . . Petoskey, playing the best game of the year wins . . and goes on to be beaten . . . We'll grant you that one does not have a way of knowing what might have happened if the Alpena squad had gone on . . . but it adds up to just one question in our books . . . Just what does a tournament prove?

AND SO, for another year, we will live on the memory of this past season . . . and what might have been and prepare for another . . . And to Ellsworth and East Jordan, the only northern Michigan teams left in the tournament . . . Our very best . . . You've more than just your own schools at stake now . . . You're representing all of us in northern Michigan . . . So give it all you've got and may you go to the top . . .

A GREAT big 'thank you' to Helen Bradley of Petoskey who wrote such lovely things about our fair town for Milliken's Saturday program over the Paul Bunyan network . . . She had only the nicest things to say about the natural beauty of the town and its fine summer cottages and activities . . . But most she praised the community for the fine spirit which prompted it to raise the $15,000 to bring a new industry to Charlevoix . . . Now let's prove that we deserved all that wonderful praise by picking up the pledges at the earliest possible date . . .

LOST . . . one basketball . . . in, of all places, Round Lake by one Tony Duerr . . . We didn't get the details on how it ended up in the lake but it was seen floating (it's an outdoor ball) until the ice started moving . . . If you should see it, won't you make a little guy happy by telling him about it . . . The Duerrs are hoping they'll have as good luck recovering the ball as they did a small neckless Carrie lost at Harbor Springs in mid-February . . . It was such a tiny thing they didn't dare hope to see it again . . . But when the snow melted over the week-end, there it was, a tiny cross and a small chain . . . evidently where she'd dropped it near the gym . . . Since a basketball is a bit bigger . . . they're really hopin' that it will be recovered . . .

IF YOU haven't had your fill of basketball for the season . . . intra-mural games are now being played . . . They're lots of fun so ask at school about the schedule . . .

Congregational Church To Have Children's Day

On Sunday morning, March 22, Charlevoix's Congregational church wil have a special Children's Service. The 11 o'clock worship hour will feature the favorite religious songs of children, music by the Cherub Chior and Junior Choir, an offertory flute solo, "Concertino" by Charminade, played by Barbara Smith, and a sermon for youngsters. "How You Can Be Very Important", preached by the minister, the Rev. Harold E. Kohn.

In announcing this specialty to the congregation last Sunday, the Reverend Mr. Kohn said it has been his feeling that the worship services in churches are prepared mostly for adults, and the interests and spiritual needs of children are sometimes neglected. Only on rare occasions, such as Children's Day and Christmas are youngsters apt to be given much special attention.

"Since increasing numbers of children are attending our morning worship services, we must do everything possible to minister to them". Mr. Kohn said A series of quarterly worship services for children has been projected as a step in that direction. Next Sunday's service will be the first of the series, and others will follow at three-month intervals.

Children are invited to bring their young friends and their parents.

Voters Attention

For the purpose of clarifying my position and correcting any misunderstandings, I am hereby declaring myself as a qualified candidate for the office of Mayor at the coming general election on Monday, April 6. Before making this decision, considerable urging was necessary by many friends in all walks of life. It was felt that unity and co-operation could be achieved by such a move.

It is my intention to perpetuate the good things started by our late mayor, namely: Industrial development, resort business, and, a more well rounded recreational program.

I earnestly invite the support of ALL individuals and groups. I also wish to state that I am strictly an independent candidate, not bound to any one individual, group, or faction. If elected it will be my duty to serve ALL the people of Charlevoix to their best interests and this duty I promise to uphold.

Sincerely,
DEAN DAVENPORT

Weather Watcher

This weather station was set up in the conservation department's experimental deer plot at Cusino wildlife experiment station in the upper peninsula to study the effects of winter's cold on deer. One of the most important questions information from this station may help answer is how much food a deer needs to remain alive in cold weather. Game Biologist Robert Van Etten of the Cusino station here checks one of the devices that records changes in temperature.

Dr. Russel Palmer Writes Of Experiences In Mexico City

We left Zimopon this morning and crossed the mountains proper. It took us four hours to go 60 miles for these are high mountains and one has to pass over them with caution.

The scenery is really beautiful. Some of the mountains are obscured by clouds. The sides are occupied by small patches under cultivation, where papaya, corn and sugar cane grow. Many herds of goats are tended here by boys. The women seen on the roadside carry heavy bundles, balanced on their heads. Multi-colored parrots perched in trees scolded us as we wended our way down the mountain. On approaching Mexico City we passed two snow-capped mountains and after driving over a final hill, the city suddenly came into view.

Mexico City

Here we are in a city about the size of Chicago. Mexico City was first built by the Aztecs in 1325 and called Tenochtitlan. Later the name was changed.

We visited the Palace of Fine Arts, a gem of Italian architecture. The marble was brought from Italy. Here are seen all varieties of arts, both ancient and modern. Across from the Palace is the Alameda Park which contains many old shade trees and tiled fountains. Here, too, is the semi-circular monument to honor the great patriot, Benito Jaures. Also visited the National Palace where President Cortinose holds office. It is an enormous building and was erected on the site of the home of Montesuma. There are about a dozen courtyards in the Palace and magnificent murals by Diego Rivera adorn the walls. These paintings represent different stages in Mexican history. This Palace also holds the Cabinet and Senate.

Next came the National Bank of Mexico, originally the home of Count San Mateo Valparaiso erected in the Eighteenth Century, a fine example of barique architecture of that period. There are two winding staircases, side by side. The story goes that the Count was not on good terms with his Countess and each had a stair installed.

There are no traffic lights downtown in Mexico City. Policemen direct traffic from boxes, blowing whistles and waving their hands like mad.

The city reeks with age and many of the once beautiful churches are in a state of disintegration.

Each block of the city has about a dozen very profecient bootblacks on the sidewalks. The Mexican Caballeros are very shoeshine-conscious.

This morning we visited the Guadalupe Shrine, the third largest in the world which is on the side of a hill about five miles north of the city. This afternoon we took a trip to Chapultepec Park, (meaning Grasshopper Hill) It was the home of the Aztecs before they founded Mexico City. Later Montesuma made it a mammoth recreation center complete with forests, lakes, gardens and hunting grounds. Many of the great "Ahuehuete" trees are over 600 years old. On top of a hill overlooking the entire park sits the Majestic Castle built in 1783 the former home of Emeror Maximilian and his empress, Carlota. From this castle can be seen a magnificent panorama of Mexico City. The Palace contains furniture used by Maximilian and Carlota, all beautifully preserved. Here, too, is Carlota's gorgeous carriage of silver and gold.

To reach Chapultepec Park one has to take the Paseo De La Reforma, one of the finest avenues in the world. It begins at the statue of Carlos IV and continues two miles to the gate of the park. Emperor Maximilian copied it from the Champs Elysees in Paris. The entire wide avenue is lined with trees and statues, one of which is erected in honor of Cuauhtemoc, the last Aztec Emperor.

These are just a few of the highlights of this city. To see them all would take weeks. We expect to go to Cuernovaca and then on to the silver center, Taxco.

Details Given On Fluoridation

a mere coincidence but is the result of the progress made in water sanitation. The reduction of typhoid fever mortality within the lifetime of the present generation, in New York state, for example, from 10 per 100,000 in 1920 to no deaths at all from typhoid fever in 1950 is certainly evidence of the sanitary engineer's contribution to good health.

Within the past decade the water engineer has been asked to participate in another type of health program which requires him to maintain what is considered today to be the optimum concentration of an element found naturally in varying concentrations in water supplies. This element is fluoride, which exerts a protective influence against dental caries.

It is very evident that this growth of interest in water fluoridation results from public recognition of the prevalence of dental caries and realization that protective measures can be taken on a community-wide basis through treatment of the public water supply so that ultimately the whole community will benefit.

Water fluoridation is therefore an extension of standardized water treatment procedures designed to improve the health of the community.

The cost of fluoridation, approximately 10 cents per capita per year, is moderate and the expense will be absorbed in the present water rates. Even the cost of the feeding machine which at first was quoted at $1,000 to $1,500 will now cost less than $1,000 according to new prices received. The cost per year based on the use of a million gallons of water per day is only $494 per year for the entire community.

Jordan-Ellsworth In Quarter-Finals

gional finale at Traverse City Saturday night.

Gwinn won the upper peninsula title by defeating Powers 70-50.

In the game at Traverse City Saturday night, Ellsworth went into a 17-14 first period lead and maintained the upper hand throughout the game, leading 23-21 at the half and 42-29 at the third period. Jim Smith paced the scoring with 24 points and Sten Ruis had 16 for Ellsworth. Louis Linguar scored 22 for Leelanau.

In the semi-finals of the regional tournament on Friday, Ellsworth, who had drawn a first round bye, defeated Mackinaw City 53-30. Ellsworth went into a 12-7 first period lead and stretched it to 25-18 at the half and 43-27 at the third period. Smith was again high point man with 24. Allen Elzinga second with 16 points for the Lancers. Morris had eight for Mackinaw.

In other Class D games Leelanau St. Mary's defeated Copemish 54-40 on Friday night.

On Thursday the Leelanau five won over Brethren 58-44 and Mackinaw City defeated Johannesburg 44-30 to go into the semi-finals on Friday.

Coach Inman said Monday that the state tournament games would mark the end of the high school basketball careers of four of his players, Jim Smith and Henry Klooster of his starting five and Jim Elzinga and Ron Anderson. The others are juniors.

Tells Need For Conservation Of State Wildlife

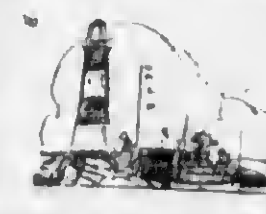
In an appeal to the people of Michigan to recognize the importance of the problems of conservation of the assets in wildlife and to work with one accord for the proper protection and preservation of these assets, Gov. G. Mennen Williams has proclaimed March 15 through March 21 Wildlife Week, Kit Carson, president of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club announced this week.

The National Wildlife Federation, in sponsoring National Wildlife week is doing much to teach the basic tenets on which the future of American's soil, water and wildlife depends. Their efforts emphasize the need to give increasing attention to conservation until such time as every American is aware of his vital dependance upon the country's natural resources.

In emphasizing the need, Mr. Carson said that in many areas wasteful practices and slovenly habits are robbing the nation of productivity of our soils and water at an increasingly rapid rate. Similar practices are depleting certain species of native American wildlife disastrously.

He went on to say that there is a real and acute need, for more intelligent planning of developments to secure the greatest possible values of our resources.

If the American standard of living is to be dependent on the productiveness of our nation's soil and water resources, it is imperative that everyone join in the observance of Wildlife Week and follow the basic rules in the conservation of our resources throughout the year, Mr. Carson concluded.



IT HAPPENED ON . . . .
BEAVER ISLAND

Mary LaFreniere

Mrs. Hugh R. Gallagher was in Charlevoix this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon H. LaFreniere and sons, Leon and Paul, spent a few days in Charlevoix with Mrs. LaFreniere's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Belfy, Sr.

James McCann returned to the island Friday after spending most of the winter on the mainland.

Robert O'Donnell and Perry Palmer have gone to Detroit for their army physical examinations Perry also has to report to his boat within the week.

Dr. Harry Vail made a business trip to Bay City this week.

Hugh Conraghan had a bad fall Friday night as he was walking home from his daughter's, Mrs. Elmer Dudley. His head was cut quite badly.

The Peaine Township Caucus was held Saturday afternoon at Sunnyside school. George Rickgers and Robert McDonough were nominated for supervisor; Mrs. Peter P. Gallagher for Clerk and Mrs. Jack Cornaghan was nominated for treasurer. The nominated trustees are Joe Dillingham and Patrick Bonner. John Duhiel is the nominated constable. Francis Mooney was nominated for Justice of the Peace.

It rained a lot this week and melted most of the snow that had fallen in the past few weeks. The roads through most of the country are open and are in quite good condition.

Friday night a number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Connaghan for a farewell get together for Jack, who will be leaving soon for sailing.

Lawrence J. Malloy left this week to attend a supervisors meeting in Charlevoix. From there he went on to Chicago for a medical check-up.

Symphony Concert To Be Presented At Traverse On Sunday

Traverso City — For the second time during the present winter, music lovers of this area will have opportunity to hear the Northwestern Michigan Symphony orchestra, in concert at Traverse City on Sunday, March 22, at 3:00 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Under the leadership of Dr. Pedro Paz of Olivet college, the orchestra has made great improvement since its first appearance in 1952. It has added four new musicians, and has gone a long way toward perfecting itself under Dr. Paz' exacting guidance.

The new members of the orchestra are Gary Routsong, tuba; Melvn Gee, bass clarinet; James Griffith, second clarinet; and Peggy Munro, flute.

Several musicians from communities outside of Traverse City are already members: Dr. Robert Allen, trombonist and Alfred Frank, violinist, of Petoskey; Louis Ealy, violinst of Charlevoix; Richard Maddy, percussionist of Kingsley and Donald Smith, violinist of Benzonia.

Many persons in Northwestern Michigan have season tickets for the three concerts planned for this season, but single admissions will be available at the auditorium on the afternoon of the concert. Tickets are 50c for students and $1.00 for adults.

Approve Building Of Oil Pipe Lines Across Michigan

Lansing — The conservation commission during a recent meeting here gave tentative approval to the Lakehead Pipeline Company's plan to run a 30-inch oil pipeline across much of northern Michigan.

The company wants to transport oil from Alberta, Canada, through Michigan to Sarnia, Ontario, across the St. Clair River from Port Huron.

Recent important oil discoveries in the western Canadian province prompted plans for the pipeline.

At present, the line is completed between the Alberta fields and Superior, Wisconsin. The company wants to continue from Superior, across the upper peninsula, over the Straits of Mackinac and down through the lower peninsula to Sarnia.

But the construction must await legislative approval to cross the Straits. The company hopes to clear all legal hurdles and complete the project by October.

"We think it's an investment to the state," says Gerald Eddy, conservation department director.

Also approved was the purchase of 45 acres of additions to five state game area for $13,500, with most money to come from federal Pittman-Robertson funds; fishing sites on Hamilton Lake, Dickinson county and Indian Lake, Iron county and 355 acres in additions to state hunting areas under the game land acquisition program.

Ore Carriers Are Preparing For A Banner '53 Season

What is expected to be a banner Great Lakes iron ore shipping season is scheduled to begin about April 1, the Lake Carriers' association announced last week as its Ice Committee prepared to meet to study the ice situation in northern waters.

Many of the big bulk vessels already have their after end crews aboard and several fleets have held their annual meeting of ships' officers.

Despite the fact that colder weather has made more ice in the upper lakes in the last ten days, the ice outlook is much more favorable than it was last year at this time, and an average opening of interlake navigation is expected.

Eleven new ore carriers entered service last year, and a half dozen more are scheduled to be commissioned in 1953

Should Choose Seed Corn To Fit Locality

Farmers should choose their hybrid seed corn to fit their own locality and growing conditions, according to Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Recent tests compieled by the Michigan State college farm crops department show that varieties vary in production in different parts of the state, Rebman says. The best test of a hybrid's performance is to compare it with other hybrids under equal soil and climatic conditions.

Farmers may obtain a copy of Co-operative Extension Folder F-67 on "Corn Hybrids Compared, 1953" from their county agricultural agent or by writing to Bulletin Office, Department of Information Services, Michigan State college.

"It is better to choose an early corn instead of a late one for grain," Rebman said. "This means a hybrid that is of average or drier-than-average moisture content."

The advantages of a good early maturing hybrid for grain use are: Maturity before killing frosts, yields usually equal to late hybrids in Michigan, lower moisture content for safer storage, mature dry corn for better feed, earlier maturing to harvest when the weather is still good and there is time for fall plowing of stubble.

Rebman added that later hybrids are usually better for use as silage. "The later hybrids which have good grain yields generally produce more fodder and yield more silage per acre," he said. "The early dent stage, when most of the kernels have dented, is the best time for silage harvest."

Rebman said that planting two or three kinds of hybrids sometimes offers a degree of "crop insurance", If one hybrid runs into unfavorable weather, the others may come through with a good crop.

Treating grain seed will give farmers insurance against seed-borne diseases, notes D. L. Clanahan, Michigan State college farm crops specialist. Inoculating legume seeds with nitrogen-fixing bacteria will help the seeds to a good growth.

Mr. Farmer:

It takes a large volume of livestock to attract a large number of livestock buyers.

The Traverse City Livestock Commission sells more livestock than any sale in Northern Michigan.

The bigger buyers attend the Traverse City Livestock Auction, therefore you are assured the full market value when you consign your livestock to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. Don't hesitate to spend a little extra money for trucking to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. It will be repaid many times.

Service Program Started By Area Conservation Men

The Charlevoix Soil Conservation District program for greater service is getting under way, Ed Rebman county agricultural agent and secretary of the board announced today. Plans were made for a general meeting of all committees on March 26.

Clayton Healey, chairman of the board, will work with the program committee; Bob Straw, treasurer, will work with the finance committee; Clyde Warner will work with the publicity committee; Harold Goebel, vice-chairman, will work with the education committee, and Bob Reidel will work in the dealers district program.

Chairman Healey stated that the main purpose of this program for greater service is to make everyone conscious of conservation. He stated that only by everyone together can we hope that a better job will be done.

Issue Bulletins On Ventilation Of Laying House

Farmers who have had some poultry house troubles this winter with temperatures, drafts or stuffiness should keep in mind that ventilation and insulation go hand-in-hand, reminds Ed. Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Any poultryman who is planning a new laying house this year or has extensive remodeling plans can get some help from two Michigan State College Co-operative Extension Service bulletins, notes Rebman.

There's a new one, E-317, on "Ventilation for Michigan Laying Houses" by A. J. Ball and J. M. Moore, extension specialists in agricultural engineering and poultry, respectively. This new bulletin stresses the inter-relation of ventilation and insulation, advises the agricultural agent; poultrymen can seek further insulation advice in E-281, "Poultry House Insulation".

Copies of the two bulletins are available from county agricultural agents or by writing to the Bulletin Office, Department of Information Service, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

The new ventilation bulletin shows diagrams of straw loft detail, including louvre placement; intakes in stud walls, with baffle boards; special intakes for straw lofts of concrete laying houses; out-take for shed roof laying houses, adapted for electric fan systems; and the out-take and flue for mechanical ventilation of larger laying houses, with exhaust fans. A table shows number of fans, capacities and intakes needed for varying number of birds.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippeld in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

Septic Tank's Tile Drain May Cause Trouble

Septic tank troubles isn't usually caused by too much sludge filling up the tank. The trouble is mostly in the tile drain.

Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, says the tile drain on a septic tank should usually be considered a temporary thing.

"There never is complete decomposition of sewage that goes into the tile," Rebman says. "Some solid matter always gets into the tiles and plugs the drain joints between the tiles. Then the sewage can't drain out and it backs up."

When sewage backs up, people usually have the tank cleaned and expect their troubles to be over. Then in a couple of weeks, the system will give trouble again.

"This definitely means the tile is plugged and will have to be relaid," says Rebman.

Septic tanks will not give trouble if they are constructed properly. Special care should be taken with the drain tile. It should be laid in an area away from water supply or drainage ditches. Slope on the tile should be about one inch in 50 feet.

The tiles should be laid one-quarter to one-eighth inches apart in a gravel base in the drainage ditch. No way has yet been found to clean the tile when they become plugged.

Complete information on septic tanks is given in a Michigan State college and Michigan Department of Health bulletin "Septic Tanks," The bulletin No. 118 may be obtained from your county agents office.

Mortality in chicks was cut from 10 to 15 per cent to 1.8 per cent in 1952, reports J. M. Moore, Michigan State college poulery specialist. Good management and disease control were the answers.

Rye Finds Favor As Green Manure Soils Builder

Charlevoix county farmers are not working in circles when they boost rye acreages for green manure and then add nitrogen ahead of row crops to decompose the rye, Ed. Rebman, county agricultural agent said today.

An explanation of the procedure is given by E. D. Lonknecker, Michigan State college extension soil scientist.

Northern acreages are increasing in rye ahead of potatoes and other row crops, he notes, and this brings a need for more nitrogen early in the spring. Otherwise, row crop yields may be cut as the non-leguminous green manure use the soil nitrogen to break down their structures, in competition with the row crops.

About 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre is recommended and it can come from 200 pounds of ammonium sulfate, Cal-Nitro, Nitro-Chalk, Nitro-Lime or A-N-L, or 125 pounds of ammonium nitrate or 100 pounds of urea, Uremon or NuGreen. This should be applied as soon as ground is firm in the spring.

This peculiarity, depressing effect on succeeding crops by non-nitrogenized non-leguminous green manures, has only recently become common knowledge, explains Longnecker. The green, juicy rye contains a lot of sugars for food for bacteria. The bacteria attack the green material in force as soon as it is worked into soil. The bacteria rot or decompose the green manure, which does not have enough protein or nitrogen to give the bacteria a balanced diet. So, the bacteria take soil nitrogen in competition with the following crop.

The rye manure practice is not a poor one; it simply means extra nitrogen is needed, not wasted. It is hold for a short time, possibly a few week, until the rye decomposes. Then, it goes to the growing crop. Farmers should order now for spring nitrogen fertilizer needs.

In planning a dairy feeding program, remember that a growing heifer needs half as much feed as a grown cow.

A farmer who needs more land to farm efficiently should buy it even though the price appears a little high, advises Raleigh Barlowe, agricultural economist at Michigan State college. He cautions the young fellow without a big bundle of cash against moving too fast on buying a first farm, however.

Deep planting of oats does not provide a deep roots system, warns Dr. K. J. Frey, Michigan State college oat research specialist. The permanent root system starts in the top inch of soil. Oats planted too deep will burn themselves out, growing up, so they can start growing down.

Commerce Chamber Elects Officers For Coming Year

Ellsworth — At the regular monthly meeting held March 10 the Board of Directors of the Ellsworth Community Chamber of Commerce elected the following officers: Gerrit John Drenth, president, Wesley Shooks, vice-president and Joseph F. Bugal, secretary-treasurer.

The board discussed several subjects of immediate interest to this area, such as completion of the lighted athletic field, industrial expansion, equitable transportation rates for farm and other commodities, transportation facilities, and the over-all economic welfare of the community.

The Commerce board again reaffirmed its opposition to the proposed Straits bridge as of no economic value to this area, but on the contrary inviting the waste of large sums of money which when added to the already existing private and public debt and the heavy burden of taxation must inevitably lead to chaos and financial hardship to our people.

The Commerce board also condemned the propaganda of picturing the proposed bridge in glowing terms and predicting benefits for the entire Upper Peninsula etc. which even common prudence cannot justify. Mentioning a few, such as expanding lumbering and mining operations, farming and resort expansion, the Ellsworth Chamber states that both lumbering and mining operations have already been greater than they can possibly become in the foreseeable future and that a bridge was not needed for these operations; that by far the greater part of the area is set aside for state and national forests and that farming can be only a very minor factor and only in three or four eastern counties as affecting the bridge, and not the entire fifteen counties as is claimed; that no bridge was needed in the past to lure tourists and resorters to the area, hut that the historic Straits with the ferries attracted many from all parts of the country.

Director John DeYoung paid compliment to retiring president, Elmer Rood, and by resolution the membership extended to Mr. Rood its sense of appreciation and thanks for his untiring services in behalf of the Chamber and tha community.

The Chamber appointed a membership committee consisting of Charles Edson, Gerrit P. Vander-Ark and Conrad Klooster.

Suggests Nests Built Of Oats For Clean Eggs

Farmers won't have to decide whether or not to wash eggs if they produce clean eggs, says a Michigan State College poultry specialist.

J. M. Moore, M.S.C. poultry husbandman, points out that, "it's always a good practice to produce clean eggs". Recent tests conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the National Egg Products association show that soiled eggs, regardless of how they are cleaned, never equal cleanly-produced eggs in quality maintenance nr marketability.

The tests show that, either washed or unwashed, dirty eggs showed greater decline of quality during storage than clean eggs. It is not practical to store washed or dirty eggs lor more than two months.

Moore says a soft, absorbent nesting material is one of the steps toward keeping eggs clean. He recommends crushed corn cobs or shavings. He also says that oats make an excellent material for community nests.

"Hens can eat while they nest and the oats let the eggs sing down after they've been laid, preventing breakage," Moore says. He recommends oats two to four inches thick in the community nest, but he says chickens will scratch them out of individual nests.

"Another good way to prevent eggs from getting dirty is to gather them three times a day. This keeps the chickens from walking over them," Moore says.

Moore reminds farmers to keep clean, dry, well-stirred litter on the floor, and dark nests as other steps to clean egg production.

Commital services for the premature still born son of Mr. and Mrs. "Bud" Best were held at Ellsworth cemetery Saturday afternoon, March 14, with Rev. H. Diller in charge.

Milk Needs Aid, In Waist, Taste Popularization

Two markets that dairies can go after to use some of the surplus milk have been suggested by James D. Shaffer, Michigan State college farm economist.

He suggests better-tasting milk drinks for those folks . . . mostly adults, and especially women, who just don't drink milk because they don't like it or think it's for children only.

For the "waist-conscious" market, he suggests tasty non-fat milk drinks. Then those who think milk it "too fattening" would have no excuse.

Fruit-flavored non-fat milk drinks that will compete with soft drinks can be used to go after both these groups' business.

Shaffer reports that a survey in a central Michigan city showed that women are the biggest group of abstainers from milk. More than one quarter of them said they don't drink milk while one tenth of the men fell in that class. Six per cent of the husband-wife combinations do not drink milk and two per cent of the homes had children who don't drink milk.

Some don't like the taste of milk, others object that it's too fattening, too expensive or doesn't agree with them and others prefer tea and coffee. A few have the idea milk is a child's drink.

Quarter Of Energy For Day Depends On Good Breakfast

A good breakfast menu could be compared with a piece of rubber—stretch it any way, but it should go back to a basic pattern according to Michigan State college foods and nutrition specialists. The basic breakfast pattern must include fruit, cereal, milk, and bread, with an egg substituted once or twice a week for the cereal.

One-quarter of your food energy each day should come from an adequate breakfast. The specific nutrients you get from breakfast are iron and Vitamin A from the egg and butter or margarine you use on muffins or toast made from enriched bread. Vitamin C is available in citrus or tomato juice and calcium and Vitamin B you get from cereals and enriched bread. Protein is available in the eggs and milk, the M. S. C. nutritionists advise.

A suggested breakfast menu that will provide your family with the necessary food elements should include: four to six ounces of fresh or frozen orange juice or a half of a grapefruit, a bowl of hot oatmeal with whole milk or light cream, toast with butter or margarine, a glass of milk and a cup of coffee as you wish.

The basic pattern can be varied in many ways. Use cold wholegrain cereal rather than hot cereals sometimes; get protein from a small serving of meat; use tomato juice rather than citrus juice if you wish.

Proper ventilation of the livestock truck in summer will help reduce shipping losses.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The American Legion Auxiliary met Monday at the home of Mrs. Edgar Smith.

Mrs. Smith was appointed treasurer to succeed Mrs. Stanley Moore who is leaving Charlevoix soon to live in Indianapolis.

The group voted to contribute $5.00 to the Knight Memorial Fund.

It was announced that a member of the local Auxiliary, Mrs. Clare Hamilton, had joined the Women's Air Force and would leave soon for training.

The Poppy committee announced that the flowers for the annual poppy sale in late May had arrived.

A social hour and refreshments followed. Mrs. Moore was presented with a farewell gift from the group by the president, Mrs. Lloyd Barnett.

Raincoats

Raincoats come in two fabrics, waterproof and water repellent. Waterproof coats stand up under prolonged, heavy rain, but they are made of hot, non-porus fabrics. Water repellent porous fabric will withstand only showers, but will be more comfortable to wear, advise Michigan State college textile specialists.

District Grange Conference To Be Held March 23-24

Two Grange conferences for members of Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties have been announced by George Smith, district deputy. The first conference will be held at the Maple River Grange, Brutus, on March 23 and the second conference will be held March 24 at the Barnard Grange. Both meetings will begin with a pot-luck supper at 7:30 p.m.

The State Grange will be represented at these meetings by William J. Brake, acting master, and Merrill Eddy, state lecturer.

These conferences have been planned to serve a dual purpose according to Smith. The first objective is to afford state officers an opportunity to get a better understanding of the problems and opinions of the subordinate Granges as a basis for formulating the future policy of the state organization. The second objective is to offer ritualistic instruction to the officers of the subordinate Granges.

All members of the Grange are eligible to attend these conferences.

Plans Underway For A Medical Center To Serve Beaver Island

Preliminary plans for a new medical center at St. James, Beaver Island, have been presented to state health and hospital officials for approval, according to Roger Carlisle and Arthur Johnston representing the Beaver Island Civic Association.

The pair spent several days here last week enroute to St. James from Lansing where they discussed the project with officials from the two departments.

The plans call for the construction of a two-story frame building, 26 by 36 feet with 1,000 square feet floor area. It will be built with a fireproof shingle exterior and roof and fire-resistant interior paneling.

The Associaiton at present is seeking a suitable site for the new center. It is their hope to find a centrally-located plot near the village of St. James overlooking the harbor.

Approximately $4,500 has been raised to date to finance the construction of the building. Mr. Johnston said that a minimum of $6,500 will be necessary. The funds will be used to purchase materials as most labor for the building will be donated by Island residents. It is this fact that is making the new building possible, he continued.

In the building committee are Dr. Harry Vail, who came to the Island recently to open a practice; Mrs. Vail, Rev Joseph Herp O. F. M., Jewell Gillispie, Mr. Carlisle and Mr Johnston.

Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Johnston plan to return to the mainland in the near future to solicit memberships in the Beaver Island Civic Association. All membership fees are now being applied to the building fond, Mr. Johnston said.

They plan to contact all business concerns and individuals doing business with island residents in an effort to obtain necessary funds in membership fees to finance the medical center.

Dr. Vail came to the island recently with the understanding that a medical center, meeting with his approval, would be con[illegible]. He plans to install [illegible] equipment in the new building and, at his own expense, purchase x-ray and fluoroscope equipment for the office.

More Details Are Given On Fluoridation

When Charlevoix residents cast their votes in the April 6 election on the proposal to fluoridate the municipal water supply to reduce tooth decay, it will mark the first time in the state of Michigan that the project has been put to the vote of the people.

In some 25 communities ranging in size from Detroit and Grand Rapids to a community of less a 1,000 population, Lake Odessa, the decision to fluoridate the water supply was made by their respective city governments.

However, since the Charlevoix city council could not agree on the project, they chose to present the proposal to the people in the coming election. They preferred this method to tabling the matter indefinitely.

In this way [illegible] give the voters of the community an opportunity to decide for themselves if they want to reduce tooth decay by the simple method of adding a fluoride compound to the city water supply.

Practically all water contains fluorides in varying amounts. However, most water does not contain the substance in an amount to reduce tooth decay.

For the cost of approximeely 16.3 cents per person per year the necessary amount of fluoride compound could be added to the city weter supply to obtain protection against the most widespread of ell diseases, tooth decey, according to figures released recently by the District Department of Health No. 3.

Every year tooth decay takes an enormous toll in terms of decayed teeth, toothaches, lost teeth and poor oral health. For

Danny Rose, basketball coach and athletic director at Central Michigan college was the speaker and addressed his remarks to the young athletes, advising them that athletics were important in their lives but that they should never let sports overshadow their education. He went on to say that sports should play an important role but not the major role of their young lives and that education should always come first.

Coach Terrill introduced the members of his Rayder squad, the student managers, Ron Geer and Terry Davis and the cheerleaders Ann Lagerman, Gail Krahnke and Cynthia Smith.

E. J. Edwards was toastmaster at the event which was attended by 90 athletes and guests.

Matthew 27:15-26 Mark 15:7-15
Luke 23:13-26 John 18:39-40

The most momentous cry that was ever heard under heaven was uttered. In answer to Pilate's question, "Whom will ye that I release unto you, Jesus or Barabbas?" the dreadful answer had been returned by the excited crowd, 'Away with this man and release unto us Barabbas!" More than an echo of this cry can be heard throughout the world today; for all who reject Christ as the Savior of sinners and would let cleave to their sin are likewise saying in fact, "Away with this man and release unto us Barabbas."

The throng of people instigated by their rulers and plainly expressed their will. They desired the pardon of a murderer and tha death of the righteous Jesus. The judge, entirely thrown off his course, sinks deeper at every step. He is scarcely aware of what he is saying as he calls out, "What shall I do then with Jesus who is called Christ?" Pilate knew clearly what he should do with Jesus.

Truly these words are an eternal shame and disgrace to Pilate, but not to him alone. How many of our contemporaries share his disgrace. So many people base their decision of, "What shall I do then with Jesus?" upon public opinion. One who is still asking that question does not yet possess God's salvation What does a blind man do with a guide who offers him his arm? If you know how to answer that question, you ought not be perplexed at replying to the other important one.

The Judge asks, "What shall I do with Jesus?" The people do not leave him long in suspense. They cry briefly and decisively, "Crucify Him!" Pilate in amazement comes again before them with the unavailing question, "Why, what evil hath he done?" The crowd do not even answer the miserable judge, but cry with a greater insolence, "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!"

Pilate called for a bowl of water and washed his hands before the people as he called out loudly, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person; see ye to it!" What did such an assertion avail? No stream of water could take away his spots of guilt. "There is a fountain filled with blood drawn from Immanuel's veins, where sinners plunged beneath that flood lose all their guilty stains." Pilate was ignorant of this wonderful and cleansing truth.

Jesus Christ was crucified and Barabbas was set free. Can you picture this condemned murdered as he is informed of the good news of his release? Did he resist as his chains were removed? Did Barabbas say, "I'll wait in prison until I've become a better man?" I doubt it.

Probably neither of these ideas occurred to Barabbas. He no doubt quickly accepted his pardon and was indebted to the Nazarene for life, freedom, and all that he possessed. Jesus died that Barabbas might live. Many people are yet in the gloomy dungeon of anxiety, care, and sorrow, whose price of liberation from the prison of sin has been paid. Accept God's pardon by a personal faith in Jesus Christ as your substitute and then live in peace and rejoice in the glory of God.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

DON'T KNOW whether to call 'em colorful or just plain gaudy . . . but have you noticed the bright orange colored buoys on the dock at the Coast Guard supply depot awaiting transportation to their various spots in Lake Michigan . . . Klaus Andersen and his helpers have done a good job this winter . . .

And wasn't it good to see the Woodbine in over the week-end . . . Another sure sign of spring as they take the lighthouse keepers to the lights along the lake . . And here's one for the book . . . Lake Michigan was never actually frozen over for a very long period this winter . . .

IN THE MAIL this week a note from the Williams Heerings who spent the winter in Florida and who are now on a quick trip west to visit their daughter, Nancy who with her husband Lou Brune now lives in Denver . . . Talk about coming home the long way . . . And from Mrs. Gerald Gibbons who was in East Lansing attending a resort operators conference, a picture of Kellogg Center . . . Quita a place . . . And from the cruiser Markay anchored at St. Pete in Florida . . a not from Mrs. A. A Sehaerer who is spending the winter there . . . They'd cruised over from Sarasota and had had quite a rough trip, according to Mrs. S. . . . Won't be long before they'll be leaving the sunny south and returning to their home along Lake Charlevoix . . . .

Ah. SPRING . . . Can you believe it? . . . Neither can we . . . but such days in March we have not seen since Hector was a pup . . . Temperature well into the 50s at times, the snow melting into nothingness . . . It's really almost too good to be true . . . We just hope it's the real thing and not a false spring that will coax out the buds and blossoms and then nip them with a late frost . . .

And such signs of spring . . . Mrs Ray Faulkner has announced the arrival of a crocus on Friday, the first day of this wonderful new season . . . just scads of birds are here . . . robins galore, chickadees, cedar waxwings, red winged blackbirds, killdeers, and someone even mentioned seeing blue-birds (not to be confused with blue-jays) but that's hard to believe . . . of course we expect at least one good snowstorm but with all these signs of the season, can spring be far away . . .

WHAT DID you think of the state basketball tournaments . . . We know how you feel . . . our favorite didn't win either . . So now we will say goodbye to basketball for another seven months . . . But before we do, what kind of a team do you think we'll have next season? . . .

THE BASEBALL season's here . . . And if you don't believe us find a vacant lot some place and see what you find . . . Not boys but girls have a good old game . . . You fellas had better watch out beating you at your own game . . And you kids had better watch for your folks are going to beat you at another sport . . . Kite-flying . . . Pop or Mom thinks Junior needs a kite so what happens . . . they construct the darned thing and then go out and fly it . . . to entertain Junior you understand . . . And how about marbles . . . we've seen plenty of that lately too . . .

DID WE TELL you about our recent visit to the circus? . . . No kiddin' . . Louis Edwards brought the circus to town and if you haven't seen it you're missing a wonderful treat . . . Seems that when he was serving with the Marines in North Carolina as a Navy Corpsman . . . (Honest, that's right), he decided to make a picture . . . So he visited the circus one day in Wilmington, N. C. . . . It was the 'big show,' Barnum and Bailey, Ringling Brothers and as an amateur film is tops . . . It shows the circus from the unloading to the big acts the clowns . . . the works . . . And he has synchronized circus music and a commentary to it and that, for our money, makes it the real McCoy . . . If it's showing in your neighborhood, don't miss it . . . And take our word for it, you'll love it . . .

AND THERE'S a circus of a different kind coming to town this week . . , Of course we mean the Northland Minstrel show . . . Everybodys' superb in it, we hear and it's going to be great fun, so plan now to see it . . . If you can't see the regular show Friday night, attend the dress rehearsal Thursday night . . . It's going to be just as good as the 'premiere' on Friday . . . The Thursday show is really a 'sneak' preview . . . If the characters can get away with the stuff in the show, they won't have to sneak out of town . . . Excuse the corn . . . It's just a sample of the bushels of it you'll hear in the show . . . And that little admittance fee you pay is going for a mighty fine cause . . . new uniform coats and caps for the band so don't forget the date . . . Friday, March 27, 8 p.m. Come early to avoid the rush . . .

ANGUS FOCHTMAN, back from a trip south, was telling us quite a story the other day . . . Seems he stopped at a service station in Florida and ordered the usual when the attendant said "How are things over on the island?" . . . Mr. Fochtman said he looked around to see to whom the question was addressed but he was the only one there so he quick-like said 'What island?" . . . and came the reply. "Why, Beaver Island of course. What other island is there in Lake Michigan?" . . Seems the fellow had noticed the Charlevoix sticker and having stopped at Beaver Island while working aboard a pleasure craft, was just inquiring about the place . . . Small world . . . .

AND MR. Fochtman also sent us a clipping from the Chicago-Sun-Times . . . In a column titled "So They Say," was a little item about Michigan's Winter Queen, Joan Hess, presenting Mrs. Eisenhower with a pair of snow-shoes which the First Lady accepted with the remark that "Maybe John (her son who is in Korea with the Army) could use them better than the president" . . . Mr. Fochtman, a member of Joan's sponsoring organization, the Kiwanis Club, said he was surprised to see her name mentioned in news accounts all over the country . . . Good publicity for our little old north country . . .

ATTENTION VOTERS

For the past three years the question has been what to do about stabilizing the foundation of the big deisel engine at the electric plant. Within the next thirty days this project will be completed and the big unit will be ready to go. As chairman of the utilities I have been watching this project since last October very closely. And I believe that our efforts to relieve that situation will soon be realized.

My interest in the city's affairs can be found in the minutes of the Council Proceedings, as I have not missed one regular meeting of the council in the past three years. And I have missed only one special meeting, that meeting coming on a night that I had another commitment that I could not break.

All the new equipment purchased in the past three years and the repairs and painting of the water tower, new water front improvements and the grading of the road around the cemetery are all paid for.

I believe we should replace some equipment each year and recommend setting aside an amount each year for a new fire truck, which we will need in the near future.

I believe we should expect as much from each dollar of the city's money we spend, as we expect when spending our own.

If I shoul dbe chosen as your Mayor, I will continue to serve you along these lines.

Respectively,
Harry Gebeau.

Poor Little Hill!

You're looking at a very discouraged hill!

Ever since that ribbon of paving outlined it, it has been a challenge to motor cars.

For miles and miles it winds up the side of a mountain; and it has sharp curves, and steep grades that spring out of the curves so a driver can't get a start.

Half-way up, there's a watering place—put there so drivers can stop and refill their radiators.

Yes—it has been quite a hill. But not any more!

The driver of the car in the picture above took off at the base and sailed right up to the top—and never gave it a thought.

You see, he's driving a 1953 Cadillac—with its great high compression 210-horsepower engine—and its vastly improved Hydra-Matic Drive.

We heard recently of two men who drove from Florida to Detroit—in a 1953 Cadillac.

The driver had made this trip before—and as they left Knoxville he said to his passenger: "Man, are we going to find a hill between here and Lexington!"

After an hour or so, the passenger said: "Where is the hill?"

And the driver said: "Just wait!"

So they waited—and presently they saw a sign which read: "Lexington."

The driver was dumbfounded.

"I can't understand it!" he said. "There used to be a hill there—a big one! I know from experience."

Naturally, this great car gives you more than the ability to master hills.

When you float along with a tremendous reserve like this, you have the easiest ride imaginable.

It gives you confidence, too—and helps you to relax—for you know you have the power for any emergency that may arise.

It makes the whole car a symphony in motion. In fact, the ride is so smooth and soothing that, not infrequently, passengers sleep as they ride.

Come in and try it for yourself. The car is waiting—and it's an experience you ought not to forego.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by GENE ALLMAN

YOU WILL PAY more state taxes in 1953. Legislators agree, for the most part with that. The argument continues to be the same: How? How much, for how long, how will it be collected?

Democrats who have plugged for years to enact a corporate profits tax of some sort, have adopted a "show me a better way" attitude. Representative Walter H Nill has intended for some time to introduce at this session, a tax on corporation profits.

Republicans since the legislature's opening day, have sought a solution to the state's $90,000,000 deficit and a means of raising an additional $35,000,000 each year to offset future deficits .They hope to pass a tax that directly effects a large number of people so that once the deficit is reduced, there will be wide pressure to do away with the tax.

FOR A TIME they studied the idea of taxing wholesalers; then a proposal for a tax of five mills (half a cent) against payrolls, excepting employes of federal, state and local governments, and nonprofit religious and social agencies. This bill would expire automatically in June, 1955. Other suggestions include using part of the money set aside for veteran bonus purposes, taxing cigarets, and taxing the sale of used cars.

Bills to tax personal and corporate incomes were introduced in both houses. The idea is to charge a percentage —between one and five percent is mentioned —of the amount paid to the federal government. To make the idea more aceptable, the plans call for repeal of the state sales and corporate profit taxes, and specifies that schools and local forms of government will receive about the same amount of money as at present. Dropping the sales tax in favor of an income tax is a measure long favored by some groups as a fairer means of taxing those who have the ability to pay.

It has been predicted that unless the Republicans can come up with a workable solution to tax problems, they will be faced with passing, for lack of something better, a bill akin to the one Gov. Williams has been advocating for at least four years.

ACTION and decisions should soon become the keynote of the legislative session since May 22 has been set as adjournment day. This means that all but money bills have already been introduced and the time for counting votes is here.

An increase in the cost of fishing licenses is one bill that will come up for consideration. Rep. Eugene O. Betz (R. Monroe) introduced a measure to raise the price to $2 for residents and non residents, eliminate husband-wife single licenses and to require licenses to fish the Great Lakes.

A bill to deny hunters the right to sue for damages resulting from injury received while hunting on private property was also put before the House of Representatives.

Republicans have gone on record as favoring a new prison to relieve overcrowding at Jackson, but they make no reference to size, cost or financing. Austin MacCormick, nationally known prison authority who studied the Jackson riots, reported that overcrowding was the largest single cause for the riot, and if it is not remedied, more riots can be expected.

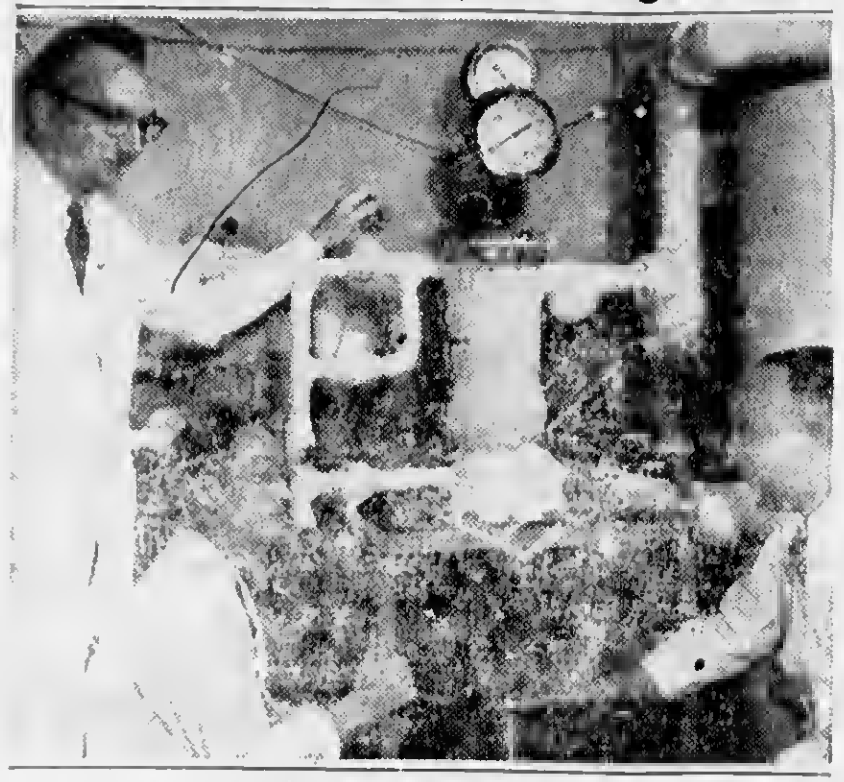
PEOPLE IN Michigan would be saved about $505,000,000, or more than half a billion dollars in 1954 if present efforts to reduce the federal budget by $10 billion are successful. These estimates are figured according to population; this state has 5.05% of the people in the country and would benefit by an equal portion.

Local Musicians To Play in The East

Two Charlevoix members of the Intercollegiate Stompers will leave this week for Boston, Mass., to join other members of the band which won recently on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts to fill a two weeks engagement at the Hotel Savoy beginning March 31.

The two members from Charlevoix are Nick Hamilton and Bob Shanahan, a student at the University of Michigan.

U-M Finds Way to "Explode" Sugar Beets



New hope for Michigan's sugar beet Industry may come from University of Michigan research which has produced a way to "explode" the beets under high steam pressure. This provides a fast, cheap method of making the juice available for purification. Left to right with the pilot model of the "high pressure beet gun" are: Lloyd E. Brownell, professor of chemical and metallurgical engineering; and Tee Lee and S. A. Zieminski of the U-M Engineering Research Institute.

TOURISTS WILL spend about $500,000,000 in Michigan this year ,said C. C. Wells, secretary manager of West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association. Insufficient facilities to handle peak summer loads are expected to exist for several years. Tourist leaders are attempting to interest manufacturers in a plan to spread vacations over a 12 month period. In this way, fishermen could vacation as early as April, hunters could take time off during winter.

MEMORIES went back to army days for thousands of Michigan men last week with the announcement that Fort Custer induction center and training station, would be closed June 1. Deactivation of the army post is part of a military economy move which includes six other camps and will save the government $2,000,000 the first year, $40,000,000 each succeeding year. Nearly 1,000 civilian employes will be released and the camp will be staffed by a stand - by group which can reactivate it within 60 days. Fort Custer will be used each summer for two months for training purposes.

AN OFFER of a new "final resting" place for the body of Michigan's first governor is being considered in Detroit. It came from the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau to provide a solution to a problem facing Detroit officials. They are trying to create more usable space in the congested area of State and Griswold where a tiny park marking the grave exists. Stevens T. Mason, Michigan's "boy" governor who held office when he was only 32, had the vision that made the UP part of the State, said the letter. The Upper Peninsula Bureau stated that it would be honored to give a resting place in "God's Country" where Gov. Mason's body would not be disturbed example, the nation's children receive only about a third of the fillings they require and two third of their cavities are neglected. Sixteen-year-olds have an average of nine decayed teeth and have lost several teeth. Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, District Health Director, stated.

FOURTEEN NEW plants moved into the state during 1952 while five firms moved out Michigan Economic Development Commission reports showed five companies came from Wisconsin four from Illinois, two from Kentucky and one each from Colorado, Massachusetts and Minnesota. Of plants leaving, three went to Illinois, one to Kentucky, one to Indiana.

Seven years' experience with a controlled study of fluoride supplementation in Grand Rapids has shown that in children consuming fluoride supplemented water, reductions as high as 53 per cent in primary dentition and 66 per cent in permanent teeth has been obtained..

It is for the purpose of advising the city council of the voters wishes in the addition of fluoride compound to the local water supply in amounts to give the above mentioned protection to the children of the community that citizens are being asked to cast their vote April 6. Study the proposal and be prepared to vote on it in the coming election, authorities have asked.

Dr. Russell Palmer Writes Of Watching Mexican Bull Fight

Dr. and Mrs. Russell Palmer, spending the winter in Mexico, have sent the following account of a bull fight they witnessed recently.

Here is my impression of a bull fight (corrida de torros).

Earth is peopled by many sorts. Some are content with the finer things of life; other, like the bull fight enthusiasts, retain the blood thirst of their forefathers.

Do not attend the bull fight unless you can rid yourself of all your love and sentiment for animals.

We arrived early Sunday afternoon to obtain good shady seats. By shady they mean the ones on the west side of the arena where the sun hits you on the back of the neck instead of in your eyes.

The arena is circular with rows of seats of solid concrete. Pillows are rented for two pesos.

When the crowd assembles and the band takes its place it is time for the ritual to begin. The band plays martial music to put the people in the proper mood for this ghastly ordeal.

Announced by a fanfare of brass horns, a fancy dressed rider on horse anters the arena. He is followed by the matadors, the men who set out to kill or be tortured by the bull.

The matadors are assisted by peons or banderillero who stab the bull's neck with ribbon-decorated steel darts thereby increasing his anger.

The matador wears a close fitting black hat with rosettes on the side and a bun of false hair at the back of his neck. He has on a white linen shirt with jabot and his breeches and bolero are richly embroidered in greens and yellows and his long stockings are invariably pink. He wears black ballet slippers.

At the sound of a horn the gate is opened and the bull rushes into the arena. He is directly set upon by the banderillos who inflame him by waving red capes and sticking steel darts into his neck. The bull bellows and paws the earth. The dust he casts to the wind is saturated with gore from other fights and even the air smells of stale blood.

The trumpet again blows and the picadores ride in on horses padded with blankets to protect them from the bull's horns. These honorable gentleman prick the poor bleeding animal with lances adding much to the pain of the bull and the delight of the patrons of the art.

And now the end of this drama draws near. The matador dedicates the bull by tossing his hat to a beautiful lady in the grandstand and advances on his antagonist with sword and red cape (muleta).

The climax comes with a quick flash of the sword and the bull falls. Its death is precipitated by further thrusts of the bayonet. One ear is then excised and handed to the matador who proudly prances around the arena before the spectators, arm held high holding the freshly severed ear of the victim, thus seeking approbation of his dirty deed.

It's been a big day for the Mexicans. The above act is again repeated and another bull bites the dust.

The third act is somewhat different for it is a fight between a lion and a bull. There is no choice of weapons here. The lion has his jaws with which to crush and tear and let the blood. The bull his horns to gore and hooves to tramp.

This is a fight to the finish. They know the score. There is no need for man-made darts nor red inflamatory capes. These are natural enemies and they battle unafraid.

Now they are released and meet head on in the arena. The lion grasps the bull by the snout and holds on for dear life while the bull, on top, terribly tranmples the lion with his heavy hoofs. When the lion lets go for a fresh hold the bull gets in some good work with his horns. They both fight valiantly for survival. There are no steel swords with which to parry, just brute against brute. The lion with his jaws, the bull with his horns and hoofs and finally they fall prostrate on the ground. If there is a spark of life left it is invisible.

We make our exitfromthear-

We make our exit from the arena with a feeling of sadness to think that man can create such a gross and evil pastime. All this we endured to bring first hand to you what the Mexicans call sport.

New Method Of Gas Conservation

An interesting method in conservation of gas was introduced into Michigan last year, a method underground storage. Much of the southern peninsula is underlain by thick deposits of rock salt, which for 90 years have supplied salt for our salt and chemical industries. Borings are made to these salt beds and when washed out, caverns are formed in which liquified petroleum gas can be stored.

Expert Warns To Treat Soil Now For Wheat

Available soil nitrogen for wheat growth this spring may be too little and too late" unless manure or commercial fertilizer is applied. Ed Longnecker, soil scientist at Michigan State college says soil nitrogen becomes available slowly at soil temperatures of 41 degrees and only slightly more rapidly at soil temperatures up to 50 degrees.

Even though warmer weather is now in prospect, it probably will be some time before soil temperatures reach levels high enough to make soil nitrogen readily available. Longnecker urges application of five loads of manure as top dressing now, this month, to supply the needed early-growth nitrogen. If clover was plowed down last fall, extra nitrogen may not be needed now, yet with water soaked soil the nitrogen from plowed-down legumes might not be quickly enough available.

Longnecker says that if a raw crop or small grain crop was grown last year and manure is not available for top dressing, then chemical nitrogen fertilisers should be applied. If sulfate of ammonia is used as the source of nitrogen, Longnecker recommends about 100 pounds per acre. If ammonium nitrate, which is about 50 per cent stronger in nitrogen is used, than 60 pounds per acre should be used.

Areas where wheat has usually lodged seriously need not be fertilized or top dressed. Most experiments on top dressing or fertilizing wheat in the spring show yield increases of about six and one half bushels per acre. Longnecker sums up the situation by saying that spending about three dollars per acre for fertilizer should result in about 10 to 15 dollars worth of extra wheat at harvest time. Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent said that farmers who saw the demonstrations last year are planning to put nitrogen on all of their wheat.

Conducts Survey About Rules On Cherry Grading

Cherry growers of Charlevoix county are being surveyed on their opinions concerning the state compulsory cherry grading regulation at the request of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, is making the survey and letters and ballots were mailed March 23 to all names on the list of cherry growers.

The agent said today if commercial cherry growers do not receive a ballot in the mail, they should contact his office at once.

Ballots must be returned by April 4 and Rebman has named an impartial committee to county the results.

Results must be counted and sent to Lansing for a meeting of the members of the board of the State Department of Agriculture on April 7.

"The Michigan Extension Service is not taking any sides in the argument over merits of the cherry grading law. We are only doing a service for the cherry growers of Michigan and the State Department of Agriculture in making this hasty survey," the county agent stated.

Baby Chicks Need Watching To Stop "Crowding" Deaths

Poultrymen with baby chicks should concentrate on watching the chicks, not the thermometer, says Ed Rebman Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

"If farmers watched their chicks, rather than the thermometer, and kept them cool and comfortable in the daytime, with a little extra heat at night, we would get over a lot of this trouble we get from crowding deaths," Rebman said.

A pilot light should be turned on every night to prevent crowding, he adds.

"The quiet chicks are the ones that do not get into trouble by crowding, smothering, picking or feather eating," Rebman says. Sometimes even a squeaky door on a brooder house will scare the chicks into a corner. A drop of oil remedies this situation.

Rebman warns that chilling is a common cause of crowding. But he says fresh air is also important it gives the chicks a chance to spread out and settle down. The county agr'l agent has been advised in these poultry matters by J. M. Moore, Michigan State College poultry specialist.

"There s no question in my mind that chicks that are too warm are more apt to get the feather picking habit which later leads to cannibalism," Moore told him.

Many Bulletins Offered To Aid In Home Making

The Home Demonstration program of the extension service of Michigan State college has many phases and among the most popular are the education aids offered in bulletins on hundreds of subjects related to home making.

The Home Economics bulletins of major interest to all home-makers, are available on all subjects pertaining to the preparation of food. Recipes, preparation of food for the home freezer or for canning and the storage of various foods are among those requested most often.

There are also many available on keeping house. For instance, if your problem is cupboard space there is a bulletin on how to "Improve your kitchen cupboard," which tells, with pictures, how to make more space by arranging shelves, use of partitions and spice racks and convenient hooks for cups and spoons.

Sometimes the problem is one of closet space and the bulletin on "Household closets" shows how to make the best of available space in preference to building new closets.

Repairing of furniture is always a popular one, especially this time of year. One bulletin on the "Reseating of Chairs" shows how to weave new cane seats; another shows "how to repair innerspring furniture" and a third which is most timely, gives all the steps in "Refinishing furniture."

These are only a few of the many bulletins which are available to everyone. Charlevoix county residents may obtain the bulletins at the office of the County Agricultural Agent in the post office building at Boyne City.

GMC TRUCKS
Gasoline 4,600 GVW to 90,000 GCW
Diesel 19,500 GVW to 100,000 GCW

No other light trucks have all this

YOU don't expect polo-pony agility from a truck in traffic — but the new GMC's have it.

You'd like to have passenger-car pace and economy on the highway — and you'll get it from the 1953 GMC's.

For there are two great advances that step the new GMC's ahead of all previous truck performance:

One: Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive* — the fully automatic shift with 3 speeds for traffic, 4 for the open road — available on 19 models through the ½-, ¾- and 1-ton capacity range.

Two: a new line of engines of progressive design, with compression ratios of 7.5 to 1 and 8.0 to 1 — the highest of any gasoline truck engine ever built. Here's pile-driver power behind every piston stroke — flashing response and better mileage are squeezed from regular fuel.

Many chassis advances, too, add to the extra-value features that make GMC's, point for point, the biggest dollar's worth in the light-truck field as well as in the heavier lines.

We confidently tell you — these great new GMC's will do your job better, easier, and at the lowest over-all cost. They have stamina beyond their size, because they're "built like the big ones" — the heavy-duty GMC's that lead the world in sales.

That's saying a lot. But just come in — and we'll prove it.

"Biff" Falls for His Own Story

Biff Morgan's four-year-old daughter Rusty is something of a night owl. Stays awake way past her bedtime.

Every night Mrs. Morgan complained about how hard it was to get Rusty to go to sleep. Finally Biff decided to handle the situation. "Anyone can get a kid to sleep — takes a little patience! Here, hand me her storybook."

He grabs the book and goes into Rusty's room. About an hour later Rusty comes padding out in pajamas and hands her mother the book. "Read it quietly," she whispers, "so we don't wake Daddy."

From where I sit, Biff won't be so quick to be a "child-care specialist" the next time. If we could just resist being such "know it alls," our neighbors would be better off. Take those who would deny me a glass of beer with my supper — well, I might not care for the buttermilk they like. We all ought to realize that we all have different abilities and different preferences, too.

Schools To Close For Easter Recess

The Charlevoix public schools will close at 2:30 Thursday for the annual Easter recess, Supt. R. G. Bennett has announced.

Classes will be resumed at 9 a.m. Tuesday, April 7.

We're Sorry

Because of a temporary shortage of mechanical help the Courier was unable to publish its special Spring and Easter issue planned for this week.

In the absence of Lloyd Barnett, who is ill, and Nick Hamilton, who is out of the city, we were fortunate to secure the help of Stanley Wallin of the Traverse City Record-Eagle and Tom Lattin, a student from Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, for this week.

Honor Students Class Of '53

Amy Kipke

Janet Krulik

The honor students of the 1953 graduating class of the Charlevoix high school were announced this week by Harry E. Bingham, high school principal.

They are Amy Lou Kipke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Kipke, who is valedictorian with a point rating of 3.83 of a possible four points and Janet Louise Krulik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Krulik, salutatorian with a point rating of 3.74.

Beside leading their class academically, both have been active in student affairs during their high school careers.

Amy was selected to receive the 1953 Daughter of the American Revolution Good Citizenship award; has been a member of the high school band for four years and as a senior was band librarian; president of the Pep Club as a junior and a member for four years; Girl Scout for five years; staff member of high school publication, Crimson Flash, for three years; had prominent roles in junior and senior plays; a member of J-Hop committee; Girls Choir for one year; member of the Senior annual planning committee and was active in the Girls Athletic Association program, playing softball, basketball and volleyball.

She plans to continue her education at Michgan State College.

Janet played with the high school band for four years and as a senior was band president; was a member of the Pep Club and Girl Scouts for five years; secretary of Student Council as a sophomore; chairman of the Christmas Ball as a senior; staff member of the Crimson Flash for three years; played important roles in junior and senior plays and was active in all phases of the Girls Athletic Association program.

She also plans to enroll at Michgan state college this fall.

Concert Drive For Members Opens Monday

The annual campaign for memberships in the Northern Michigan Concert Association will begin Monday, April 6 and close April 11, Mrs. C. A. Odmark, local membership chairman announced this week.

The campaign is the only opportunity local residents will have to subscribe to the concert series in Petoskey next fall and winter.

Assisting Mrs. Odmark in the campaign are Mrs. E. J. Edwards, Mrs. Charles Bellinger, Mrs. Walker Miles, Mrs. Leonard Burns and Mrs. Ada Golden.

Present Association members will be contacted by the committee. Others wishing to purchase season tickets to a series of four concerts are asked to call a committee member.

The program selection cannot be announced until after the campaign but it is quite certain that the Garde Republican Band of Paris, recognized as one of the foremost bands in the world, will appear on the program in Petoskey if the membership drive is successful. Another attraction may be Michael Rabin, the amazing young violinist from Australia..

In the past Charlevoix has been fortunate in securing as many memberships as needed but this year the demand is greater and anyone desiring tickets is urged to call the committee for memberships as soon as possible.

Large Vote Expected Monday Due To Local Contests, Proposal

Local issues, including contests for mayor and third ward alderman and a proposal to fluoridate the municipal water supply to reduce decay are expected to bring out a large vote in Charlevoix in the April 6 general election.

Voters will also cast their ballots for important state, judicial, educational and highway posts.

On the local scene, the mayorality race is in the limelight as two third ward aldermen, Dean Davenport and Harry Gebeau, who is also a candidate for re-election as alderman, seek election to the city's top elective office.

The contest developed following the death of John Knight who had been nominated for the office in the February primary election.

In the second contest, Gebeau, incumbent third ward alderman seeking re-election, is being opposed by Ralph S. Hamilton who became a 'sticker' or write-in candidate when Gebeau announced his candidacy for mayor.

In the election Monday, both Gebeau and Davenport are 'sticker' or write-in candidates. Their names will not appear on the ballot because they were not nominated for the office. Anyone voting for his choice must either apply a sticker with the name on it or write in the candidate's name in the space allowed for it. In either case, the voter must place an 'X' in the box in front of the space where the sticker has been placed or the name written in. If he fails to do this, his ballot will be invalid.

This also applies in the third ward aldermanic race. However, in this incidence, Gebeau's name will appear on the ballot since hewas nominated for reelection in the primary electon. Anyone wishing to vote for Ralph S. Hamilton, who formerly served the ward as alderman from 1950-1952, may either place his sticker over the name of Gebeau or below it. Again, in this case, the voter must place an 'X' in the box in front of the name of the candidate for whom he wants to cast his vote.

Voters will also be asked to vote on the proposal to flouridate the municipal water supply to reduce tooth decay.

The proposal was placed before the people when the city council failed to reach an agreement on the matter.

Figures published by the State Health Department following extensive surveys reveal that tooth decay in children can be reduced as much as 65 per cent and that others using the water containing the flouride compounds will derive some health benefits from the treated water.

The cost of the program is very small, less than 15 cents per person per year, according to latest figures. Cost of the feeding machine is now found to be less than $1,000 and the cost of the entire program per year less than $450. The cost of the program would be absorbed by present water revenues, a spokesman for the city council said, and would not mean increased rates.

The proposal has the approval of the medical and dental societies as will be seen in the following letter:

To voters of the City of Charlevoix:

Numerous studies have demonstrated the addition of fluoride compounds to public water supplies which are naturally deficient in this element will reduce dental decay in children about 85 percent.

In view of the substantial health benefits and the safety of this procedure, we, the undersigned, as members of the local dental and medical societies request your support in voting for the flouridation of the municipal water supply on April 6.

Very truly yours,
L. E. Grate, M. D.
Pres. Northern Michigan Medical Society
Isaac Terr, M. D.
L. D. Ance, D. D. S.
W. F. Hoffman, D. D. S
Gerald Gibbons, D. D. S.
A. F. Litzenberger, M. D.
G. B. Saltonstall, M. D.

Also of major interest locally is a Republican candidate for the state board of agriculture, Arthur K. Rouse of Boyne City, the first candidate from northern Michigan to appear on the ballot in more than 20 years.

On the Non-partisan ballot Charles L. Brown, seeking re-election as judge in the 13th Judicial district after serving five years, is being opposed by William Meyers of Traverse City.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Monday. In Charlevoix the polls are at the city hall.

Floyd D. Rice Trial Opened Here Monday

A jury of 12 men and two women were selected Monday to hear the trial of Floyd D. Rice, 61, of Ferndale, who is charged with the murder of another Ferndale resident, Clyde Hughes, 47, at Boyne City Nov. 30.

Judge Charles L. Brown is presiding at the trial, which got underway Monday afternoon and which is expected to be concluded Friday.

A parade of witnesses has been on the stand since the trial opened. They in turn have related the incidents which resulted in the shooting of Hughes on the night of Nov. 30 at the home of Rice's mother-in-law, Mrs. Mable Gill, in Boyne City.

Two witnesses Tuesday, Virgil DeLaney, a Walloon Lake tavern operator and Mrs. Glenna Gillispies, a waitress in another tavern, said they heard Rice make threats against his wife, Pat and Hughes. The trio had visited several taverns in the area during the day of the shooting.

C. M. Bice, Charlevoix county prosecutor, is presenting the case for the state. Rice is represented by Donald W. Loria of Detroit and A.T. Washburne of Petoskey.

Funeral Services To Be Held Today For A. S. Holmes

Albert S. Holmes, 80, retired stone mason and resident of this community for 63 years, died Monday at the Charlevoix Hospital where he had been a patient for two months.

Funeral services will be held at the Pontius Chapel at 2 p.m. Thursday with the Rev. Harold E. Kuhn and the Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop officiating. Burial will be in Brookside cemetery where Masonic graveside services will be held.

Born at Almada, Michigan, Jan. 19, 1873, Mr. Holmes came to Charlevoix in 1890. He was a stone mason and brick-layer by trade. For many years he spent the winter months in Florida where he had a winter home at Fort Orange. He was a life member of the Masonic lodge and at one-time was active in the Congregational church.

Easter Triumph

By Rev. J. Bekkering

The Easter Triumph, together with the death of our Saviour, forms the keystone of our Christian Creed. That is the reason why the sacred writers, stressing Jesus' death and His rising from the tomb, mention it more than 300 times. Yet not once do they question it or debate it. To them the death and resurrection of Jesus was a fact. They confidently accepted the glorious message that on the third day after His crucifixion the Son of God rose from the dead. People do not waste time disputing that the sun sends light to the earth or that each spring nature revives—then why, says the Apostle Paul should we waste precious hours arguing the even more evident fact of the Saviour's resurrection? Yes, Christ lives. And in order to be sure of salvation and a blessed eternity, we must believe with the Apostle Paul that "Jesus died and rose again." Be sure of this: whatever your father or mother believes, wherever your husband or wife believes, whatever your sons and daughters believe, whatever your church or pastor believes, that can never bring you into heaven. You yourself must believe that Christ arose.

Unbelievers repeat that falsehood now almost 2,000 years old, that the body of Jesus was stolen from the grave — others suggest that the people who came to weep at the grave mistook another empty tomb for the sepulcher of Joseph—another group of unbelievers declare that due to the cool air of the tomb our Lord rejoined consciousness and left the grave. Let these unbelievers deny that fact of the resurrection—we want to remind you on Easter, as we stand before the open grave, that the fact of Christ's resurrection is one of the most definite assurances found in the Scriptures.

Old Testament foretold the Saviour's rising from the grave. King David foresaw the living Christ Job sang triumphantly: "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Christ Himself repeatedly foretold His rising from the grave. He said: "As Jonah was within the whale for three days, so, for the same length of time, He, the Redeemer, would sleep in the sepulcher." And the Son of Man keeys His word. When has He ever broken His promise? When did He ever deceive His followers? Why shouldn't we believe then His pledge that He could break the bonds of death? The Easter Triumph is that Christ lives. And our triumph is the promise of Christ: "because I live, ye shall live also." Yes, because Christ died for our sins and was victorious over death, therefore we, who believe in Him, have the assurance that we are not to be thrown upon the scrap-heap of eternal discard, but that our bodies, though they decay in death, are to be resurrected, to renewed, to be restored, in dondrous beauty fitted for the eternities in the heavenly mansions. If He is our King and Saviour, we do not have to die as a beast and decay. For the Christian has eternal lfe, knowing that the grave is not the final chapter in his existance.

Let us then rejoice on Easter Day in the living Christ !

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

ANOTHER FEW DAYS the Easter bunny will be making his Good Friday and Holy Saturday boys and girls in Charlevoix . . . And the mommies of all these youngsters will be coming out in new spring togs and Easter bonnets and then we'll know that spring is really here . . . But don't forget the true meaning of Easter . . . The solemnity of Holy Week with Maundy Thursday, regular visit to all the good little services climaxed by a bright new day, Easter . . . a day of hope and joy . . .

AND ANOTHER SIGN of spring, in case you need another was the northbound flight of a flock of wild swans last Wednesday . . . As per usual, we just missed them but George Hovey, who saw them, said they were flying very low and looked enormous . . . Earl Miller, quite an expert on wildlife, said it was the first time he'd ever seen a flock of the great white birds.

And speaking of swans, Mrs. James Coleman said there was a lone swan in Round Lake recently . . . Must have been a visitor from Sportsman's Park at East Jordan . . . Remember when we used to have the lovely white swans in Round Lake and Old River . . . As we remember it, someone destroyed them or something . . . A shame too, for they made a beautiful picture on the lake . . .

WE SWORE we wouldnt mention basketball again this spring but we had to relay this bit of news to those souls who do not like the foul regulation in basketball . . . the one and one free throw rule . . . Chums . . . you're stuck with it another year following a recent decision of the rules committee . . . Seems they couldn't think up another rule to replace it . . . So, of you've got any ideas you might try 'em on the committee . . .

WHEN THE Greater Muskegon Catholice Central high school opens next fall, there'll be a couple of coaches on its staff who are mighty familiar to sports fans in northern Michigan . . . Mike Corgan who guided Petoskey football squads for seven years will ha found on the gridiron and on the basketball court will be none other than Walt Oberlin, Harbor Springs coach a few years back who left there in the summer of '50 for military duty.

AS YOU ALL KNOW, Mrs. Esther Radle was the lucky lady who won the new gas range at the cooking school last week . . . Everyone in town was happy for her and we can't think of a nicer person to have it happen to . . . We'll bet she can bake real good cookies in it so maybe she'll have some on the pantry shelf for a hand-out one of these days.

THE KIDS in the kindergarten and their teachers, Mrs. Dorothy McRea and Mrs. Marjorie Ayers, enjoyed a wonderful treat last week when they visited the sugar bush at the Carlton-Smith farm in Hayes township . . . They spent the entire morning watching the sap being gathered, boiled down and made into luscious maple syrup . . . They got to taste the sap, the maple syrup and maple sugar . . . If you've never visited a sugar bush, you're really missing something . . . It's great fun . . .

MANY OF OUR hometown people are returning after a winter spent hither and yon . . . But there are those who are still traveling, including Mrs. Glenn See, who sent a card this week from Ensenada, Mexico . . . that she had visited many places and was having a grand trip . . . From Florida a card from the Archie LaFrenieres of St. James who are having themselves a little jaunt before the summer season starts . . . And from Mrs. W. A. Cline, who has been in Bradenton, Fla., the news that she is returning to New York to spend some time with her daughter, Helen Rose, before trekking back to that place called home on Dixon ave. . . . It won't be long now before everyone will be back and it will be just like it should be . . .

JIMMY DURANTE'S favorite saying "Everybody wants to get into the act" certainly rang true around Charlevoix last week-end as the Northland minstrel show was presented for the benefit of the band uniform fund . . . A lot of mighty nice people put on a super show at the gym . . . a show that had a bit of everything and a million laughs . . . And we swear that everyone who wasn't in the show or helping with it was in the audience . . . That's what we call getting behind a project and giving it all you've got . . . To the cast, the directors and workers . . . A million orchids for a job more than well done and to those who supported the program to a point where it hurt . . . a million more . . . All this is just another reason why we contend that Charlevoix is just about the nicest place in the world to live . . . And Mr. Odmark assures us that within a short while you'll all have an opportunity to view the result of your hard work and generosity . . . the new band uniforms . . . for he's planning a 'thank you' concert later this month . . .

It's a sign of something or other . . . the fact that the Ironton ferry started operation yesterday . . . At least we know that the ice in Lake Charlevoix is just about gone . . . And best of all, the smelt will soon start running . . . Oh happy day . . . And after that the perch . . .

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Editor,

We have with us a period of interest and possible change in policy of government of our city. Some talk in town is revived on the city manager issue, pros saying we need a $10,000 manager, cons that the size of the town cannot warrant such expenditure. I can subscribe to both statements.

However, a man from East Jordan the other day came forth with a solution of great merit. He said, "What I would like to see is for the two or three of our towns to go toghether and hire one city manager."

This is entirely practical, can operate harmoniously between towns, attracts men of high calibre, and has been proven workable between towns having city engineers and city managers serving more than one community.

OPEN LETTER

To all voters

Do not be mislead by rumors which are being circulated that I would not be able to fill the office of Mayor if elected.

I have a copy of Sec. 18, Act 133 of Public Acts of 1945 which certifies that I am qualified to serve as Mayor or any other elective office.

My past record of attendance as an Alderman indicates the sincere interest I have in the promotion and development of Charlevoix both as a resort city and industrial community. My close association with our former mayor will also serve to carry out the program underway for a more progressive Charlevoix.

Your vote on April 6th will indicate your confidence in this betterment program.

Sincerely,
HARRY GEBEAU

Mr. Farmer:

It takes a large volume of livestock to attract a large number of livestock buyers.

The Traverse City Livestock Commission sells more livestock than any sale in Northern Michigan.

The bigger buyers attend the Traverse City Livestock Auction, therefore you are assured the full market value when you consign your livestock to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. Don't hesitate to spend a little extra money for trucking to the Traverse City Livestock Commission. It will be repaid many times.

Eastern Star To Offer Handwriting Analyses April 15

Handwriting analyses by authorities in the field will be offered by the Charlevoix chapter of the Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple next Wednesday, Mrs. Harry Gebeau, worthy matron, has announced.

From 5 until 9 p.m. on that date two life members of the chapter, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Dutton of Bay City, operators of a grapho-analysis school, will give "shorty" analysis based on specimens of handwriting, with proceeds from the service going to the local chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutton operate a grapho-analysis school at Northeastern School of Commerce in Bay City where they teach business and professional leaders as well as parents and teachers to understand people by studying their handwriting.

The analysis offered by the Duttons will provide an inventory of your present personality and your mental habits which are the foundation of your physical habits. However, the impartial test will not pass on your virtues or dig up your bad habits but it is aimed at helping you understand yourself.

Floyd D. Rice Starts Serving Life Sentence

Floyd D. Rice, 61 of Ferndale, was taken to Southern Michigan prison Tuesday to begin serving a life sentence for the murder of his good friend and hunting companion, Clyde Hughes, 47, also of Ferndale, at Boyne City November 30.

A jury of 10 men and two women found the former resident guilty of murder in the first degree at an early hour Friday after deliberation for five hours and 45 minutes. The jury, with Harry Paddock of Walloon Lake serving as foreman, returned the verdict at 12:35 a.m. and immediately afterwards Judge Charles L. Brown sentenced Rice to spend the remainder of his natural life in prison, the mandatory sentence for first degree murder.

The four day trial ended late Thursday afternoon after a long line of witnesses were called to testify. Rice was called to the stand late Wednesday and returned Thursday before C. M. Bice, county prosecutor completed his case. Rice was represented by A. T. Dashburne of Petoskey and Donald W. Loria of Detroit.

Rice shot Hughes in the yard of Rice's mother-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Gill, last Nov. 30, after the pair, accompanied by Rice's wife, Pat, had come to Boyne City for the closing days of the deer hunting season. After the shooting Rice left the scene and was captured several hours later near Grayling by state police from the Gaylord post.

Rice admitted the shooting but contended then and all through the trial that he shot Hughes in self defense.

Issues Warning About Setting Of Grass Fires

A warning against setting grass fires without permission was issued this week by Jerry Whitley, fire chief, after the Charlevoix fire department received six calls in the past week to extinguish fires which had gotten out of control.

If permission is given and the fire should get out of hand or if someone should report a fire in that immediate area, the fire department can answer the call without calling out its volunteer firemen, Mr. Whitley said.

Fighting grass fires is an expensive business when the department has to answer daily calls he went on.

Residents outside the city limits must obtain permission from the conservation department before setting a grass or brush fire. This can be done by calling JU 2-6681.

An early spring and a small rainfall have brought about a condition that makes it dangerous to start fires unless the proper aid and facilities are available, so everyone is asked to heed the warning issued this week.

John Knight Fund Committee To Meet

A meeting of the John Knight Memorial Fund committee has been called for 7:30 Saturday evening at the City Hall by Tip Riley, committee chairman.

The Charlevoix city council met Tuesday night for a special meeting with Mayor pro tem Harry Gebeau presiding and all aldermen present.

They also voted to accept as a gift from the U. S. Coast Guard the weather signal tower now located on city property near the water tower. This was offered to the city after the Coast Guard discontinued this particular type of signal service.

J. H. Sims of Grand Haven, consulting engineer, attended the meeting and discussed revenue certificates, fuel and lubricating oils and other problem facing the group.

In other action the council approved the applications for the following licenses: a Class C liquor license for Steve Dubel; a Class C liquor license for Earl and Patricia Gardner, an eight-months Class C liquor license with dance permit for Della E. Lomas; an eight-months Class B hotel liquor license with dance permit for the Belvedere Hotel and Casino.

Cancer Crusade Opens This Week

The 1953 American Cancer crusade in Charlevoix county will open this week under the direction of Basil C. Cummins of East Jordan, insurance agent executive, Mrs. Ronald Scott of East Jordan, county commander has announced.

The 1953 goal in the county has been set at $1,400, Mr. Cummins announced. This is slightly higher than the amount contributed in 1952. The total at that time was $1,320.

Stock Should Be Purchased Soon For New Building

Stock subscriptions in the Charlevoix Development Corporation turned in on demand and those that are due should have the prompt attention of the subscribers, A. L. Livingston, treasurer of the Corporation said this week.

To date there is $5,930 out in stock which must be picked up by April 15 if the Charlevoix Development Corporation is to meet its obligation.

The Corporation now has on hand $16,383. The remainder of the stock must be purchased by the subscribers before the $15,000 first mortgage on a new $50,000 building to house a new industry can be purchased.

The new industry already has purchased property on which to construct the new fireproof building. If Charlevoix is to meet its obligation by loaning the company $15,000 and taking in return a first mortgage, subscribers must purchase their stock by mid-April, Mr. Livingston warned.

Junior Class Is Completing Plans For Annual Hop

The Junior Class of the Charlevoix high school has adopted "April in Paris" as the theme for the annual J-Hop scheduled for Saturday, April 18.

Music for the event will be by Wayne Behling's popular combo.

The event will be held at the high school gymnasium beginning at 8 p.m.

Cynthia Smith and Karen Smith are co-chairmen of the decorating committee which is making backgrounds, paintings and completing plans for transforming the gymnasium into a spring setting. The entire class will serve on the committee.

Other committee chairmen who are being assisted by class members are: programs, Gail Krahnke; refreshments, Eunice Flower and Virginia Brown; Bids, Carol Paul and Barbara Pouquette; advertising, Sue Beaudoin.

The class is planning a dancing party which they are sure everyone will enjoy. Anyone wishing added information on the J-Hop may call Larry Burns class president, at Liberty-7-2082.

Other class officers are Miss Krahnke, vice president; Miss Pouquette, secretary and Gordon Mol, treasurer.

Alert Fisherman Retrieves Boy's Lost Basketball

In a town like Charlevoix, which is blessed with many boys, basketball and lakes, the three are bound to come together sooner or later, which happened recently when a small boy, eight-year-old Tony Duerr, lost a basketball on an ice floe in Round Lake.

The last anyone saw of the ball it was floating through Pine river toward Lake Michigan several days after it was lost.

But Emerald LaBlance, local fisherman, returning from lifting nets, saw a floating object and changed the course of his fish tug to investigate. Result: Tony Duerr now has his basketball back, thanks to a fisherman who investigates all floating objects he sees while on the lake and who reads the Courier, which had carried an account of Tony's loss.

Fund Drive Of Red Cross Is Over The Top

The Charlevoix county Red Cross fund drive held annually during the month of March topped the goal of $3,775 George LaBlance, county fund chairman, has announced.

A total of $4,271.07 has been contributed in the county during the month-long campaign, Mr. LaBlance reported.

In Charlevoix and the adjacent area, $1,858.10 was contributed with Beaver Island adding $53.41, Mrs. J. C. Marshall said.

Elsewhere in the county Boyne City reports $1,247; East Jorden, $1,032; Walloon Lake, $224; Ironton, $45.50; Boyne Falls, $20. All returns are incomplete, local chairmen report.

In Charlevoix in the first ward where Mrs. E. D. Hawley was chairman, $172.70 was contributed; second ward, Mrs. John Mol and Mrs. Ted Miller, co-chairmen, $301.26; third ward,—Mrs. Fred Southwood, chairman, $228.60; business district, H. B. Schofield and J. C. Marshall, $206; organizations, $10, Phelps district, Mrs. Earl Balch, $28.50; Loeb school district, Mrs. C. J. Liston, $8.00; Barnard road, Mrs. Arthur Steel, $20.00; Hayes township, Mrs. George Smith, $25.05, Mrs. Clifford Struthers, $15.15, and Mrs. Lester Umlor, $10.30; summer residents, $503.00.

Mr. LaBlance, county fund chairman and Mrs. Marshall, local chairman, would like to express their gratitude to the volunteer workers who gave of their time and effort to solicit funds for the Red Cross and to the people of the Charlevoix area and the summer residents for their fine response.

The Charlevoix county chapter of the American Red Cross would like to acknowledge the generosity of the contributors throughout the county as well as part-time residents who gave that the services of the Red Cross, including aid to servicemen and veterans and their respective families, the blood program, water safety first aid and other services available through the local chapter might be continued.

R. S. Hamilton Victor In Third Ward Race; Fluoridation Carries

Dean Davenport, local insurance agent and third ward alderman for the past year was elected mayor Monday in a 'sticker' or write-in campaign which developed following the death of Mayor John Knight who had been nominated without opposition in the February primary election.

Davenport defeated Harry Gebeau 499 to 284.

In the voting by wards, Davenport polled 118 to 50 for Gebeau in the first ward; 210 to 106 in the second ward and 171 to 128 in the third ward.

In the second contest at the election, Gebeau, who was also seeking re-election as third ward alderman, was defeated by a write-in candidate, Ralph S. Hamilton. The latter became a 'sticker' candidate after Gebeau announced his intentions to seek the office of mayor. The vote was 142-112. John Wolf, a second 'sticker' candidate polled 35 votes.

A third ward alderman to fill the unexpired term of Davenport will be named by the council within 20 days.

The proposal to fluoridate the municipal water supply was adopted by a 657-237 vote. It marked the first time in the state of Michigan that the proposal had been placed on the ballot for popular approval or rejection. In the past this has been done by the governing body of the community.

Other city officials returned to office without opposition are Nelle A. Hammond, treasurer; Hugh Mayne, clerk; Charles Bellinger and Harry Zeitler, first and second ward aldermen; George O. Haggard, Arthur Bergeon and C. B. Meggison, supervisors in the first, second and third wards respectively.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Gene Alleman

WHAT WILL happen when atom bombs fall here? And if they fall? How much can we help ourselves by spending time and money now to reduce disaster later, should disaster strike?

Particularly the "if" but also the "when" of modern bomb attacks make the whole problem of Civil Defense difficult. Individual people tend to put off decisions about CD until "some other time," realizing that organized action, to be effective, must be planned long before an attack takes place. Legislators seem to react in a similar way. For the most part, they can't work up much enthusiasm for Civil Defense problems.

It is not too hard to understand their attitude. Basic feeling is that the state should not be expected to get excited about spending for Civil Defense until the federal government shows signs of backing a national program with big money and a real organization. They do not feel that Uncle Sam has shown that interest. "Washington has the facts and figures," a senate leader said. "If their sources of intelligence do not show conditions dangerous enough to warrant a federal program, how can individual states be expected to take action?"

RECENT RED peace overtures will not increase chances for Civil Defense appropriations either, for the legislature, like an individual, breathes more easily when the pressure is off. And with solons still sweating out a big state deficit, the legislature can be expected to spend a little time and even less money on Civil Defense provisions.

But continuation of talk at a federal level of big spending and clean cut action can be expected to have its effect on the legislature. When President Eisenhower talks about a multi-billion dollar program and Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson talks about drafting civilians into grossly understaffed CD ranks, state law makers will take much more [illegible]

INVESTIGATION into problems of padding of school reports so local districts can get more money from the state is being approached very gingerly, indeed by capitol people. It all started with the discovery that Sandusky has probably received $145,000 more than was due it during the last two years. Examinations of school figures in Lansing caused Gov. Williams to request that 20 counties be investigated.

But it is being whispered in capitol corridors that a detailed audit and strict application of the law might implicate as many as 200 school districts. Legislators hope their fears are without good foundation and that the whole matter can be corrected with a minimum of embarassment and publicity.

MICHIGAN will gain substantially if the federal "Tidelands Oil" bill becomes law. The state would then possess clear title to 38,450 square miles underlying the Great Lakes, more than another state from an area standpoint. There is general belief that beneath the Great Lakes lie rich mineral deposits of the same general nature as oil, gas, salt and brine already tapped from adjoining land. The areas were not developed previously because of legal questions about title, but should the bill, which clearly makes the land state owned, become law, the way would be cleared for the state to grant rights and collect royalties from commercially backed ventures. Although the Great Lakes area can be important to Michigan and other bordering states, it is only a side issue when compared to the money involved from oil pumped from the oceans off adjacent states coast lines.

TOURISTS along highway route US 12 may notice new signs stating "Red Arrow Memorial Highway." These signs are placed at nine points along the road's course from Detroit to the Indiana state line near New Buffalo. They indicate that the highway is dedicated to the dead of Michigan's famous 32nd army division, also known at the Red Arrow division. This army unit consisted mainly of Michigan men and earned glory in both World Wars. The dedication was ordered by Road Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler following the request of the Red Arrow Memorial committee.

Another highway will soon be posted with memorial signs. It is US 112, which also runs from Detroit to the Indiana line near New Buffalo (but south of US 12). This road was named in honor of General Casimer Pulaski, a Polish hero of the American Revolution. The state legislature voted to make this dedication and the governor signed the bill into law only days ago.

WHILE MANY a trout fisherman shines up his equipment for opening day other outdoor people are concerned with the question of deer population. The problem is too many deer in the lower part of the state; too few in the U. P. Suggestions of capturing deer in the southern peninsula for release is not greeted enthusiastically. there is objection to an open period for does; winter feeding with hay is mentioned.

Time will tell what state officials decide to do about maintaining the deer herd to best advantage.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fren Martin

A VISITOR in town the other day stopped and asked us where a certain street was on the north side and asked a question we'd like to repeat . . . "Where are your street signs? . . . Just where are they? It seems that in the distant past we heard new street signs had been ordered . . . Heaven knows we need them . . . but that's the last we heard of them . . . Let's make like a serial . . . Were the signs ordered? Did they arrive in Charlevoix? If so, where are they now stored? Why have they not been placed on the street corners where they are needed to guide our many visitors about our fair metropolis . . . Listen in next week at this time and we will try to enlighten you . . . That is, if we get enlightened . . .

MRS. RAY FAULKNER has generously offered to share a recent letter from Mrs. L. E. Towe in which she tells of an interesting trip she and Mr. Towe and a friend, Aunt Fan Blauvelt of Jonesville, now 80 years old, took east to visit Dudley Towe, a student at Dartmouth . . . During our trip we celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary, really a whole week of celebration . . . It started when we left Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Larry had Aunt Fan sit in the front seat with him that morning and I did not get to see the map. Suddenly I said "Why look, Larry, we are nearing Norman Rockwell's house. You must have taken the wrong road for it's about 15 miles from the pike. With that he whipped out a letter and threw it over into my lap. It was a letter from Norman Rockwell inviting us to spend that evening with him in his studio. What an anniversary present! I did so want to stop there last summer when we went through but Larry said, "Nay, Nay."

What an interesting man he is and, of course, my favorite artist.

"I think the picture he did of Ike before election and the story that he wrote about him was a masterpiece. I told him so and added that the story was so full of human interest and he said, 'Well, I had a subject who was so full of human interest to work on.'"

"HE WAS DOING a picture that is to be on an April cover of the Saturday Evening Post. It was the picture of a gal about 12 years old with a beautiful black eye. She is sitting in front of the superintendent's office and her teacher is in the office (the door is ajar) and is more than mad about her little brat, but you know the girl is gleeful in spite of what punishment she may get for she won the fight.

The girl is a Mary Wayland from Arlington and he said he had to go way to Pittfield, Mass., to find a man with a beautiful black eye, for it is very hard to paint.

Then Larry took some pictures and Mr. Rockwell quite insisted that I be in the pictures with him. They came yesterday and got a real bang out of them."

Watch for the April Post!

WHEN AMY Kipke was named as valedictorian of her class this year she was following a precedent set by her older sister, Nancy, now Mrs. Don Bambach . . . who headed her class back in 1949 . . . Gee, what an example for the third and last Kipke, Bonnie Lee, to have to follow . . .

AS YOU'VE NOTICED, everyone's coming home from the south . . . And they'll hardly believe us when we tell them we've had beautiful weather until now . . But then, we could have told you we'd have snow over Easter week-end . . . we always do . . . Someone came up with the 'news' that we might have a cold April . . . We won't complain too much if it starts warming up in May . . . But who can tell about the weather . . .

WASN'T IT GRAND last weekend . . . seeing so many people home for the Easter holiday with their families . . . Many of the college crowd around . . . Most everyone was in church Sunday . . . all decked out in Easter finery despite the cold and snow . . . (really, it wasn't as bad as it sounds) . . . And of course, the little ones had their families up at the crack of dawn . . . After all, one did have to see what the Easter bunny left . . . And what happy surprises . . . Our idea of Heaven would be to be a kid again with all the cute clothes and things that youngsters have today . . . and without a care in the world . . .

We went on the grandest trip last week . . . via colored slides we saw beautiful pictures of European countries taken by Major Harold Young, visiting his parents, the Gustav Youngs, after four years in Europe . . . The pictures we saw were the pick of more than 300 slides taken by him and his wife as they toured the Bavarian section of Germany, as well as parts of the Netherlands, France, including Bastogne, where a beautiful monument in the shape of a star is being erected, Luxemburg, Denmark, and the two Scandanavian countries, Norway and Sweden . . . The last two were particularly interesting because it was here that the Major and his family visited the birthplaces of his parents; visited with uncles, aunts and cousins and brought home with him pictures of many places and faces his folks haven't seen since coming to this country more than 40 years ago ... The pictures are near perfection as far as photography is concerned and were a joy to see . . . We know you would have loved them as much as we did . . .

The first May flower are out, despite the cold winds . . . Our little neighbor, Corky Curtis, who had found a few on Sunday shared his small 'find' with us . . . And now we're sure that spring can't be far away.

And if you don't think so we heard about another 'find' by Carla Riley in her own yard on Saturday . . . eight mushrooms . . . the kind we all love to hunt. There is no explanation of how they got there but we have reports from the Riley family that they were luscious . . . We have only their word . . . they didn't share their 'treasure'.

Our humblest apologies to the Clarence H. Smiths . . . It was to their sugar bush the Kindergarden made a visit last week. Don't know how we got mixed up . . . Guess there's just too many Smiths.

EVEN THOUGH the C. J. Fiedler family wasn't together for Easter, three of the family were represented at a family gathering . . . Jim, stationed in Boston with the Navy wired a lovely Easter plant . . . Dean, who is back on the job as chaplain's assistant at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., was represented by his wife who brought a tape recording of her husband's singing and speaking voice . . . And Chester came in person . . . In all, quite a day at the Fiedler home. . .

Study Club Hear Of Project For A 'Girls' Town'

Mrs. William Merrill of Bloomfield Hills, state president of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs, addressed a joint meeting of the Shakespeare and Dickens Clubs at the Congregational church lounge Tuesday afternoon.

She spoke briefly on clubs and their role in community life before telling the story of Girl's Town, a plan to establish a community for underprivileged girls comparable to Boys' Town. She related the original plan and then said that it has been decided that small schools throughout the atate where they are most needed would serve the purpose better than one large school. It is the aim of the Federation to build these schools. Mrs. Merrill concluded her talk with the statement that this is just one of the many things that can be accomplished if women band together for a cause.

Spring flowers and white tapers in silver candelabra decorated the tea table at which the club presidents, Mrs. Gordon Freedman and Mrs. Charles Bleha presided.

Mrs. Merrill was accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Merrill Jr.

Commercial Fishing in Winter

Substituting small trucks for boats and ice spuds for anchors, commercial anglers seem undaunted by winter's cold. Commercial fish catches, conservation department records show, even increase during the cold months. Gill nets, placed beneath the ice, are the most common method of fishing and here provide a day's catch of herring for two Brimley Bay fishermen.

Theisen-Clemens To Hold Annual Dealer Meeting

The Theisen-Clemens Co. will hold its annual sales meeting for its dealers and accounts in Charlevoix and surrounding area on the evening of April 14 at the Par-4 Club, Petoskey.

Highlights of the program will be talks given by Cities Service Oil Company executives, B. J. Farwig, General Sales Manager, and T. L. Jenkins, Chief Lubrication Engineer. Mr. Farwig will discuss the supplier assistance program for 1953 and Mr. Jenkins will discuss with film and sound slides the technical aspects of the new Triple HD Koolmotor Oil.

The Company hopes to have Mr. E. L. Stauffacher vice president of the Cities Service Oil Company present at the meeting. It will depend on his availability and current schedule, however.

A formal dinner will be served and the meeting will begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

Census Bureau To Take Survey On Consumer Income

Supplemental questions on consumer income and family characteristics will be asked of a sample of Charlevoix area families in the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey in April, according to District Supervisor Donald P. Watkins. The supplemental questions will be in addition to the regular employment and unemployment inquiries asked each month.

Similar supplemental questions on consumer income asked in the Current Population Survey in April of last year revealed that the average person's income was up by ten percent between 1950 and 1951. For all persons 14 years old and over receiving any money income, the average (median) income was estimated at $2,200 in 1951 as compared with $2,000 in 1950. Both farm and non-farm residents shared in the increase in average income.

Supplemental questions on family characteristics asked in the April 1952 survey revealed that within the span of two generations, the average size of households in the United States declined to the smallest on record, from about five persons (4.93 persons per household) in 1890 to a little over three persons (3.33 persons per household) in 1952. Urban households in 1952 averaged slightly more than three persons (3.19) while rural households averaged nearly four, persons (3.96).

The survey will be conducted locally and in 67 other areas of the country during the week of April 12. Supervisor Watkins emphasized that all information about individuals furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under Federal law. It is used only to obtain summary figures such as totals, averages, and percentages for various groups in the population and not [illegible] particular [illegible] to by [illegible]. Mrs. Ross Alexander Named President Of Dickens Study Club ector for the Day Camp will be announced at a later date.

In the absence of the Finance Chairman, Mrs. Charles Duerr reported the profit on this year's sale of Girl Scout cookies is $157.50.

Present at this meeting, was Miss Helen Langlois, the Girl Scout community advisor assigned to work in Michigan. The purpose of her visit was to get acquainted with Council personnel in this area and give help and advice on local Girl Scout problems. She felt that the primary need in this community is for more trained leadership. She suggested that the first aim should be to make training available to Girl Scout leaders.

Miss Langlois also told the board that the trend in Girl Scout organization is toward combining local groups into area councils, which are then able to have within their own area, one or more professional Girl Scout workers. She suggested that several counties adjacent to Charlevoix county might be combined to form an area council. Another advantage of area organization is that the area might then have a permanent, established Girl Scout camp which girls from Charlevoix and other neighboring communities could attend.

Mum's The Word

Though all secrets are kept locked in his noble head, the mute swan is nonetheless probably anxious for the coming of spring and summer. The warm months are the happiest time for this stately white creature, a time when he can paddle about on park ponds throughout Michigan and North America. Conservation department bird specialists say his first ancestors on this continent came from England more than 100 years ago. Since then he has been gracing the waters of many American parks and gardens. The bird earns its name from making only a few quiet sounds during its lifetime, unlike the loud calls of other water birds.

New Supervisors Assumes Offices

Four other incumbents were returned to office despite opposition. They are Rudy Korth of Charlevoix township who won over Vernon Mathews; Lawrence Malloy of St. James township who was opposed by Archie LaFreniere; Clyde Warner of Norwood township who defeated Floyd Wagner and Russell Curtis who was opposed by Sam Straw.

The other 15 members were reelected without opposition in the general election.

The new board will find several important projects awaiting them when they open their meeting next week. The business will include the election of a new chairman, appointment of new committees, a report by the Charlevoix county road commission, the equalization of the tax roll evaluations and the adoption of a tentative budget.

Use a special sewing machine oil for your machines, urge Michigan State College specialists. They point out that residues from some oils often cause trouble after the oil evaporates. The specialists recommend a thorough sewing machine clean-up every year. Soak the dust and lint-laden parts in a solvent like kerosene, brush it out with a paint brush or do a little scraping if necessary to get all the parts spotlessly clean.

Advisory Board Is Formed For Area Programs

Representatives of agricultural 4H and Home Demonstration programs met in Boyne City Monday evening to organize a Charlevoix county Co-operative Extension Advisory board for the purpose of co-ordinating the activities of the various services represented.

Mrs. Harry Sloop of East Jordan was elected chairman of the board, Mrs. Clayton Healey of East Jordan was named vice chairman and Ed Rebman of Boyne City, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made for a joint meeting with the Emmet county board April 27.

Attending the organizational meeting were Mr. Rebman, Robert Straw of Charlevoix and Curtis Nicloy of East Jordan representing agriculture; K. C. Festerling of Petoskey, Mrs. Straw and Mrs. Healey representing the 4-H program and Mrs. Emma Reinbold of Pellston, Mrs. Sloop and Mrs. Sims Baker of Charlevoix representing the Home Demonstration groups.

Should Check Farm Machinery In Spring For Better Results

Early spring, before heavy work begins, is a good time to make a thorough check of all farm machinery, reminds Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent. He noted that it's easier to get by without a tractor for a few days now than when spring work is in full swing.

An oil-burning tractor or one with bad compression probably will give other trouble when the work load is on, cautions the agent. He advises heading off troubles with a complete tune-up.

Clean, reset or replace breaker points. Clean and check plugs. Inspect ignition wiring. Adjust timing. Clean and refill air cleaner. Check lubricant in the final drive and transmission. Tighten down to do a full season of work.

Spark plugs are very important, points out Rebman. The right plugs doing a good job in a well-adjusted engine wil have a powdery tan or brown deposit. Plugs with dull, sooty or black oil deposits are trouble indicators.

Sooty deposits indicate too rich carburetion or a poor spark from faulty ignition wiring, a weak coil or breaker points that are pitted and out of adjustment. Oily plugs come from engines using too much oil and point to worn rings, valve guides or bearings. A few hours or days now may save a week or a crop later, says Rebman.

Grapho-analytical experts will analyse your handwriting at Masonic Temple April 15th for 50c.

Demonstration Group Begins Its Thirtieth Year

The Home Demonstration program in Charlevoix county will observe its thirtieth anniversery next year, according to Mrs. George Meggison, charter member of the Marion Center group who celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary March 20.

In relating the history of the Home Demonstration program in the county she said the first groups were organized by B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent at the time.

The Marion Center Grange group was the first club organized in this ammediate area about 1924. Mrs. Meggison recalls that the first lesson was on "Posture."

Instead of studying a variety of subjects throughout the year as is done now, the entire year was spent on different phases of one subject. For instance, in 1925 the subject matter pertained to clothing work and in 1926 to a clothing project, according to early records on file at the county agricultural agent's office in Boyne City.

Also in the files are the names of the first leaders who taught the lessons after receiving them from Michigan State College Extension Service representatives. Among these were Mrs. Peter Brock, Mrs. Orton Van Dusen, Miss L. Cooper, Mrs. Eugena Stroud and Mrs. Molat, all of Charlevoix. Some are still active in the program.

Good Air Forced Grain Dryer Can Aid Farm Profits

Farmers with a lot of headaches around harvest time might save themselves some trouble if they would start thinking about forced air grain drying and do something about it now.

This is the word given by Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, who points out that farmers can cure a lot of their grain moisture problems with dryers, and with a minimum of cost, too.

Rebman said that farmers are faced with the problem every summer of when to harvest grain. If it is harvested too early it will have a high moisture content and will not bring good prices. If harvested too late the grain will shatter or go down in the field.

With grain dryers, Robman said farmers can harvest grain plenty early and reduce moisture content mechanically for good market prices.

"To invest in a grain dryer a farmer must have bins that are in good condition, put out an initial investment for equipment and adjust his harvest season to use the dryer to best advantage," Rebman said. Equipment for a dryer includes a storage bin with air ducts, a fan and a power unit. Many grain bins can be remodeled into a suitable dryer system.

Wheat, pea beans, barley, oats, ear corn and shelled corn can all be dried successfully with forced air.

State Maintains Campsites

Camping by tent or trailer is permissable in six state recreation areas and all state parks except Dodge No. 4, Palms-Books, Sterling and Mackinac Island. Also, camping is permitted in state and national forests under certain conditions.

Fire Control is Important

Fire control in Michigan forests is not an end in iteself. Public safety and productive land use are its major purposes. In northern Michigan, for example, timber production, game management and recreation development are the ultimate goals.

32% Jump in Volume Makes Price Cut Possible!

DETROIT In announcing lower truck and car prices, L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler Corporation (builders of Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks) said:

"Since the first of this year, Chrysler Corporation has built 32% more automobiles and trucks than we were able to turn out in the corresponding period last year under government controls. With the spring selling season just beginning . . . our dealers are already setting a pace more than 50% ahead of last year.

"We are very pleased that we can take this action so shortly after the new administration's prompt ending of price controls and restoring to the automobile industry freedom to build the cars and trucks for which materials can be obtained in a free competitive market.

Co-ops are far out front in spreading ownership of American business!

More and more people are buying stock in American businesses these days.

Spreading ownership in this way is a good thing. When millions of people have a vote in the affairs of a business, they help make sure that the business will be operated in the interests of the people.

In a cooperative, every customer is an owner and has a voice in shaping the policies of his cooperative. Each co-op member has but one vote regardless of the number of shares he owns, and he makes good use of his voting privilage.

Co-ops lead by a wide margin in making business really democratic.

Worth more... and why

There's an old saying that a thing is worth what someone is willing to pay for it. Well, if you could tour the wholesale and retail used car auctions around the country, if you could survey hundreds of used car lots you would discover that used Fords bring higher prices than any competitive make—and by substantial amounts.

THAT'S WHY we feel our '53 cars should not be compared with cars in the same price range. Not because our competitors don't do a good job—obviously they do—but because we feel Ford Cars have more in common with the highest priced automobiles. The similarities are far greater than the differences.

For example. Today, the most expensive cars in this country have V-type, 8-cylinder engines. Ford Cars have had this exact same type of engine for over 20 years.

What's more astounding, the current Strato-Star V-8 sells for hundreds of dollars less than several other makers charge for a six-cylinder car. Now there's nothing wrong with a Six but they do cost less to make. Ford makes a Six—the most modern overhead valve Six in the industry. And if it's a six-cylinder car you want, Ford has it and for less money than the V-8, which is as it should be.

What about ride? Here's another Ford similarity with high-priced cars . . . Riding Comfort. One of the misconceptions for many years has been that weight—sheer weight—is what it takes to make a car ride well. Ford has found that you can make a 3000-pound car ride softer and hold the road better by far than many cars that weigh a full 1000 pounds more. In the '53 Ford, for example, front end road shock has been reduced up to 80%. We say it compares most favorably with the heaviest cars sold today.

What about automatic transmissions? It would take the fingers of both hands to count the various kinds of automatic and semi-automatic transmissions on the market today. The one we offer is called Fordomatic. It is the most versatile on the market, it represents the most profound consideration of engine-to-wheel power transfer—and that it does the best job for our engines isn't even open to question. It "shifts" better than you could shift by hand.

What you can see is also important. Here again Ford Cars lead not only in their price field but in the medium and upper brackets as well. Ford visibility is Full-Circle Visibility. This means huge, curved unobstructed glass area, front and rear, plus side windows that allow all passengers what the hotels call "room with a view."

Appearance? A higher price, of course, does not make a car more beautiful. Conversely, beauty in a Ford comes "for free." Ford has found that it costs no more to develop a beautiful car than one that is less pleasing in appearance. You can drive up to the most exclusive doorways in the world and feel perfectly at home in your Ford. Fords "belong" . . . in exactly the same social category as the finest, one-of-kind creations. After all, a Ford is a custom creation multiplied.

What about running costs? Here's one place that Ford's advantages are obvious. For oil and gas economy Ford has the big cars whipped. Ford parts cost less. Ford service charges are less. Ford tire mileage is thousands of miles greater. And, Ford depreciation is the lowest of any car on the market—bar none.

What are Fords made of? Some people have the idea that the costliest cars are made of "better stuff." It's true that some high-priced cars have costlier upholstery and fittings. What Ford has is so good, both in durability and appearance, that you probably could not tell the difference. You might even prefer it, because of its better design and more pleasing appearance.

Then there's the question of sheet metal. If you were to measure and analyze the sheet metal structure in the most expensive car, you most likely would find it identical in thickness to the corresponding panels in Ford.

After all, then, what is the difference between a Ford and the costliest cars?

In our opinion, the difference is largely a matter of dimensions, weight (and the power required to move it) plus the distinction of owning a car that not so many other people own. The desire for these things is understandable . . . and probably justified for people who are willing to pay the price to satisfy it.

As to comparing Ford with other cars in its price range, by all means do so if you wish. But, as we said before, you'll get a better picture of Ford value by comparing with cars that are most like Fords—those that are priced up to twice as much. In fact, we think you'll quickly begin comparing the other cars with Ford—because the 1953 Ford has really established the New Standard of the American Road.

Tom Carey Is Named Third Ward Alderman

The Charlevoix city council approved the appointment of Thomas L. Carey, local Standard Oil agent, as third ward alderman by a three to two vote at a special meeting Monday night.

He was named to fill the unexpired term of Dean Davenport who was elected mayor in the recent general election after serving in the aldermanic post for one year.

The mayor's race followed the unexpected death of John Knight who had been nominated without opposition for a third term in the February primary. Davenport was opposed by Harry Gebeau for the office.

Mayor Davenport and Ralph S. Hamilton, newly elected third ward alderman, who as a 'sticker' candidate defeated incumbent Harry Gebeau for the post, also assumed their official duties at this meeting.

Other aldermen are: Drew Young and Charles Bellinger of the first ward and Harry Zeitler and Ray L. Kipke of the second ward. Bellinger and Zeitler were returned to office in the general election.

Other business at the special meeting included the appointment of committees for the coming year. The number of committees was reduced from nine to six with minor committees being absorbed into other departments.

The new appointments follow:

Sundew Leaves To Place Buoys In Shipping Lanes

The U. S. Coast Guard lighthouse tender, Sundew, left port Sunday morning loaded with buoys which will be placed in northern Lake Michigan water during the week.

The ship, in command of Lieut. Robert Mackel will put down the more than 25 buoys to mark the reefs and shoals along the shipping lane from South Fox Island north to the western end of the Straits of Mackinaw. This figure does not include the smaller spar buoys.

The Sundew arrived early this month from its home port, Milwaukee, to load the buoys at the lighthouse supply depot but because of weather was unable to leave before.

The ship also will place buoys out of Frankfort, Manistique and several Wisconsin ports before returning to Milwaukee.

During the summer months the ship will return here to service the buoys in the area and transport supplies to the various lighthouses. Earlier the Woodbine, stationed at Grand Haven, transported the lighthouse keepers to the lighthouses in the area.

Hold Dress Revue On 4-H Achievement Day

The garments worn by these girls were among the more than 1,500 items exhibited at the Charlevoix county 4-H Achievement Day last week by 515 4-H workers in the sewing project. The winners of the dress revue will represent the county in a district elimination dress revue at Gaylord August 5. If she should win there, she will enter a state revue at Michigan State college Sept. 1.

Other girls whose garments were chosen for workmanship will have their work exhibited at the Michigan State Fair next fall.

County Cancer Fund Drive To Open April 20

"Cancer strikes one in five. Strike back. Give" is the official slogan of the 1953 crusade of the American Cancer Society, R. C. Cummins of East Jordan, county fund chairman has disclosed.

Posters bearing this message in a brightly colored design will be placed throughout Charlevoix county next week as the 1953 fund campaign opens April 20.

The single word 'Give' in the slogan implies several things: the contribution of time, talent, skill and money to the American Cancer Society's program, Mr. Cummins said. This appeal was selected because it includes all the facts believed necessary in asking people to give to combat such a well known and common enemy as cancer.

He went on to say that the battle against cancer is a full scale war with a constant need for new recruits with hundreds of scientists seeking to learn the secrets of the disease; with thousands of doctors ready to cooperate in detection and treatment and with thousands of soldiers, the voluntary workers carrying the educational offensive into the homes of people everywhere.

The drive in Charlevoix county to raise $1,430 will open Monday, April 20.

Announce Cost Of Kipke Field Lights

This figure does not include the cost of labor which will be donated.

Tentative plans for fund raising projects were also discussed. The first, to be announced later, will get underway in mid-May.

Talmon Brudy Elected Board Chairman; Names Committees For Year

Talmon Brudy, Boyne City second ward alderman since 1946, was elected chairman of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors as the group opened its eighty-fifth annual Spring session at the courthouse Tuesday.

He succeeds Claude Pearsall of Wilson township who had served as chairman for three years and who was defeated for the office of supervisor in the recent general election.

Mr. Brudy's first act following his election was to appoint his committees for the ensuing year. In making the appointments, he inaugurated a new system whereeach general committee is divided into several sub-committees with each member of the committee serving as chairman of a lesser committee. In this way every supervisor heads a sub-committee and others on the general committee with him are committee members under him.

For example, the equalization and finance committee has five minor committees. Among these is the finance committee headed by William M. Sanderson of Eveline township. The other four sub committee chairmen are also his board members.

Others on the equalization and finance committee and the subcommittee each heads follows: Equalization, Sharon Crego of Hudson township; Officers Salary, Rudy C. Korth of Charlevoix township; Apportionment, Mrs. Louvinia Lorkman of Evangeline township; Insurance, Arthur Bergeon of the second ward in Charlevoix.

THE FISHING season for rainbow and steelheads opened Saturday but we haven't heard tell of any good catches . . . There were lots of fishermen around town tho' despite the coolish weather . . . He's a former summer resident at Boulder Park and according to the Town Crier is writing a new 3-D movie for Danny Kaye along with another Chicagoan, Melvin Frank . . . Nice going . . .

And in this letter with the clipping was another interesting yarn Seems this same gal who sent the clipping was calling Charlevoix some three weeks ago and when she gave the name of the town she was calling, 'Charlevoix' . . . the operator mentioned how beautiful it was up here and said she's been here during the summer . . . The call was completed, however, before anyone could find out who the operator was who was spreading the good word about our fair town . . .

THE 4-H achievement day was held here last Wednesday and we went to see the articles on display . . . 1500 in all entered by better than 500 club members in the county . . . Little 10-year olds who can sew aprons and skirts . . . girls a little older who manage dresses and some of the lovely things the other groups make would rival dressmaking by professionals . . . And the boys too did some sewing but that was nothing compared to all the beautiful pieces of furniture and what have you they out made . . . The people who work with these youngsters and teach them all these wonderful things are certainly to be commended . . . They give their time and effort for free to help these kids . . . And they certainly do a grand job . . .

And as if on the wings of the gone goose, people with familiar faces are beginning to put in their tan and freckled appearances . . . under the layers of sun they're as healthy and round as a polka dot.

The black forests of Charlevoix chalk-striped with birches, are beginning to fuzz out pink around the edges . . . and the blue blue waters sparkle with the reflection of the Spring-blue sky.

I am tempted to reach out for a handful of the low hanging clouds and I envy the gorgeous gulls who soar slowly in and out of their misty fluff into the pink sunshine.

The robins are fat and sweetly sassier than usual this Spring . . . which reminds me, we have a new little round-faced Robin in town who wears a white angora bonnet.

Spring bonnets are trim and tailored this year . . . with only a minimum amount of frou-frou. Coiffures remain short and maybe a bit more sophisticated . . . haven't gotten wind of any hair-do's being as goofily typed as the Bunny-tail, Pony tail or Poodle. . . . we'll hope no one becomes inspired by a Mau Mau or a monkey's tail!

That does it for now, I guess . . . golly, golly . . . it's so Springish out methinks I'll go get lost. And if anyone finds me, keep it a secret from the boss, will you? He puts me to work.

P. S. My little pal Georgie is back now too . . . and that's what makes Charlevoix fun in the Spring! F.T.D.

The group will begin rehearsals for the annual Baccalaureate Services tomorrow night (Friday). The first rehearsal will be held at the high school cafeteria at 0:30 p.m. A regular rehearsal night will be selected at that time.

Post card notices have been sent to the former members but anyone wishing to sing with the group is invited to attend this first rehearsal if possible.

Indications are that a group of 40 or more voices will comprise the choir, which made its last appearance at the Christmas concert.

The choir will rehearse weekly for the Baccalaureate services on May 31.

Orchardist Warned Of Wasteful Practices In Use Of Fertilizer

Orchardists usually get best gains from spring use of nitrogen fertilizors, reminds E. D. Longnecker, Michigan State college extension specalist in soil sciences.

He has asked Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, to caution orchardmen against wasting fertilizer elements when and where they are not needed. The county agricultural agent, located at Boyne City, has information on which to base additional advice, notes Longnecker. Another good source of advice is the district horticultural agent, Clarence Mullet, at Traverse City, suggests Longnecker.

Lime, phosphorus, potassium and minor elements may not be needed, except for cover crops and sod growth. The money saved can be put into nitrogen.

Mulching of trees on soils subject to drought or in sod will be very beneficial, suggests the M. S. C. soil scienfirst. Nitrogen rates should be boosted in orchards planted in sod or mulched with sawdust. A 50-to-100 per cent increase is frequently used, but excessive amounts of nitrogen can increase winter injury chances.

The amount of fertilizer depends on growth and production; the over-vigorous plants need less; the poor growing plants need more, plus more pruning and mulching. Spring applications of fertilizer are preferred for nitrogen and fall applications for phosphorus,, potassium and lime. Fall nitrogen applications are more successful on apples than on other fruits and better on heavy than light soils.

Fertilizor cover crops in orchards, vineyards and small fruits as suggested for a small grain or pasture crop, Longnecker advises.

Use no fertilizer in tree holes at planting time, he says.

Ammonium nitrate or equivalent nitrate of soda or sulfate of ammonia, is recommended by Longnecker for apples, peaches, cherries, pears, plums, grapes, currants, gooseberries and raspberries.

Here are some specific fruit crop suggestions:

Apples—no fertilisers at planting except on light soils—and none the 1st year. Use a fourth to a third of a pound per tree for each year of orchard age up to five to seven pounds.

Peaches—Use 1 to 2 ounces first year trees are planted and a third to a half pound per tree per year until a 2 to 3½-pound rate is reached.

Cherries, pears and plums—use 1 to 2 ounces first year and then a fourth to a third ounce per tree per year up to 1½ to 3 pounds.

Grapes—use 1 to 2 ounces first year and then a fourth to a half ounce per vine according to cane vigor.

Currants and gooseberries—use 22 to 4 ounces per bush or 150 to 250 pounds per acre.

Raspberries—use 5 to 10 pounds per acre.

Strawberries require a different treatment, notes Longnecker. They should have 500 to 1,000 pounds per acre of superphosphate, or 4-16-4, in the spring when preparing soil for planting. They should be side-dressed with 200 pounds of ammonium sulfate per acre two weeks after planting; repeat this process August 1. Side-dress weak beds in spring of fruiting year with 100 pounds per acre, he notes, but he warns that spring applications on vigorous beds have caused serious loss of fruit. Put 6-4 or 4-16-4 per acre soon after the harvest for the second and third crop. Care is needed in summer applications against burning of leaves. Soil high in organic matter and fertility may need no commercial fertilizer. Soils vary considerably—consult your local agent on lime, phosphorous, potash.

Little Farmers' Week Is Success Throughout Area

Little Farmers' Week held in 26 Northern Michigan counties during January, February and early March reached more than 8,000 people, Ed Hebman, county agricultural agent stated that Charlevoix county's Little Farmer's Week was very well attended.

E. A. Wenner, district supervisor for the Michigan Co-operative Extension Service, says the events were well attended in most counties. Planned as a concentrated series of four or five-afternoon meetings in one week, the events have several advantages. One of the greatest is the minimizing of travel by Michigan State college specialist, who are speakers at the events. Specialists rotated about the five adjoining counties during a week.

Most agricultural agents reported that they reached from 50 to 100 per cent more farmers in the series of meetings than they previously reached with an occasional meeting throughout the winter months.

If you are in need of a raincoat give some thought to the type of purchase, urge Michigan State College textiles specialists. A waterproof coat will withstand heavy downpours, but it will be a hot plastic or rubberized material that doesn't "breathe" and allow circulation of air. A water repellent coat does not stand such heavy rains; but it will be more comfortable to wear and give good service if dry cleaning or washing instructions are followed carefully, advise the MSC home economists.

Deep Planting Can Burn Seed Oats

Planting oats deeper than recommended will not give a deep root system, according to a Michigan State college farm crops specialist.

"Regardless of how deep the oat seed is planted the permanent root system will always be initiated in the upper inch of soil," says Dr. K. F. Frey.

Seedlings get food for growth up to the ground surface from the seed; if planted too deep they will "burn out" before breaking the surface. Dr. Frey says not to plant oats more than two inches deep.

For best yields oats should be planted during the first week that the land can be worked. Yields from second week seedlings decline rapidly; farmors should increase rate of planting to nine or 10 pecks per acre.

Scholarships Announced For Home Ec Course

With graduation less then two months away and many 1953 graduates planning to attend colleges and universities, scholarships are very much in the news.

Among these are two made available to two Michigan girls who are interested in majoring in home economics at Michigan State college. The two $150 scholarships are offered by the Home Demonstration Groups in Michigan in an effort to encourage girls to become home demonstration agents.

These scholarships were first awarded in 1948 from the excess funds of the Louise H. Campbell Scholarship Fund. Since then the fund has been financed by voluntary contributions of Home Demonstration Groups in the state. Two cents of every membership fee is devoted to the scholarship fund.

Since 1948 scholarships have been awarded to 11 Michigan students. Of this number, five are still in college.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of interest in becoming a home demonstration agent in Michigan; leadership qualities expressed through school, church or youth organizations; academic record in high school; understanding and appreciation of rural life and need for financial assistance.

Home Economics Extension Group Leaders Gather

Miss Lucille Ketchum, home management specialist of Michigan State college, addressed a meeting of Charlevoix county home economics extension group leaders on the services offered by modern life insurance Wednesday.

The meeting, which was attended by club leaders from throughout the county, was held at the courthouse here beginning at 10 a.m. Mrs. Emma F. Reinbold home demonstration agent, was chairman.

New developments in life insurance as well as different types of policies that may be purchased to fit different family needs were discussed.

The presentation of a playlet, "Jean Looks Ahead," by group members concluded the one-day meeting.

Experts Suggest 'Gypsy' Life For Chicks Will Provide Forage And Cut Feed Costs

Poultrymen might try a "gypsy" life on chickens with success, rolling shelters and brooder houses from one green pasture to another suggests Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Chickens are not good foragers, he notes, and can't do much on dry grass. If they have short green succulent growth, however, they may save a poultryman 10 per cent or more of his feed bill. Rebman passes along some tips fom J. M. (Mac) Moore, extension poultry specialist at Michigan State College.

Succulent range means green grass three or four inches high, with the coarse growth trimmed away, and the range should be on clean ground where chickens haven't roamed for two years.

Chicken raisers could take some tips from some turkey growers, who move their brooder houses around. Chickens with enough feed don't like to travel more than 100 feet but they will if the houses are moved.

Ladine and ladine-alfalfa mixture make good chicken pasture. The alfalfa will be green in August when you want some short green feed. They even like quackgrass, and they will "eat it until they kill it out," in case you want some help on that.

One hundred chickens will handle a half acre of pasture very well in dry weather, but when it's growing stronger, you may need some help from cows in keeping it down. Chickens and hogs should not graze the same areas, however.

Some poultrymen find it pays to irrigate one small pasture while the poultry graze on another—and then alternate. Shelters will kill grass if left in one place for two weeks: for one, it's OK.

Michigan farmers and bankers are in joint session this week Wednesday and Thursday at the Michigan Agricultural Finance clinic at Michigan college.

Such topics as borrowing to buy tools, soundness of various investments and the long-run farm outlook are on the program sponsored by the Michigan Bankers' association in cooperation with the M. S. C. department of agricultural economics.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Gene Alleman

TIME FOR ACTION in the Legislature finally came with passing of the spring election and the April 10 deadline for getting proposed bills out of house committees. There was a surge of activity preceding last Friday which was characterized by jammed house calendars, night sessions, and last minute lobbying to prevent favored bills from dying in committee. Law makers now know all the matters they must consider before May 22, the final day of this session.

Perhaps most important of problems yet to be solved is the state's deficit, now estimated at $65,000,000 and what taxes are needed to operate without future deficits. Although no one seems sure of the figure for arguments sake, it is assumed to be about $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. Latest indications are that some decision about a tax to balance the budget will be made before May 22, although there are many who think lawmakers will not be able to agree by then, and will have to meet later.

A means of paying off the deficit will probably be considered separately and stands good chance of not being settled at all until the end of the state's fiscal year, June 30th. Reason for this is that returns from sales tax revenue are mounting to a much higher total than was previously expected. If this continues, or increases, the deficit will diminish. Legislators would like to wait and see the exact sum of the deficit so they know how much money must be raised.

SERVING as spokesman for Michigan industry, on the subject of taxes is the Detroit Board of Commerce which opposes enactment of a payroll tax, a corporation profits tax, an individual income tax as a means to balance the state budget.

Leaders were reported to be worried that a payroll tax, for example, might not be removed by the Legislature two years from now should the deficit cease to be a problem.

Here's the dilemma facing Mirhigan industry.

The Citizens' Tax Advisory Group which sponsored the 1053 State Aid Survey, is convinced that Michigan is levying enough taxes today to meet needs of state and local governments. If the $400-million in state-collected taxes could only be distributed properly, no new taxes would be needed, so the survey concludes.

Such a redistribution can come only by a new constitution whereby present crippling earmarking of state funds to local governments could be eliminated.

Some industrialists are reported to favor a strategy which enacts a new tax with a broad base, whereby many individuals would be affected. The payroll tax on any employer with one or more employees would do just this. Furthermore, it has been proposed that such an employer tax should provide credit for franchise fees paid by corporations, so that corporations could not be taxed twice.

As the long-range solution of stato aid must be popularized at the ballot box a new tax on a temporary emergency basis would have a fighting chance of being repealed IF the tax were unpopular. If the tax hit only a few corporations, chances are good that the levy would be continued indefinitely. Voters tend to ignore the tax reality that corportions must add taxes to consumer prices and that the consumer ultimately foots the bill.

A NEW TAX upon all employers would certainly hit many voters as compared to the illusive corporation profits tax. This would be particularly true if the legislature resisted pressure of lobbyists for special exemptions and if business leaders on every Main Street in Michigan as well as farmers, had to reckon with the new levy. And yet the fact remains that the same sponsors of the State Aid Survey, proposing a long-range solution through revision of the Constitution, are nervously wary about the possibility of being trapped in their own program.

If the voters in 1954 were to favor continuation of the present high state aid to local governments, then industries would be caught in a squeeze.

This predicament has prompted suggestions that a "manageable deficit" might not be such a bad thing after all; the legislature might well postpone action until later; rising sales taxes might help solve the problem. And so it goes,—evading the issue and postponing the solution until tomorrow.

MARKS OF HARMONY between Republicans and Democrats can be seen at the present session, although this, naturally enough, does not extend to all issues. Gov. Williams publically complimented the Legislature on its sound approach to major state problems, including finance, and listed many other subjects he would like to see covered before adjournament. Among them are modernization of civil defense, improving control over drivers' licensing, lowering voting age to 18, adopting "Little Hoover Commission" reorganization proposals a state seal of quality for agricultural products, a fair employment practices law, revision of criminal law, including sexual deviate provisions, laws to stop the spread of animal diseases, increased farm research facilities, laws providing more benefits for workers and more adequate medical facilities.

One party difference exists over the question of opening welfare rolls to public inspection. A bill to permit this was passed last week by the House 56-41, with all Democrats voting against the bill. Seven Republicans also cast negative ballots. Although the bill can expect favorable action in the Senate, it can also expect to be vetoed by the governor. Since bills require a two thirds majority in both houses to pass over a veto Republicans are faced with the problem of finding 11 more affirmative votes in House of Representatives.

Disease Hits Raccoons

A disease, similar to distemper in dogs, has been found in a number of raccoons in Michigan during recent months. First field reports indicated the coons were suffering from deadly rabies, but laboratory checks quickly disproved this. The disease strikes at the nervous system of the animals, causes frothing at the mouth, fits and other nervous disorders. Taking a blood test of one coon, here under anesthetic in the conservation department's game laboratory at Michigan State College are department biologists William Youatt, left, and Dale Fay.

Should Treat Seed, Rotate Crops For Best Oat Results

Seed treatment and crop rotation are the two cheapest ways to insure a good out crop by keeping it free of disease. That's a pointer from Edward A. Andrews, extension plant pathologist at Michigan State college.

Planting oats after oats or in close rotation year after year with other small grains, he says, will tend to build up seedling blight and root rot fungi in the soil. These conditions make a heydey for septoria leaf blotch and black stem fungus, too. Growing row crops and forages between the oat crops and other small grains, says Andrews, will hold losses from these common diseases to a minimum.

The plant pathologist says that Ceresan M and Agrox are two fungicides that can be applied to the seed either as a dust or liquid to control diseases. Panogen and Mycon, equally effective in controlling smut and other diseases of oats, are available only as liquids.

In tests by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station in 1052, these chemicals gave fairly good control also: Vancide 51, Setrete, Tag 331 and NEMA. They are being tested further. The fungicide suggestions by Andrews are based on cooperative experimental results at eight stations in the United States, including Michigan State college, and one in Alaska. Not all materials on sale in Michigan are effective, he cautions, and it's a good plan to check with your county agent.

Michigan State college dairy specialists are working with Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement association officials on a program to put DHIA records into a modern business machine setup. This will help make the records more useful.

Speakers from Michigan State college will take part April 22 in the rural division program of the 23rd annual Michigan Stafety conference, April 22-23, at Grand Rapids Civic auditorium.

Band-seeding of legumes makes both seed and fertilizer do a more efficient job, according to Dr. M. B. Tesar. Garden hose pieces will help in the job.

He said he left the gun at home for his wife's protection when he worked the night shift. Mrs. Kiser also told officers before she died that the shooting was an accident.

The bullet struck Mrs. Kiser in the hip and then apparently ranged upwards into her body. She died two hours after being admitted to the hospital.

Besides her husband, whom she married at Boyne City in 1950, she is survived by two small sons Allan Wayne, 18 months old and Thomas, six-months old; her parents, two brothers, Pfc. Kenneth stationed in Germany with the Army and Alvin D. at home and a sister, Maxine, who resides in Ohio.

The finance committee headed by William M Sanderson adopted a tentative budget of $147,157.20 for 1954. Their decision met with the approval of the board. This is an increase of $11,426 over the budget of $135,731 adopted for 1953. The tentative budget for '53 was $139,875.

Women's Fellowship Groups To Hear Congregational Missionary

Mrs. W. C. Tong

In 1946 the Philippine Islands started their career as an independent nation. Those who understand these people and their problems realized that there was never greater need for Christian missionary service than in this formative period.

An American woman who can tell of the Phillippines from out of years of residence there is Mrs. Margaret Whitfield Tong, Congregational Christian missionary for more than 10 years.

She will speak at the annual Spring conference of the Women's Fellowships of the Cheboygan Association of Congregational churches at Big Rock on Friday.

Tong, now recruiting officer of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, was temporarily at Baguio on the island of Luzon with her three children when World War II started. Mr. Tong was at their home in Davao, Mindinao. So for two apprehensive years she was separated from him until the family was united in Baguio and later transferred to the Bilibid prison in Manila, from which they were liberated by American troops.

While Mrs. Tong has a dramatic story of the racking years of imprisonment, she likes best to tell of the spirit of the Filipino Christians during the war and since, and of the creative years before Pearl Harbor. Since her [illegible] and went back for two years [illegible] reconstruction and rehabilitation work in Mindanao following the war she knows the situation she found at that time and kept closely in touch with the work in the Phillippines since through [illegible].

College Experts Tell Best Ways To Prepare Smelt

With smelt being taken from the streams in the area in sizable dips almost nightly, many housewives, unfamiliar with the small silvery fish, are finding the smelt difficult to prepare.

In a folder compiled by the Michigan State College Agricultural Experimental station in co-operation with Michigan Department of Conservation, several methods of cooking smelt are described.

The first and probably the most popular way of preparing smelt is to pan-fry them.

The fish must first be cleaned by removing the heads and opening the abdominal cavity to remove the entrails with a knife or thumb. It is not necessary to scale them since the scales are small and delicate.

After cleaning and washing the smelt, season with salt and pepper. Roll the fish in cornmeal, dip in egg diluted with milk or water roll in cornmeal again. Using a low flame, brown the fish on one side, then the other.

Flour, bread crumbs, cracker may be used for crumbing.

The smelt may also be deep-fat fried. The recipe suggests that you let the smelt stand for 5-10 minutes after crumbing. Then cook in deep fat, 370 degrees F., until delicately browned.

Or you may prefer to dip the fish in a cover batter and drop into heated fat. Brown on one side for 8-10 minutes turn, brown on other side. Lift out of hot fat and drain on paper towels.

The recipe for cover batter follows One slightly beaten egg, one cup milk ½ t. salt, 1 t. melted fat and one cup flour.

Beat egg with rotary beater, add milk gradually. Add dry ingredients and continue heating. Add melted fat This will cover 24-16 fish

The fish may also be broiled, baked or pickled.

This and other recipes may be found in the recipe folder available at the Extension Service office in Boyne City

"Thank You" Concert By Band Tonight

the cost of $2,225 are the result of many months of hard work and the generosity of the community.

The Band Parents Association instituted a series of projects during the fall and winter to raise funds for the jackets and hats which are worn with the trousers which the band already has. Dinners by the Association, a dessert luncheon at the L. E. Grate home and a benefit games party netted $801.25, a band concert by the combined high school and city bands brought in another $104.25: voluntary contributions by local organizations and individuals added $411.36 to reach the half way mark At this point, the task became increasingly harder as the Association seemingly exhausted all sources of revenue, and it looked as though the band would have to wait another year for the long anticipated uniforms.

About this time, however, someone suggested a minstrel show and the idea caught fire with the result that the show including program and concessions cleared $1,104.46 to put the drive over the top and make the uniforms a reality.

county-owned and operated Grandvue Hospital so the building will comply with state hospital requirements. Major changes will include widening of doorways enclosing hallways and other related improvements so the structure will meet with state approval.

The subject of constructing temporary vaults to protect county records was also discussed by the board. Chairman Talmon Brudy named two additional members to the Building and Grounds committee headed by C. B. Meggison. Lester Hardy of Wilson township and Charles Robinson of Bay township to obtain figures on the cost of building temporary vaults. The committee will present its report at the October maeting of the board.

Two claims totaling $215 for damage to live-stock by dogs were ordered paid.

After accepting the report of the Charlevoix county road commission on the operation of the Ironton ferry during 1952, the board again agreed to share the deficit incurred by the craft during 1953.

In the report it was revealed that the ferry was operated at a cost of $10,696.81 during the past year, leaving a deficit of $3,171.81 over the total receipts of $7,524.70.

This, however, did not include the extraordinary repairs to the ferry and its installations which were made at a cost of $6.207.10 bringing the total deficit for the year to $9.379.

Listed as extraordinary expenses were the removal of the ferry from the water and the repair to the hull at the cost of $3,271.25; complete engine overhaul which necessitated transporting the engine to Wisconsin for repairs, $1,316.81; construction and upkeep of new ramps because of the high water level, $1,619.12 for a total of $6,207.18. This is the first major repair of the ferry in 25 years.

Because public funds cannot be set aside for a depreciation reserve, this must be paid from existing funds.

If you feel tired most of the time, take stock of your work habits, advise Michigan State college home economists. After a thorough physical examination you may find that fatigue comes simply from just dreading to do a job. If that is the case, break the job up in several parts over a period of several days, they suggest.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Gene Alleman

THE "ADVANTAGES" of being in debt will soon be described by factions in government who take a long range view of the state's operating deficit. Arguments can be heard on the beneficial aspects of a "manageable deficit." And, surprisingly enough, there are some sound reasons why a government deficit is of less importance than one in your family finances.

For one thing, they say, the estimated $65 million deficit is really only a bookkeeping figure. For example, the state orders a building to be constructed at a cost of $5 million with completion in two years. That $5 million immediately shows as having been spent. Actually, it is not spent, is not due, and couldn't be paid because the service had not yet been performed.

Then, with Michigan's poorly devised earmarking of state funds it is easy for one state account to run into the red and show a deficit, while other accounts have an over supply of money which cannot be used to balance things up.

A deficit, particularly of the "manageable" variety, is a great advantage, it is believed, in riding herd on a legislature which might otherwise be inclined to spend a surplus frivolously. Dr. William Miller, one of the two Princeton tax experts who analyzed Michigan's financial condition remarked in a speech, "That Michigan could go on living quite nicely forever with a $40 million deficit of the type it now has."

TRICK IS TO turn the deficit liability into an asset in an argument which will help hold off the present legislature from making new tax laws. The idea is that people, faced with the possibility of paying new taxes, can more easily be sold on changing the Constitution to remove many of the earmarking provisions in this way, Michigan will end up with what is generally considered a fairer, more efficient tax system.

If no tax action is taken this session, don't be surprised. Legislators might make signs like coming up with something, but many of them (unofficially) would like to wait until after June 1, the end of the state's fiscal year, to see what conditions look like with all the records compiled. While there exists some pressure to come up with a tax program, there exists terrific pressure from every direction to "tax the other guy." This leaves the legislator in the middle, wondering whether to alienate one group severely by taxing, or leave a much larger group only a little annoyed that the problem has not been solved.

Most legislators agree privately that the Princeton report is sound economically. But politicians shake their heads at the political aspects which may force many of them to support legislation which would reduce state spending in local areas where it is now being unfairly and unwisely distributed. If the problem can be solved by a referendum vote of the people changing diversion provisions, all legislators would be taken off the hook.

No one should be amazed that Michigan's deficit problem, which is really more a political problem than one of finance, should seek a political rather than a financial solution.

LITTLE SUPPORT was forthcoming for a bill in the Senate designed to change the dates to Monday of all national holidays except Christmas and New Years and provide the public several more long weekends. The bill is back in committee and has little chance of passing this session. Its sponsor, Sen. Don Vander Werp, had the blessing of Labor and Industry and the active backing of the tourists associations in proposing the changes. Similiar changes are being submitted to 43 state governments this year, part of a national plan to be consistent in holiday celebration.

Only reason Senator Vander Werp could see for the lack of interest among other Michigan senators is a sentimental one, or the tendency to "leave things as they are." If the proposal gets the backing he hopes to get from the common man in Michigan, he is confident that next time around, the bill will become law.

ALL MICHIGAN DRIVERS will be effected if a proposed bill becomes law. For one thing, it sets the date of each license expiration to coincide with the drivers birthday. This provision alone is expected to save the state $30,000 annually, for notices reminding drivers to renew their licenses will no longer be sent. They will be expected to remind themselves when their birthday anniversary arrives.

A more important provision of the new law will set up a department in the Secretary of State's office; require complete files showing histories of moving traffic violations and accidents. Rate structure for licenses will be changed. A new license will be $3 for three years and $1.50 for each subsequent renewal. Chauffeur's licenses will be $2; minor's restricted licenses, $1.

Tightening of driver licensing operations is guaranteed by traffic safety experts to reduce by one third the number of traffic fatalities in a year, so this bill will receive close study by legislators.

Deadline Nears To Register For Cardiac Classes

Monday, April 27 is the last day for Charlevoix County homemakers to register for the free classes in work-simplification being offered in East Jordan by the Michigan Heart Association, according to Mrs. Ruth C. Kettunen of East Lansing who conducts the classes. The first class of the series will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. starting Tuesday, May 5, 1953.

Any homemaker may enroll in the program although women with heart disease will be admitted to the classes first. The project is being brought to this area in co-operation with the Charlevoix County Extension Service through funds received from the United Campaigns in Michigan. Homemakers are given free instructions in practical ways of making their housekeeping simpler and easier by eliminating unnecessary steps and wasted energy in the preparation and cooking of meals, washing and ironing, bed making, and other household duties.

Any woman in Charlevoix County who would like to attend the free "heart-saving" classes being offered by the Michigan Heart Association can do so by writing to Mrs. Emma Reinbold, Home Demonstration Agent, Post Office Building, Boyne City or by calling the Extension Office at JU 2-6232 for an application blank and complete details.

The Cardiac Housewife Program is endorsed by the Northern Michigan Medical Society and Doctors of Medicine are urged to refer their cardiac patients to the classes.

Charlevoix High School Bands Will Participate In Festival

The Charlevoix high school Junior and Senior bands, directed by C. A. Odmark, will be among the 18 area bands to participate in the annual Nrthern Michigan Band Festivals to be held at Gaylord and East Jordan.

The Charlevoix bands will attend the East Jordan festival with the Petoskey Junior and Senior bands, Boyne City, Central Lake, Elk Rapids, Frankfort, Kalkaska, Mancelona and East Jordan groups on Thursday.

On Wednesday the Gaylord band will be host to bands from Onaway, Grayling, Mackinaw City, Harbor Springs, Cheboygan, Rogers City, Traverse City and Alanson.

Sponsored by the Northern Michigan Music Directors Association, the festival has grown to a point where one school is unable to accomodate the massed band so it has become necessary to hold two festivals with one guest conductor and adjudicator serving both.

This year the guest director will be the nationally known author and instrumental music consultant, E. C Moore of Kenosha, Wis., Education Director of the LeBlanc Instrument Co. and former director of college and high school bands in Wisconsin.

Mr. Moore will direct a massed band of more than 400 young musicians in a concert at the East Jordan high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Beginning about noon each band will present two numbers before the adjudicator for criticism but not rating. Following the individual performances by the band, there will be a parade of bands through the business district at approximately 2:45 p.m. A massed band rehearsal will follow the parade.

Announce Cost Of Kipke Field Light Project

Several estimates for the lighting the football field as a memorial to the late Mayor John Knight received by the Memorial Fund Committee were examined at a meeting of the Committee held Saturday evening at the city hall.

All estimates were approximately the same and revealed that the project will cost an estimated $5,500 for a 60 light installation, Tip Riley, Committee chairman, said. This figure does not include the cost of labor, most of which will be donated by city utility crews.

Mr. Riley went on to say that the material summary shows that the greatest expense will be the purchase of poles, steps and light arms which will cost an estimated $3,780 and the transformers, conductor, primary switching and transformer protective materials at a cost of approximately $1,230. Other materials will bring the cost close to the $5,500 mark.

If more than the necessary amount is contributed, the funds will be used for the purchase of other facilities such as fencing the field.

Many persons have expressed a wish to contribute to the Memorial Fund and plans were made to canvas the city on Monday, May 11, to accept all contributions. Mrs. William Lusk was named general chairman of the project.

City Council To Hold Hearings On Sewer, Proposed Land Sale

Dates on hearings pertaining to the vacating of the north 300 feet of the Ferry ave. beach and the continuation of the present State st. sewer to the city limits at Stover Road were set following a discussion of the two issues at a special meeting of the city council Monday night.

The South Bend Tool and Die Co. has asked to purchase the 300 feet of lake frontage directly south of Theisen-Clemens Co. property for use in conjunction with a new manufacturing plant it proposes to construct here. The Indiana company, which has extensive holdings here, already is considering the purchase of several acres of city-owned property on Stover road as a site for the proposed plant. The proposed site is 'L'-shaped and would connect with the piece of lake frontage the company has asked for. The company proposes to use the land for boat construction.

A resolution was adopted by a four to three vote to hold a hearing Monday, June 1, to hear any and all objections to the proposal to vacate the property.

John Sloothaak, who is building a motel at the northeast intersection of US 31 and State st., and five other property owners on State st. petitioned the council to extend the present sewer system south on State st. to Stover Road and westerly to include a small triangle of land within the city limits.

The council agreed that the extension was an expedient and necessary improvement and set a hearing to accept all suggestions and objections for 8 p.m. Monday, May 18.

Further business at the special meeting included the renewal of the bathhouse lease with Mrs. Edward Heise Sr. for a period of two years: the approval of the purchase of a fairways mower from the Ferguson and Sons Co. of Traverse City and the election of Drew Young as mayor pro-tem by a five to one vote.

(For complete details and legal descriptions on the hearings be sure to read the Notices on page nine.)

Roy Skolton of Petoskey is building a 16 by 24 foot structure on the corner of Bridge and Wood sts. to house an ice cream products business. Hal Forbrig of the Lake Construction Co. is building the cement block structure which will feature a glass front and counter. The building will be completed by June 1.

A second motel at the corner of May st. and Stover Road on M-66 is also nearing completion. The frame structure will house 12 units and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred deCastro who came here last year from Milwaukee, Wis. An office will be in their nearby home. This unit is also being built at an estimated cost of $12,000.

Red Cross First Aid Class Gives Equipment Data

If an inhalator was needed to restore breathing in a victim of drowning or carbon monoxide poisoning or an oxygen mask was needed to rescue a person from a smoke-filled building would you know whom to call?

That is the question asked by the American Red Cross First Aid Class, which wishes to call attention to certain First Aid equipment owned by the city of Charlevoix for use in emergencies.

The class, which is being held here twice weekly, believes the public should know where to call and when to call for this equipment and has made that information available.

In case of drowning, carbon monoxide poisoning or electrical shock where an inhalator is needed to restore breathing, Call the Fire Department at 0611.

In case a person must be rescued from under water or from a smoke or gas-filled building, call the Fire Department for an oxygen mask.

An oxygen mask makes it possible for a rescue worker to remain under water, or in a smoke or gas filled building or room, for 20 minutes while searching for an accident victim.

AFTER listening to our quota of mystery stories for the week, we'll leave the problems of crime to Barry Craig, Joe Friday and his cohorts and others and get down to the little matter of pounding out a few items which we hope will be of interest to you . . .

WE HAD THE privilege last week of meeting one of Charlevoix's oldest citizens still around Will Hampton, who now lives in Ann Arbor . . . We could listen all day to his tales about the early days here . . . And if you think we have political battles now . . . you should have been around then . . . He owned the courier and the second newspaper in town was the Sentinel and all issues were aired pro and con when the two of them went to battle . . . He also told us about the time he accepted a wild cat in payment for a subscription to the Courier . . . Seems his youngster wanted a fur rug . . . We urged him to write a story of not only Charlevoix's but northern Michigan's early days, for he came to Harbor Springs when it was only an Indian village called Grand Traverse . . . For our money it would make wonderful reading . . .

DID YOU HAPPEN to notice the new DC-4s which are now making the flights north (and return) for Capital Airlines . . . They went into service Sunday and from what we hear are really something . . . They carry 60 passengers . . . The flight originates in New York somewhere around 8 a.m. and you arrive in Pellston at 2 p.m. . . . What a way to travel . . .

THE ONE SURE sign of spring was heard the other day . . . in the postoffice . . . you've guessed it . . . the cheep, cheep of the baby chicks arriving from the hatcheries . . .

HOW DO YOU like our new street signs? . . . We think we speak for a lot of people when we say they're grand . . . It will take some time to put them up, but they're going up and that's the main thing . . . People won't have any excuses now for not finding they way around town . . .

AND ANOTHER orchid to Len Allard and his street crews . . . for putting out a few park benches . . . A lot of our older people are able to be around a little now that the sun is shining (which isn't too often) and it's nice for them to have a place to sit down and rest . . . We know it's pretty early for the benches to be out but these people do enjoy them so the effort was certainly worthwhile and we think it's a pretty thoughtful thing for the department to do . . .

BY THE WAY, if anyone has any ideas that might give the Detroit Tigers an assist . . . for heaven's sake will they pass them on to the proper authorities . . . We're not exactly a baseball fan, but, darn it, we would like to see Detroit do something in the way of winning a game . . .

HAVE YOU SEEN the new Charlevoix high school band uniforms? . . . Are they sharp, cool or any other description you want to use as long as it means super . . . Wish the band festival was here next week so we could get a chance to see the band march . . . Under the direction of Mr. Odmark they presented a fine concert Thursday as a 'thank you' to the community for raising the funds for the uniforms . . . And it was a mighty fine "Merci" . . . We understand the girls have to come early so Mr. Odmark can tie all those four-in-hand ties for them . . . They'd better get on the ball and learn how . . . And by the way, did you hear about those ties . . . 62 of them were ordered and they didn't arrive until late Wednesday, hardly 24 hours before the concert . . . Everyone was out scouting for a maroon tie at that late hour . . .

RAIN, RAIN, go away, Come again another day . . . We want some warm weather and a bit of sunshine . . . We heard that rhyme up and down the street after the weekend of rain and sleet and snow . . . With May coming up maybe things will be different, we hope . . .

AND SPEAKING of May, don't forget the dance revue Friday night . . . The kids may not be future Gene Kellys, Ann Millers or Pavlovas but they're awful cute in their little costumes made especially for the event . . . And it's their big night so if you have a chance, take it in . . . you won't be sorry . . .

FOR THOSE of you who like to do your Christmas shopping early . . . the holiday will around just eight months from last Saturday . . . Just thought we'd mention it . . .

FROM AN unidentified Detroit reader a clipping from the Town Talk column by George M. Stark who tells of relating the 'exciting and glamorous story of the martyrdom of Salvationist Brigalier Blanche Cox . . . who caused the army to emerge triumphant in the streets of Old Detroit . . . He went on to say he had met Maj. Blanche Davis who was named for Blanche Cox . . . It came about, it seems, when Blanche Cox performed the marriage service for the parents of the present Mrs. Davis . . . at Charlevoix, Mich. . . . And when a girl was born, Blanche Cox insisted on baptizing her . . . Only the Salvationists call it a ceremony of dedication and it means simply that you "are giving the infant back to God to do His work" . . . Blanche Davis, the story ends, can never get over the wonder of Blanche Cox . . .

We did a bit of investigating and found that the Salvation Army once worked in Charlevoix . . . somewhere between 1905-15 . . . had a group here . . . Blancho Cox must have been one of these . . . Does anyone remember her or the baby who was named for her and who grew up to be the present Maj. Davis? . . .

MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN FLASH!

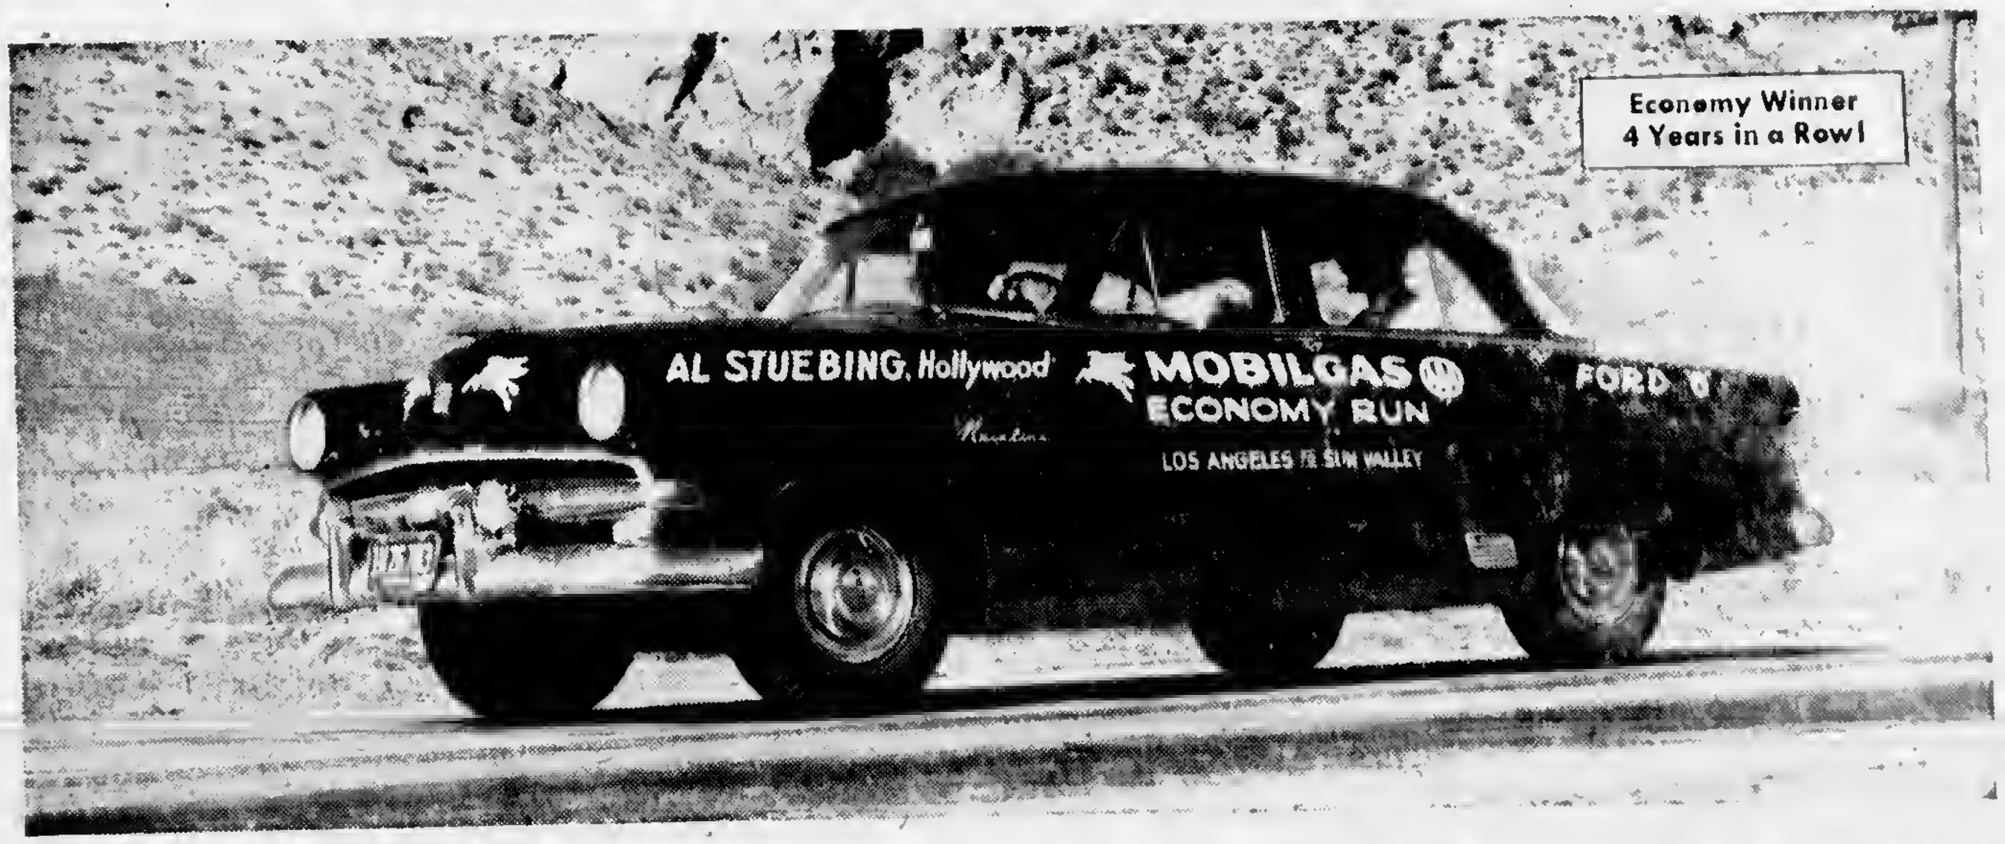
FORD BEATS ALL IN ECONOMY!



MILEAGE MAKER "6" WINS SWEEPSTAKES!

Score a blazing victory for Ford's dollar-saving gas economy! Ford's high-compression Mileage Maker "6" with Overdrive beat every car entered in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run, regardless of size or weight, to sweep the sweepstakes! Ford's winning average was 56.70 ton-miles per gallon.* And Ford's high-compression 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8 with Overdrive was right up there in economy, too, with a record of 48.55 ton-miles per gallon!

The winning Ford was a regular production car, just like thousands of other '53 Fords you see on the road today. This 1,206-mile trip from Los Angeles to Sun Valley covered all types of driving conditions. The route threaded through city traffic, where stop-and-go driving tests an engine's fuel economy under the toughest conditions . . . and out along the highways of four western states.

The Ford Mileage Maker "6" took all this in stride, maintaining a speed above the required 44.25 m.p.h. minimum, to finish 1st in the sweepstakes! What better proof is there that Ford is the thriftiest car of all? What better way to show why Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!

OFFICIAL APPROVED BY AAA CONTEST BOARD PROOF!

FORD 101-h.p. Mileage Maker "6"

TON-MILES PER GALLON*

Ford is the first car in its weight class . . . in the history of the Economy Run . . . to win top honors in ton-miles per gallon over all other cars regardless of size or weight.

* The AAA Contest Board determines the winner by a "ton-mile per gallon" formula to insure equal chance for all cars in each class regardless of size and weight. Ton-miles per gallon equals the car weight (including passengers) in tons, multiplied by number of miles traveled, divided by number of gallons of gasoline consumed.

Book Review To Be Sponsored By Methodist Group

The review is being given under the sponsorship of the WSCS of the Methodist church, Mrs. Frank Bird, president of the group said.

The book poses the question of fear and its effect on people as the tension mounts as all 20 people aboard a plane flying from Hawaii to San Francisco become aware of trouble and possible disaster. Written with honesty, this psychological study of persons facing death is an utterly absorbing book.

Mrs. Stewart, who will review the book, is a graduate of the University of Michigan where she majored in dramatics and speech. She also spent a season with the Sandusky, Ohio, Players a summer theater group. She is well known locally for her clever presentation of readings and play reviews.

Local Men Attend United Fund Meeting

Pictured with the pair are Mrs. John Porter of East Jordan, Mrs. Walter Cornell, former East Jordan resident now living in Grand Rapids and Karl Vogelheim (standing) of Rogers City.

They were among the 200 persons representing 32 Michigan counties who attended the meeting at Michigan State College Union Building.

Dr. Warren B. Cooksey, Detroit Physician and president of the United Fund for the past three years, reported that the fifth annual Fund Campaign staged last fall raised a total of $2,112,270 or three times the amount raised in the first campaign in February, 1949. The funds were raised for 28 United Fund member agencies.

The United Cerebral Palsy Association, Multiple Sclerosis Society and Leader Dogs for the Blind, three agencies financed through funds raised in United efforts, gave demonstrations of their work.

Officers and Advisory Committee members were elected with Dr. Cooksey continuing as acting president until the executive committee names his successor.

Charlevoix county residents elected to the Advisory Committee were Mr Bridge, Harry Jennings of Boyne City and Theodore F. [illegible] of East Jordan.

There [illegible] 87 Long Lakes, 58 Round Lakes, 172 Mud Lakes and [illegible] Lakes in Michigan. Other common names for lakes include Pine, Grass, Crooked and Clear. The confusion causes quite a problem in geography and steps are being taken to clarify the situation.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Geno Alleman

MANEUVERS, pot shota, and pressures continue to characterize the state's tax picture. All agree that new taxes must be forthcoming; all continue to point fingers in the other direction when it comes to deciding who shall be taxed.

House Republicans have been making strong behind-the-scenes efforts to come up with a tax they could vote through the House. When and if they succeed in this, the bill must secure approval from the Senate before going to the governor. Representatives say that the Senate would not pass a corporate profits tax, should one get through the House, they say the Senate would not pass a payroll tax, should it get through the House. In short, some of them seem sure that a bill the House could agree upon, could not pass the Senate. So belief continues that no complete tax solution will be produced until after June 30, the end of the fiscal year, when the exact amount of the deficit will be known.

Talk of a special session led to a new idea that the Legislature might not adjourn on May 22 as originally planned, but would recess with the idea of returning to handle taxation or whatever other matter it might choose. If there is an adjournment, with the governor calling a special session, he can also limit subjects for legislative consideration; a recess leaves the lawmakers with free hands.

WITH PAYROLL, corporate profits, business profits, taxes and several other proposals under consideration, it is anybody's guess what will happen. Proponents of Representative Walter Nill's (D Muskegon) corporate profits tax have been waiting to force their issue. They agree that earmarking of funds caused much of the present trouble and say that it would be possible, once their tax is adopted for the Legislature to reduce this damage by exempting certain commodities like food and clothing, from sales tax. Loss of funds from the sales tax diversion, they think, could be made up by the corporate profits tax.

This attracts some appeal from those who support a widely based short term tax program temporarily affecting many people. They argue that these people will agitate for removal of the tax and elimination of the Constitutional earmarking provisions.

MAIN TROUBLE with the "wide base" tax thinking is that people who are expected to exert pressure to change the Constitution after their taxes are collected and the deficit eliminated are already agitating, and very hard, against any tax on themselves in the first place.

For instance, Rep Nill has on his desk letters from members of the tourist trade objecting to proposed short term taxes on their operation. He has a copy of Senate Bill 1272 by Senator George N. Higgins (R Oakland and Washtenaw) with this remark typed in the corner: This would mean about $21,000,000 a month tax for (a western Michigan oil business). He also has a letter showing that the bill, which taxes petroleum at 10c per barrel defines barrel as 31 gallons and that the accepted barrel capacity in the industry is 42 gallons. This, he argues, would raise the tax from a dime to 13.55c per actual barrel used.

Legislative mills in Michigan are grinding, as they sometimes do in a democracy, slowly, tipping first one way, then the other as weight of public opinion and interest makes itself felt.

PLANS TO PROMOTE the state with a national publicity program are under consideration. It'll be called "Michigan Weeks" and may take place this October. God-father of the promotion is Michigan Department of Economic Development which will try to coordinate state wide programs with local Chambers of Commerce and other service clubs. The same group will coordinate fund raising and interests of the widely diversified groups which are hoped will be interested in Michigan Weeks.

Screening of tourists for industrial prospects is being recommended by the Department of Economic Development. A three page memorandum sent to industrial and would be industrial areas urges that keypoints in the community be used in an attempt to interest any visitor connected with a factory to locate it there.

Prepare placards inviting questions about industrial sites; seek assistance from hotel, resort or restaurant operators for tips about industrialists vacationing in the area; ask for newspaper publicity about advantages of the location. These and many other ideas are submitted in the hopes that a new industry will be sold on a Michigan location for its home.

INCREASED LOSS of life and property from traffic accidents caused increased concern in state and city circles. New and grimmer statistics were undoubtedly a factor in the passage last week of a Senate bill to limit Michigan highway speeds. The proposals calls for limits of 65 miles per hour in daylight and 55 at night. It is hoped that rigid control of speed will reduce accidents for figures show that driver violations are involved in 75% of accidents; that excess speed is responsible for 45% of these.

The House also trotted out and passed a bill for stricter control of driver licensing. This bill had been returned to committee but in the face of more traffic deaths, it was called back for approval.

So serious is the situation in Detroit that Police Commissioner, Donald S. Leonard has considered asking for volunteers from the police force to work extra hours. Death rate there is 60% higher than last year with speed and carelessness listed as major causes in the fatalities. The Detroit police department is 240 men below strength which makes the problem of strict enforcement more difficult than usual.

Demonstration Group Project Aids Scholars

"Pennies for Friendship," a Home Demonstration group project which finances foreign scholarships, is paying valuable dividends, the state scholarship committee of the organization reports.

During the month of February, Home Demonstration group members contribute pennies to the fund, which is comparatively new.

The first was given to a German rural school teacher, Ingeborg Timmler of Bad Segeberg, who spent eight months in Michigan under the sponsorship of the Michigan Home Demonstration groups to study the work of the co-operative extension service in the state.

She not only toured the state, visiting various home demonstration groups and speaking on life in her country while studying here but also enrolled at Michigan State college for a short course in home economics. While in this country she visited Charlevoix county and was the guest of Mrs. G. W. Bechtold of East Jordan while she visited group and district meetings.

The 1952-53 scholarship was given to the University of Ryukyus on the island of Okinawa to be used as a home economics scholarship. Because it costs only $50 per year to enroll at the University there, it was possible to aid five students ,all juniors, who had maintained high academic standings.

Miss Eleanor Densmore, Kent county home demonstration agent on loan to the University of Ryukyus, has notified the Michigan group that the scholarship has done much to strenghthen the bonds between the United States and Okinawa.

In addition to the scholarship, the Michigan Home Demonstration groups also send used clothing and patterns which are utilized in the clothing classes at the University.

Joint Meeting Of Extension Boards Is Held Monday

A joint meeting of the Charlevoix and Emmet counties agricultural extension advisory boards was held in Petoskey, Monday night.

The meeting was originally planned to ask the state agricultural board and Michigan State college that the two counties be allowed to share the services of Mrs. Emma Deinbold, Home Demonstration agent and K. C. Festerling, 4-H Club agent, as they had in the past.

In the meantime, however, under a new assignment system announced Michigan State college, it was learned the pair would remain to assist in both counties.

At the meeting which was attended by Ed Rehman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, William M. Sanderson of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors and Mrs. Sims Baker representing the Home Demonstration division, the sharing of mileage, assignments

Seed Treated With Fungicides Assures Better Crop Stand

Charlevoix county farmers may not boost their legume yields by treating seed, but it's good insurance, reminds Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Rebman passes along some tips on work done by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station and in other states.

Treating legume seed with a fungicide seldom increases yields of hay or seed, says E. A. Andrews, extension specialist in plant pathology at Michigan State college. It does assure a more uniform stand and helps to sava seed.

Andrews points to some experiments over several years by the University of Wisconsin that show stand increases of from one to 14 percent by using seed-treatment fungicides.

These treatments help control diseases caused by damping-off and root rot fungi in the soil, notes Andrews. The fungicides do not interfere with noculation if they are applied a week or more before planting and seed is inoculated with nitrogen-fixing bacteria—at planting time.

Vancide, Phygon, Arasan and Orthocide are the effective fungicides that Andrews recommends for small seeded legumes.

Do not treat sweet clover seed because it can be injured under certain conditions, Andrews cautions.

All but Vancide are available in powdered form, Rebman advises, and are used at a rate of four ounces per bushel of seed.

Soybeans benefit from two ounces of Arasan or Spergon per bushel.

SCIENCE AIDS FARM SEED PROCESSING

Batteries of gravity type cleaning machines, like those above, are helping to supply Midwestern farmers with better, cleaner field seeds than ever before. These machines are now supplemented by other important new equipment.

Ingenious modern processes, developed through research, are eliminating age-old weed problems. Here, seed is shown passing through velvet-covered rollers where rough and imperfect seeds and weed seeds stick to the cloth surface and are eliminated.

Among the newest seed-cleaning equipment is the magnetic machine. The processor coats certain weed seeds with metallic filings which do not cling to good seed. The coated seeds are then removed magnetically, as demonstrated above by use of ordinary magnet.

Painting Tricks Should Help In Better Results

There are tricks-of-the-trade you should know while doing your spring painting, say Michigan State college specialists:

Surfaces are paint-ready only when clean, dry and smooth—free from dampness, grease, gummy or sticky substances, loose paint or dust. Remember, oil paint and varnish will not dry on a damp surface or over a partially dry coat of paint or varnish. Avoid stickiness, cracking and peeling by letting each coat dry thoroughly before applying the next.

Use fine sandpaper on unpainted wood or metal surface. If an old painted surface is to be repainted, reduce the gloss with a strong soap or scrubbing powder, dry for 48 hours, give it a light sanding and you are ready for painting. Sand old painted surfaces that are rough or marred until all rough spots disappear.

Paints come in opaque, semi-opaque and transparent forms. A good flat-oil paint is opaque and hides the surface well. A semi-gloss is semi-opaque and may allow the under surface to show through a little. Enamels, except for a few, are semi-transparent and varnish is even more so—both enamels and varnish let the undercoats show through. Water paints are opaque.

The best plan to follow is to use an opaque, flat, oil paint under the finishing coat unless you plan to repeat the same color.

Advise Better Weed Control to Improve Pasture Lands

The secret to having good pastures is keeping weeds down, says a Michigan State College plant physiologist.

Buford H. Grigsby, MSC weed control specialist, suggests that very weedy pastures can be profitably plowed and reseeded. But for pastures which cannot be plowed, or where grass is worth saving, Grigsby has some suggestions.

Some weeds can be checked by mowing at the right time of the year. Wild Carrot, dock and bull thistle should be mowed when in the bud or the first flower stage to provent spreading of seed. Two or more seasons of mowing will be needed to control carrot, bull thistle and chicory, Grigsby says. Mowing will probably not check spotted knapweed. Canada thistle, hoary alyssum and orange hawkweed.

Weeds can also be controlled by applications of 2, 4-D. The spray applied when plants are young and growing, will control most annual and some biennial weeds. Grigsby warns that spraying will cause some damage to legumes, but he adds that established white clover and alfalfa are seldom destroyed by properly timed spraying—when there is less than two inches of new growth.

"Early spring, while legumes are still dormant, or late fall, after the first killing frost, are the best times to apply 3, 4-D for the control of pasture weeds," he says. "Very weedy pasture may be harmed less by spray than by weed competition."

Brush in pastures can be killed by: Foliage sprays, applied during the growing season when the brush is in full leaf; cut-stump treatment, spraying the stump after cutting it near the ground; and the basal-bark method, treating the lower 10 inches of the trunk with oil spray.

Home gardeners can treat seeds right in the packages with a dust of Arasan or Phygon, suggests Edward A. Andrews, Michigan State college plant patologist. It will cut down on garden disease.

Since 1925, the number of forest fires each year has ranged from 909 in 1943 to 4,721 in 1933. Although the number of fires varies widely from year to year depending on weather conditions the over-all trend has been downward since conservation department protection was organized.

Corn given a running start with starter fertilizer will repay a farmer, advises E. D. Longnecker, Michigan State college soil science specialist—with earlier cultivation and better weed control.

Nation's Leaders Sign Up For United States Savings Bonds

President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed a Bond-A-Month authorization card for Savings Bond saleswoman, Mary Pickford during her recent visit to the Nation's Capital. They are shown above with Mrs. Eisenhower, who is the Honorary National Chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee for Savings Bonds.

Following the example of the President, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr. also signed up with Miss Pickford for the regular purchase of Savings Bonds.

Miss Pickford serves as Associate National Chairman of the committee which is currently conducting a Women's Crusade for Security, a campaign to increase sales of United States Savings Bonds through the systematic Bond-A-Month Plan.

Rabies Increasing Among Fur-Bearers

Rabies is on the increase, especially among fur-bearing animals and this is the time of the year when the disease can be spread widely.

Dr. Glen W. Reed, extension animal pathologist at Michigan State college, says that this is the time of year predatory animals such as dogs, skunks and other wild animals tend to roam. If they are infected with rabies, the disease is spread widely.

Dr. Reed cited several cases of rabies in dogs this year in Midland, Wayne and Oakland counties. There were cases of rabies in cats in both Clare and Wayne counties and cows were infected in Oakland and Isabella counties.

Wild animals, says Dr. Reed, should be guarded against. Skunks, squirrels and foxes may wander into the farm lot or pasture and bite livestock. Sick livestock, he adds, should be watched carefully for rabies symptoms. If rabies is suspected, says Dr. Reed remember these points:

1. Don't kill any animal you can catch. You can't be sure it's rabies until there is an examination of the brain in the laboratory. Have the veterinarian place the animal under observation.

3. Symptoms of rabies usually show up in the animal within two weeks after biting a person.

3. Don't be panicky after being bitten. The first thought is to capture the animal and place it under observation. The second is to wash the wound or scratch thoroughly with warm soapy water and get to a physician immediately.

4. There is always danger in treating humans for rabies. You should be sure that the animal which has bitten a person is declared rabid or is under observation before treatment.

Rabies, Dr. Reed says, is caused by a virus and often is fatal to humans. It can be prevented by vaccination of animals and he believes all pets, especially dogs and cats; should be vaccinated

Good Water System Important To Farm

A good water system is the heart of every farm and should be well planned says Ed Rehman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Very important in establishing a water system is selection of a good pump. The type of the pump will depend on the depth of water, the depth of the well, water yield and location of the pump in respect to the well.

Two types of wells, shallow and deep, require two types of pumps Rebman advises. Shallow well pumps depend entirely on vacuum of suction and lift the water only about 20 feet. Deep well pumps are set near the water level and send the water up with a piston or jet.

Wells yielding 400-600 gallons of water per hour are desirable for the farm Rebman says a 42-gallon pressure tank is the best for farm installation. He adds if there are a large number of dairy cows or other outlets for the water, a larger tank should be used.

In planning a water system, consider uses of the water for the dairy herd, beef cattle, chickens, hogs and possibilities for watering gardens. Rebman says a high portion of meat, vegetables and milk foods are water; an ample supply of water in the right places means "a large dollar return for the farmer."

Average water consumption of a farm with 22 cows, some chickens and a few pigs was 20,000 gallons a month. The family of four used about 3,000 gallons of this.

Reforestation Will Use Nine Million Trees This Season

Shipments of tree stock from all three state nurseries are well underway having started the earliest in the memory of conservation department foresters.

A total of nine million trees will be shipped before mid-May from Hardwood nursery near Boyne Falls, from Wyman nursery near Manistique and from Higgins Lake nursery near Roscommon.

A terrific demand for trees this year took all red and Scotch pine stocks from the three nurseries. All that remains are "fair" supplies of two-year-old white and jack pine seedlings.

The trees are sold in large lots for reforestation purposes only and will be planted on private and public forest lands in the state.

The department is not equipped or allowed to handle orders from the general public for trees for landscaping and ornamental purposes.

Persons or firms wishing to take advantage of remaining stocks of plantings should write the forestry division state department of conservation here for order blanks and general information.

Announce Plans For Kipke Field Light Campaign

"Light Kipke Field in '53" is the slogan adopted this week by the John Knight Memorial fund committee which will launch a door-to-door campaign Monday to accept contributions to the fund.

The fund was established early in March as a memorial to Charlevoix's late mayor to fulfill one of his most cherished dreams. School officials who had considered lighting the field but who had found the project beyond their means in a financial way gave their approval to the project.

When the Memorial fund was established it also received the wholehearted support of the entire community who promised to support it.

However, many people, becausa of the rush of business and parsonal affairs, have found it difficult to maka the necessary arrangements to make a contribution.

It was with the idea of facilitating their giving that the Memorial Fund Committee, planned the house to house campaign Monday, May 11, to accept any contribution which may be offered.

The fund now has more than $700 in its treasury and several projects under the sponsorship of the Committee, are now underway to raise funds. However, the project will cost an estimated $5,500 and if the lights are to be installed for use this year, the funds must be raised within the next two months.

The campaign to accept contributions will be staged Monday evening with members of the Memorial Fund Committee calling on every home to accept any donation which may be offered.

In announcing the campaign planned for Monday, Tip Riley, Memorial Fund Committee chairman, said "The entire community stands to gain by the installation of lights on the football field. But, by the same token, if we are to have the lights the entire community must get behind the project and do its share."

"We hope that when representatives call at your home Monday, you will feel that you want to help in this project and give what you can," Mr. Riley concluded.

A special solicitation of businesses and industries will be made at a later date.

Charlevoix is one of three schools in the Northern Michigan Class C league which does not have a lighted football field. The league has seven members.

One hundred and ten farmers and merchants gathered to hear Elmer Hanna, administrative assistant of the Michigan Highway Commissioner, speak on the cost of roads in Michigan. He also spoke briefly on the proposed Straits of Mackinac bridge, and said that there were many good points in favor of the construction of such a bridge. However, he said that his superior, Charles M. Zeigler, state highway commissioner, had weighed the arguments for and against the structure and for the present was remaining neutral.

K. C. Festerling, 4-H club agent and Rev. Harold Kohn presented entertaining programs enjoyed by the group. The former also directed group singing, accompanied by Mrs. Leonard Burns.

E. K. Shanahan was toastmaster and H. E. Padlock, Kiwanis club president, welcomed the group.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

THE RUN for the roses is over for another year but it sure was exciting while it lasted . . . We hope you didn't have a bet riding on Native Dancer . . . But that's the chance you take and it's the thing that makes the Kentucky Derby the great event that it is . . . Haven't you often wished as you heard the band play "My Old Kentucky Home" on Derby day that you could be there just once to see the color and the pageantry and the excitement . . . It would be something . . . On hand to see it this year were several Charlevoixians including the Bob Bridges, the Pat Hawleys and the Jim Colemans. Mrs. C. and the boys stopped off enroute home from a Florida vacation.

You've no doubt read scads of stories about the prices in Louisville at Derby time . . . Our nephew, stationed at nearby Fort Knox and a couple of his buddies visited Derby Town last weekend and were full of stories about the city . . . One of the boys' parents were coming down to see him for the weekend and asked him to get an overnight cabin . . . When he inquired about it, he was told that usual rate was $9.00 per night but that over Derby weekend there would be a 'slight increase' in the rate . . . He dropped the phone when he was told that the cost would be $95.00 . . . 'Slight' they say . . .

DON'T FORGET the track meet at Kipke field this weekend . . . Despite the fact that Charlevoix has always fielded a pretty fair track and field team, people don't seem to get very excited about it . . . To us, it is one of the most exciting of sports . . . it's a sport of personal accomplishment . . . . when a contestant wins in track he knows he has something for there's no one there who can help him . . . Either you win by yourself or else . . . For our money, its one of the greatest sports . . . So come around Saturday and we'll wager you'll see some mighty fine performances . . .

JUST NINE WEEKS ago the John Knight Memorial Fund was established to light the football field . . . At that time many persons voiced their approval of the project by stating they would be glad to contribute to such a fund . . . Next Monday they will be given an opportunity to do just that when a crew of committee members canvas the city to accept contributions. . . .

Charlevoix wants lights and here's the way to get them . . . One thing is for sure, the funds will not be forthcoming from the school for they are finding it difficult to make both ends meet without taking on this project . . It's going to cost just so much and it's going to be there for keeps . . . The Memorial Fund will have to foot all bills so if you want to see football under the lights, get behind this drive and have your contribution, large or small, ready for the drive Monday night . . . Charlevoix has a record of setting goals and then reaching them . . . So let's make sure this is one that goes over with a bang . . .

WHAT WITH rummage sales every week or so, we would like to pass along a bit of advice to the men folk . . . especially after hearing this story as told by Gene Kramer about Scott Wilson, former Belvedere Hotel manager now living in Petoskey . . . Seems Mrs. W.'s church circle or something was having a rummage sale so she was picking up some pieces of clothing belonging to Mr. W. . . . Imagine his surprise when he found a day or so later among her contributions was a new pair of trousers . . . He hurriedly dashed to the rummage sale to find that they couldnot sell the pants . . . not even for 50 cents so he quick-like doled out the required sum and salvaged them . . . So don't say we didn't warn you if you find your favorite trousers or sport coat on the cut-rate bargain counter at the next rummage sale . . .

HARRY STUTT, up from Detroit with Mrs. S. for the weekend stopped by Saturday for a gabfest . . . He is with a large advertising agency in Detroit and last fall, noticed a new girl in the office who looked mighty familiar . . . He kept trying to remember where he'd seen her but bells didn't ring until during the winter when several of them were telling about spending the weekend at a ski-lodge . . . which turned out to be Boyne Falls . . . He mentioned that that wasn't far from his home at Charlevoix and come to find out the girl was none other than Mary Louise Fitzsimons whose family has been coming here for ages to their cottage on the north side . . . Soon they were talking of mutual friends and comparing notes on Charlevoix . . . after all, Charlevoix's quite a place to have in common . . .

He was also telling me that he'd met scads of barbershoppers who are planning now to return to Charlevoix for the annual jamboree . . . So let's hope plans by the local chapter will be soon be forthcoming . . .

Voice of Our Readers . . .

To the Editor:

I was one of a group of 27 Michigan farmers who went to Washington on April 25, on a chartered Greyhound bus. There were seven women and twenty men in our group. With the delegations from Ohio and Pennsylvania, we totaled in all, one hundred people). We had four complete days in our Nation's capital, Cram-packed with sightseeing, conferences, and visits with the Michigan Senators, Homer Ferguson and Charles Potter, and with most of the 18 Representatives from Michigan. We had an interesting and snappy session with the two sentaors, in Sen. Ferguson's office which lasted one hour, on Wednesday morning, April 29.

Our Michigan group then split up, with from one to seven persons calling on their Congressmen (including the one congresswomen, Ruth Thompson, of Whitehall) in their respective offices in the House Office Building. I was the only one in our group from the 11th Congressional District, so I called on Rep. Victor A. Knox. Several others accompanied me, as a courtesy. He received us very graciously, and we spent a pleasant half-hour with him, discussing farm problems. A few of our delegates were not so fortunate. They received a definite brush-off from the executive secretaries of one or two of the Congressmen.

In signing the guest book in Rep. Knox's office I noted that Mrs. Arthur Rouse of Boyne City had also visited here that day..

One of the highlights of our visit to Capitol Hill, the seat of the greatest government in the world, was sitting in on one of the open hearings of the House Committee in Agricultural appropriations

The Common Council will meet in the Council Room in the City Hall on Monday, May 18 A. D. 1953, at 8:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, and consider any suggestions and objections that may be made by parties interested with respect to such sewer.

WHEREAS the City of Charlevoix is the owner of that parcel of land situate and being in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, described as follows:

> "Commencing at a point which may be found by measuring along the center line of the highway known as the Stover Road in Section 35, Township 34 North, Range 8 West 14.11 chains East from the intersection of the West eighth line of said Section 35, with said center line of said highway; thence running North 7.50 chains to the Northwest corner of a parcel of land heretofore deeded by the Township of Charlevoix to the Cram, Whitford & Sons Company (now owned by the City of Charlevoix); thence East along the North line of said Cram, Whitford & Sons Company parcel to the shore of Lake Charlevoix; thence North 7.10 chains to the Southeast corner of land formerly owned by George G. Rural Life Sunday, May 10th, Dedicated To Soil Conservation

Rural Life Sunday falls annually on the Fifth Sunday after Easter. This will make it May 10 this year reminds Bill Grimm Farm Planner for the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District.

Rural Life Sunday is a recognized day on the Church calendar in most of the Protestant denominations. The Catholics and to some extent the Episcopalians have been observing the day as Rogation Sunday.

Here is an opportunity to highlight Soil and Water Conservation. A list of Bible texts on which sermons may be based can be secured from the Soil Conservation Service, Federal building in Boyne City.

"The Creed of the Soil Conservationist" by C. W. Gee of the Soil Conservation Service seems appropriate at this time.

As a soil conservationist, I believe God created the earth by His divine processes for the benefit of man, not one man, nor one generation, but mankind for all time.

I believe the Almighty gave man an inheritance of the earth, not to be horded as a miser guards his treasure, but to be used with wisdom and in the fullest for the perpetual benefit of all men.

I believe all of mankind, regardless of race or creed are entitled to a fair and equitable share of the earth's bounty commensurate with their own efforts. But in so believing, I hold the irrevocable conviction that man himself owes earth a debt of respect and fealty.

I believe that whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap; that he who manages his fields, pastures, woodlands, and streams with respect and wisdom shall reap the bountiful harvest and so shall his descendants while he who uses them selfishly, thinking only of his own immediate gain, shall bring to grief his land, himself, and his children's children.

Holding these beliefs to be true I dedicate myself to the task of helping my fellow men realize their own personal responsibility in conserving the earth for the generations which follow them. To this end I shall devote my best knowledge in guiding the efforts of those who till the soil so that the land which nurtures us shall be fruitful without end.

For truly, the earth is the Lords and the fullness thereof, but the responsibility for its stewardship is vested in man.

LOST SOILS · LOST SOULS

Insure New Lawns By Proper Soil Preparation First

Putting in a new lawn? Proper soil preparation will be your basic consideration.

Soils run all the way from sandy or gravelly to heavy clay types. Sandy or gravelly soil may be infertile and too well drained. If this condition prevails, it will be necessary for you to mix two inches of clay loam into the upper six inches of soil to give it body.

If possible, vegetable material of a fibrous or mossy type, such as peat moss, ground-up tree leaves, corncobs, or woods' litter, should be plowed or harrowed along with the clay. If enough of this litter is used, the clay may not be needed.

In addition to the litter and the clay, it will be necesary to use a considerable amount of chemical or animal fertilizer if the clay is of a poor type. In this case, it will be wise to use woods' litter to hold the fertilizer in the top soil.

Best results are achieved by mixing the litter and the fertilizer before working them in. Forming the main body of the top soil, this compost is made up of alternate layers of litter, a thin layer of top soil, a full sprinkling of ground limestone and a generous dosage of fertilizer to a settled depth of about four inches, with a flat surface to catch water.

On top of this soil mixture, spread about one inch or more of fine top soil from farm, garden land or meadow to serve as a seed bed for the grass seeds. The loamy soil between sand and clay, if it has been cultivated and used for farming or gardening for some years previously, may be ready to use. However, it might be advisable to add fertilizer and compost, since most garden soils are somewhat worn out.

BULLETINS AVAILABLE

Two publications on growing vegetable gardens are available at the Bulletin Office, Department of Information Services, Michigan State college.

One bulletin is called "Suburban and Farm Vegetable Gardens" and the other is entitled "Growing Vegetables in Town and City."

Both U. S. Department of Agriculture publications, they present information on gardening—from the selection of the site to harvesting and preserving vegetables. Information is included on caring for specific garden crops.

Pick Nicloy Farm For Oat Test Plots

The oat variety plots for 1953 will be planted on the farm of Art Nicloy and Sons of East Jordan, Ed Rehman County Agricultural Agent said today. This farm operated by the two brothers, Curtis and Roy, is located on the peninsula between Advance and Ironton.

Rebman said the following varieties of oats will be planted; Eaton, Craig, Beaver, Clinton, Kent and Clintland. The purpose of these plantings is to find out which variety does the best here in Charlevoix County. This will be the third year these oat variety plots will have been planted in this county.

These oats are planted the same as Nicloy's will plant their own oats. The same amount of fertilizer, grass seed, and oats will be sown on all the plots. Each variety will be repeated three times. At harvest time a certain area will be harvested and sent to Michigan State college for threshing to obtain the yields.

For the last two years Craig was first with 72 bushels per acre, Eaton was second with 63 bushels and Beaver was third with 62 bushels per acre. Craig is a new New York variety and it is hoped it will continue to be a high yielder.

Grant Boosts To Increase Service Of County Agents

Farmers in five Michigan townships are going to get even more help from agricultural agents than they have in the past.

Dr. B. Varner, director of the state's Cooperative Extension Service, said assistant county agents will be hired in widely distributed townships for the experimental program. They will work with the regularly assigned agents in the counties where the townships are located.

The five-year experiment is being financed with a grant of $270,000 by the W. K. Kellogg Company of Battle Creek. A total of $54.000 will be spent during the first year. Local groups or township governments will join in support of the program.

Director Varner said the program is designed to determine how much agricultural efficiency can result from a more intensive application of scientific findings which the extra agents will help carry to the farmer. A complete survey will be made of agriculture within the townships accepted for the program before work is started. Then, at the end of five years, another survey will determine what advances have been made in increased efficiency and income.

Varner also announced that Richard W. (Dick Bell, MSC farm crops extension specialist for 12 years, will administer the program. He will supervise the assistant county agents who will be in direct charge of the township projects, expected to be in operation this summer. Bell, a recognized authority in crops production, has served as chairman of Michigan's Extension Grass Day programs.

Farm advisors working with a relatively small number of people, Varnar believes, will step up farmers' use of proved results of research. Studies show there is a lag of 10 to 15 years between the release of scientific knowledge and its general application by farmers.

With the rapid increase in population and the limited acreage available for increased production, Varner indicated, such a time lag might prove disastrous during the next 20 years.

Michigan State college home management specialists point out that fatigue can come from just thinking about a long, difficult task you have to do, like a family ironing. They suggest that breaking up such a job into several short periods would likely eliminate the tired feeling you get just thinking about it.

Random Thoughts on The Early Days Of Trout Fishing Season

By Rev. Harold E. Kohn

He wasn't there today. I looked in the spot where I had seen him a few days before trout season opened. He lay under a fallen, moss-covered log where the brook had patiently, painstakingly dug a deep, shadowy hole, just to his liking. His nose pointed upstream. His square tail gently swept the cold brook waters just enough to keep him from being dragged by the current from the cozy covert that sheltered him. After quietly watching his easy, graceful movements, amused that he felt so secure, ignorant of the avid fisherman bending over his lair, I made off downstream to explore the brook further.

But the brookie wasn't there today. He may have been upstream, feeding on the offerings of insects brought to him by the riffles and eddies of the brook. He may have followed the streams undercut banks, seeking worms that had tumbled there. He may have been chasing small fishes in and out the water-soaked branchlets of fallen trees. Or, some fisherman may have caught him in an unguarded moment—his first and his last unguarded moment.

To be a brook trout for long, to achieve a respectable old age as a brook trout, necessitates having few, if any, unguarded moments—One—Just one instant when the fish's faculties are napping, one unsuspicious lunge at a lure, and the speckled little warrior of wilderness stream is brought gasping from his native element to drown in a sea of air.

In northern Michigan an old trout is a wise trout. He has hungrily looked over many an appetizing lure, and his brain has said "No" to his belly. For most trout in our native streams have been tempted repeatedly by ingeniously contrived wet and dry flies, artificial bugs, spinner and fly combinations or worms, craw-fish, frogs and mollusks impaled on hooks. The big trout are those who, in temptation, have been of iron will, or who delicately tested the bait and expelled it, or who, when caught, broke away.

The brook trout, rainbow trout and brown trout, perhaps the three most popular stream fishes in Michigan, are members of the salmon family. So are the dolly varden, piute, steelhead, cutthroat, golden, yellowstone and lake trout—most of which are not so plentiful in the Middle West as in some other parts of the country. The brook trout is not a true trout at all. It is a charr. So are the lake trout and the dolly varden. And how can you distinguish a charr from a trout? Put your finger inside the fish's mouth. Feel around a bit. A trout will have teeth on the shaft of the vomer (in the roof of its mouth). A charr has no teeth in that particular location. Charrs are also characterized by having light spots on a dark background of body coloring, where as the true trout have dark spots on a lighter background. While the charrs have very small scales, sometimes so tiny they cannot be seen without the aid of a microscope, the true trout have scales which are easily seen. It's odd that when we say "trout" many of us automatically think of the Eastern brook trout (also known as brookie, coaster, mountain trout, trout, squaretail, speckled trout, native trout), when he is not a real trout at all.

But he is a real fish, one of the liveliest, gamiest, most fickle, most alert creatures in all creation. He picks his home with the greatest of care. Particularly fond of spring-fed streams, the brookie (whose specific Latin name, "fontinalis," means 'living in springs') often moves upstream toward the purest and coldest waters, where they emerge in tiny brooks from bubbling springs. Fishermen are frequently astounded at the relatively large brook trout taken from these rivulets that seem too narrow for turning-around room.

Brook trout, like other fishes, are limited in growth by the food supply and other health condition in their home waters. When pollution takes place brook trout disappear, sometimes to be supplanted by rainbow trout and brown trout. Where forests are cut, removing shade which keeps the water cool, brookies vanish since they cannot stand even lukewarm temperatures. Where the food supply of aquatic insect life, worms, plant life, smaller fishes and crustaceans becomes meager, the brook trout retire from the stream to more suitable waters or remain stunted in growth. They may live to be fat and heavy-jawed veterans of battles with hook and line, but runts of only eight or nine inches. When food and cover to their liking are present in abundance they may attain quite a spectacular size. One caught on rod and line in Canada in 1936 weighed fourteen and one-half pounds. However, the average caught in Charlevoix county waters these days probably weighs less than a pound.

Before long I'm going back to that shadowy, obscure trout den under the moss-covered log. There I shall look for the square tail and the white-trimmed lower fins stroking and current almost lovingly. I shall quietly drop my lure at the threshhold of his hiding place, and wait. If some fisherman hasn't thwarted me, and if the brookie isn't out grocery shopping, he may accept my invitation and come to my dinner party.

'Come to think about it, why don't I go there now? Enough of words- Let's have some action!

Church Conducts 'Double It' Drive

Some of our townspeople heve wondered why the bell at the Congregational church has rung at about noon on the past two Sundeys. Cherlevoixians ere accustomed to the joyful peal of church bells at the beginning of Sunday School and church services, but to hear them ring et the close of worship—well, something new has been added to our Sundays.

When the Congregational church bells ring at the close of public worship services, it means that a victory has been echieved. The church is engaged in building its attendance, and for a few weeks time is promoting a "double-it attendance program." Whenever the number present is at least twice that of the comparable Sunday of the yeer before, the victory bell rings efter the benediction.

On the fourth Sunday of April, 1952 78 people were present, making it necessary to have at least 156 in attendance on the fourth Sunday of April, 1953, in order to "double - it." The victory bell rang on April 26 because 169 were at worship that morning. Last Sunday again the church more than doubled the attendance for the first Sunday of May, 1952, and again the bell pealed.

The Reverend Harold Kohn, pastor of the church, says that the forthcoming Sunday offers a critical challenge, since last year's Mother's Day crowd numbered 119. To double-it this Mother's Day an attendance of two hundred and thirty-eight or more people will be necessary. Can it be done? The special program, featuring floral gifts for the youngest and oldest mothers, music by both the Junior and Cherub Choirs and the sermon on "How's Everything At Home?" may make such an attendance possible. Some folks in Charlevoix say the victory bell will ring again.

Aunt Maggie Boyle, Beaver Island's oldest native born resident at 88, spoke the sentiment of all island residents Saturday when she said "At last my prayers and wishes are going to be answered" as she witnessed the ground breaking ceremony for the community's new medical center.

More than half the population of America's Emerald Isle gathered on the southwest shore of St. James harbor near the main thoroughfare for the impressive event.

He concluded by saying that the unity of the community and their trust in God were major factors in accomplishing the goal.

Dr. Vail, who had come to the island from Bay City March 1 to serve as resident physician under the Michigan Department of Health, also addressed the gathering briefly as did members of the committee. ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

SOMETHING'S been bothering us . . . For as long as we can remember there's been a big old juniper bush on the corner of Michigan ave. and Ainslee st. . . It was there, we swear, when we were little . . . on what was the Mayne property which is now owned by the Arthur Weiss' of Saginaw . . . What with the new highway going through and the street being widened we're anxious to know what's going to happen to the juniper bush . . . It's a regular landmark, as far as we're concerned and we hope someone will salvage it . . .

WISH YOU COULD have shared something we received last week . . . a lovely bouquet of arbutus . . . so feagrant and pretty which the Larry Swensons brought us from north of Harbor Springs. . . And some mushrooms, the first we'd had in two years, which the Lawrence Skippergoshes sent over . . . Those are things we used to love to pick for ourselves but since we can't they're certainly appreciated . . .

ISN'T IT GOOD to see our friends Art Fagan and Ken Forbes around again . . . Art's been out for some time but Ken's out of his wheel chair and operating under his own power for the first time in a couple years . . It's mighty good to see them around . . .

AND WHO ever said we could have a track meet with out Rev. L. L. Lewis around, no one should have been surprised to see him Saturday . . . away from his duties at Boone near Cadillac . . . And this Saturday he'll no doubt be at the regionals at Cadillac . . He's a faithful fan.

THEY MUST have been catching perch or they wouldn't have stayed . . . all those people in all those boats on Round Lake over the week-end . . . The poor fish never had a chance with so many from early morning 'til late in the evening . . . Many were from away so we hope they had luck . . .

A NICE CUSTOM one doesn't see too often anymore is that of the May basket . . . We don't know where it started but we sure like it . . . And this May day there was a basket of lovely handmade flowers on our doorstep . . . We don't know who left them but we certainly appreciated the spiril of the idea . . . It's such a nice way to begin the real spring season . . .

CAN YOU imagine having a family of eight boys all named Aloysuis? . . . It would be a bit confusing, don't you think? . . . That is the case with the family of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons whose eight sons now all have that name . . . It's not as bad as it sounds, however, it's their confirmation name . . . It all started with their father and as each boy confirmed he adopted Aloysuis as his name . . . The last two to take the name were Peter and Joseph who were confirmed at St. Mary's last week . . . They're thinking up another name, however, for the one girl in the family, seven-year old Mary Ann.

HAVE YOU NOTICED the new background paintings in Don Campbell's shop . . . one is a clever desert scene and theothera er desert scene and the other a picture of a pier . . . we'd say Charlevoix's pier . . . Oil painting is quite a hobby with Mr. C. so he's using some of his talent to make most unusual windows for his shop . . . Take a look and see if you don't agree . . .

WE'RE A LITTLE late in mentioning it but the summer season can start any time now . . . the official season openers, the J. H. Kings, have been at their Chicago Club cottage since early this month.

IT'S MAY . . . the month of real spring in northern Michigan . . . the time when mushrooms pop out, the slowly-growing buds open up overnight (almost) into leaves, the grass recovers its color, the flowers don their prettiest petals and one gets a new lease on life after a long, cold dreary winter . . .

And speaking of mushrooms, Bruce Henley was telling us about taking his little (and do we mean little) daughter, Rona, mushrooming . . . He had showed her what they looked like and was telling her not to miss any when she spoke up and said . . . Daddy, don't step on the one by your foot . . . We all decided the little tykes find more because they're closer to the ground . . .

THE DAFFODILS are in bloom and a few tulips are opening their waxy blossoms . . . We stopped by the other day to see a row of red tulips in bloom in the Floyd Supp's garden . . . They look like a row of lighted candles . . . The tulips and daffodils are the first flowers they have for the rabbits in the neighborhood found that crocus buds made a tasty dish so nibbled them off before they could open . . . We don't know where he lives, but we see a rabbit around regularly . . . And we understand there're quite a few in the neighborhood including a family of them in Mrs. George Wolf's garden . . . Wait 'til the vegetables start coming up . . . Then they really do the damage . . If it gets too bad, call Louis O'Neill in . . . he had that trouble last year and solved it very successfully . . .

HERE'S another of those 'small world' stories that we think is pretty cute . . . Janet Krulik and Amy Kipke were in Lansing about 10 days ago and while there went into the auditorium to hear the Class C bands playing in the state band and orchestra festival . . . They ambled in, found a seat and had been listening for some time when one of them noticed a wallet lying on a nearby seat . . . When no one returned to claim it, they decided they'd better turn it in at the door but before they did they opened it to see if it contained a name . . . It did . . . none other than that of a Charlevoix resident now a student at Michigan State . . . Marilyn Bulow . . . Wer ethey surprised . . . But not half as surprised as Marilyn was a short time later when she returned to the auditorium in search of the wallet, only to find it with two friends from home . . . All three have been members of the Charlevoix high school band and it was their interest in bands which brought them together . . .

THE MARTINS, like the swallows which return to Capistrano on March 19 each year, return to Charlevoix about the same time each year . . . But their schedule is not quite as rigid for this year they arrived on April 28, according to Mrs. Frank Courier, who first reported that they were taking over the martin houses in the city park . . . Last year their arrival date was about May 10 . . .

And speaking of birds, the the Henry Ingalls household has been very sad for their parakeet, Doc, has disappeared . . . Everyone in the neighborhood has been on the look-out for him but all in vain . . .

WHEN several youngsters entered the Wood Bros. hardware store Saturday and asked for a mirror, Mr. Wood hurried and found one for them . . . quite a chore in a hardware store . . . thinking he had a sale for it . . . Imagine his surprise when the kids looked in it, wiped ice cream off their faces and prepared to return to the drug store next door for another treat offered by Schroeder & Hovey Saturday . . . The kids in town sure had a hey-day as they consumed popsicles by the dozens . . .

Girligigs

The phooey weather's past . . . and now it's here, at last. "It" being these glorious daffy-dilly days, . . . of sun 'n fun, asparagus 'n strawberries, barefoots 'n petunias . . . 'n (sigh) spring housecleaning.

According to someone who thinks he knows, it's going to be a buggy season this . . . it seems that there isn't a single jitter amongst the little critters since they have learned how to outdeedeetee the deedeetee-ers... So the life of a bug . . . o, joy . . . has become quite uncomplicated again.

Cute and happy little bugs, too, are the little potato bugs worn wherever you want to plunk one on your sweater or summer casual.

I notice that the local yachtsmen waste about as much time getting into their navy caps come boat season as the long-legged gals do getting into a pair of red shorts.

Well, that's alright too, fellas . . . as I said before. . . . I think you never looked handsomer.

Mamie Doud Eisenhower caused quite a stir among stylists the other day when she appeared in lavender hose. They thought it was very poor taste, and they should have been consulted, after all.

And now I read where they have designed mink trimmed hose. . . . I've tried to figure out just how to trim my nylons with mink, but now I'm remembering that I like my mink in bigger pieces anyway, don't you?

Church Of God Is Scene Of Several Recent Activities

There have been many activities at the Community Church of God lately. The young people and Homemakers Sunday School classes did a fine job of cleaning and painting several class rooms. At a business meeting, it was voted to establish a heating plant fund, and to purchase the plant when the necessary amount has been raised. Already small and generous contributions are being received. They hope to install it late this summer.

Sunday, special honor was given to mother's in all the services. At the 11 o'clock service infants and children were dedicated, after plants were presented to the oldest mother; tre youngest mother and the grandmother with the largest family present.

A meeting was held Tuesday tn plan for the Daily Vacation Bible School to be held in June held for meny years by island residents, that of a medical center of their own where sick and injured could be treated until it would be possible for other arrangements to be made.

The building, a one-story frame structure, will house not only the doctor's offices but treatment rooms, x-ray and fluoroscopic equipment and other needs.

With a floor space of 1,000 sq. feet, it will be built with fireproof exterior and roof and fire resistant interior paneling. It will cost an estimated $8,000 with the major part of the labor being donated by island residents.

It is being built with funds raised by public subscription under the sponsorship of the Beaver Island Civic Association. A committee composed of Dr. and Mrs. Vail, Rev. Fr. Herp, Jewell Gillispie, Roger Carlisle and Arthur Johnston represent the association in the project.

Experts Suggest Cheese For Star Role In Menus

Cheese usually plays a supporting role in menu planning, but it deserves a starring role, points out a Michigan State college nutritionist. Not only is cheese a concentrated, valuable food, it is also in abundant supply now and relatively inexpensive.

Mrs. Lucile Decker of the M.S.C. School of Home Economics reminds homemakers that one pound of cheese contains the equivalent of four quarts of milk fat and the equivalent of three quarts of milk in protein, calcium and phosphorus. Cheese is rich in vitamin A and riboflavin Compared with other common protein-rich foods, cheese rates high in fat, protein, ash and calories.

Mrs. Decker wants to correct the mistaken notion that cheese is indigestible. Nutritional research has proved that cheese is one of the most completely digestible foods.

There are two general kinds of cheeses, process and natural Spreads and other cheese products which have added ingredients such as cream milk, skim milk or cheese when in addition to natural cheese are called process cheese. Mrs. Decker points out that process cheeses are somewhat diluted and contain less of the natural cheese nutritients. However, the handy sizes and convenience of process cheeses make it attractive to many homemakers.

U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists report that it is difficult to plan a nutritionally sound diet with less than five quarts of milk a week for each person in a family.

Mrs. Harry Ladd Visits Johnson Research Center

While attending the national White Shrine convention in Milwaukee last week, Mrs. Harry Ladd made a sideline trip to tour the world-famous Johnson Wax Administration and Research center.

The visitors saw the 15 story tower designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect. The 153-ft. building has no first floor, no supports under the side wall. A central core anchored 54 feet in the ground carries the weight of the entire building. Twenty-one miles of glass tubing circle the building between bands of Cherokee brick.

Mrs. Harry Gebeau, top officer in the Petoskey shrine, also attended the national White Shrine convention as a delegate from the northern Michigan ledge.

The pair returned home Friday from Milwaukee.

Home Demonstration Week Is Tribute To Work Of Mrs. Reinbold

Home Demonstration week, an annual event in the program, was observed in Charlevoix county this week with the annual Home Demonstration achievement exhibit and program at the American Legion hall in East Jordan last night.

The program which now boats 16 groups with a membership of more than 200 was instituted in Charlevoix county in 1924.

The program means many things to many people but in three northern Michigan counties, Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan, it means just one thing, Mrs. Emma Fero Reinbold, district home demonstration agent for the past nine years.

As Miss Fero, she assumed the position following graduation from Western Michigan College of Education at Kalamazoo with a major in home economics and built it to its present proportions. Although the home demonstration program was familiar to northern Michigan residents, she became the first resident agent.

Mrs. Emma Reinbold

At the present time she serves 65 clubs with a membership of approximatoly 1,000 in three county eree. After July 1, however, she will serve only Charlevoix end Emmet counties. In this wey she hopos to include meny more 'speciel interest' lessons in the progrem.

Technically, as home demonstration agent, she works with adult women and assists with the clothing and canning projects in the 4-H program. In addition, however, she gives special demonstrations or lectures to church grange or other community clubs or groups and is often called upon as a special speaker at many community events.

Included in her work is the organization of Home Demonstration groups which then select two leaders who actually become voluntary teachers, attending leaders' meetings regularly and returning to their group to teach a lesson taught to them by Miss Fero, who in 1951, became Mrs. Reinbold or by a specialist from Michigan State College Extension Service.

In addition to this she often appears on a club program with a lesson on how to decorate a cake or make candles. Then too, if anyone has a problem regarding home decoration or canning or anything pertaining to the home, she will make a personal call and aid the householder in solving it.

With only two counties to cover undor tho newly-adopted program, sho hopes to sperd more timo on what she cells 'special interest' projects. This cen include eny of e series of things such as re-upholstering furniture, re-finishing furnituro or making slip-covers . . . enything that must be done in a series of meetings end not in one lesson.

Her work can and does take her to any place in the three-county area. For instance, in two days last week, she had the following programs: enroute to the Petoskey office from her home at Pellston she made four calls for personal conferences, met with a planning committee at the office until noon then drove 14 miles to the Epsilon district for a lesson on tying springs which lasted until 5pm. In the evening she atended an advisory board meeting in Petoskey.

The next day she made three visits enroute to Cheboygan where the entire day was devoted to a dressmaking project with club women in the area. That evening she addressed a grange group.

Every day is equally as busy with a variety of projects.

Many times it seems as if everyone is demanding too much of her time but Mrs. Reinbold says that as long as her salary is paid by the taxpayer, she feels she should work for everyone. "And, anyway," she concludes with a twinkle in her bright eyes, "I love the personal contacts and the people I meet so it's really not work."

And those who know her best, realize that she means every word of this unusual statement. She has e joy for living and a spirit of service seen in peoplo who must servo the public as she does.

Just hy being herself she seems to inspire young people and adults alike into doing their best in whatever program they are interested.

This may be because she has accomplished so very much herself despite a severe handicap.

As an infant she lost her right leg when she only six weeks old. From then until she gained her growth she estimates she spent eight of her first 20 years in hospitals. Because as a child there was so much trouble being fitted with artificial limbs, her father 'made' her a new leg whenever it was necessary to keep up with her growth until she started school at Levering. After that she entered the hospital regularly to be fitted.

Despite al. this she worked for her board and room while attending high school at Pellston. When she graduated at the age of 17 years, she had her heart set on becoming what she is today, a home demonstration agent. Everyone but her parents discouraged her hut their love and encouragement plus financial assistance from the vocational Rehabilitation program were all she reeded to enroll at Western State College. At college she asked no odds of anyone as she went about her studies and her job in the college library like any other student.

Upon greduation she returned to the north country she loves so much end in the niro years since her return has built the home demonstration program to a point where it is herd to imagine the program without her. The program now Includes e variety of subjects including clothing, nutrition, home menegement home furnishings, parents educetion and child development end such miscellaneous items as landsceping end citizenship.

"As jack of all trades and master of many she also has the faculty of making people think for themselves, of inspiring others to give their best and to make people not only like her but each other. And when the history of the home demonstration program in Michigan is written, Mrs. Emma Fero Reinbold may well be selected as a true example of a home demonstration agent because of her outstanding work in northern Michigan.

Wheat Growers Asked For Data On Acreage

Wheat grawers of Charlevoix County are being asked to help in the preliminary work of assembling data for possible acreage allotments and marketing quotas on the 1954 wheat crop.

According to Le Roy Hardy, PMA Committee Chairman certain information from farmers is absolutely necesary in order to do a sound administrative job of setting equitable acreage allotments for individual farms. Farm allotments will be determined by the county PMA Committee, with the possible assistance of the community committees.

Data needed includes the farm's wheat acreage and production data for the 3 years 1951, 1952, and 1953; the legal description of the land, and other pertinent information. If farmers operates a rented farm, he should be able to supply such additional information as the name and address of the owner.

Hardy emphasizes that the final decision has not yet been made as to whether acreage allotments or marketing quotas will be used for the 1954 crop of wheat. That decision will be made later, when there is more known about the supply and prospective demand situations. However, the indicated wheat supply is such that production controls will probably be necesary, as directed hy law.

Proclamation of a national wheat acreage allotment is mandatory unless dispensed with by the Secretary because of a national emergency or of a material increase in exports. Proclamation of quotas is mandatory when supplies reach a certain point specified in the legislation, except under emergency conditions.

An early start on the necessary advance work is particularly urged. Mr. Hardy explained, because the decision and proclamation must be made not later than July 1 for marketing quotas and July 15 for acreage allotments without quotas. If quotas are proclaimed, a national referendum among growers must be held by July 25.

Hardy requests that the farmers have ready the needed information as soon as possible so that the committeemen, when calling on the farmer, will be able to get it without delay.

Charlevoix County has an estimated 125 farms growing wheat. There are an estimated 2.1 million wheat farms in the United States.

Beef can be stored six months to a year at zero temperatures; however, ground meat should not be kept in a home freezer or commercial locker longer than 45 days.

Cleaning the air cleaner on your tractor every day during spring work is a must, says Walter M. Carleton, agricultural engineer at Michigan State college. Twice-a-day cleaning, he says, is necesary under especially dusty conditions.

Industrial Council Will Honor County Agents At Dinner

The work of County Agricultural Agents will be recognized by the Northwest Michigan Industrial Development Council, Friday evening May 15.

The executive board of the council has invited all of the County agents in their area to be their dinner guests at the William Stebhins farm, two miles south and east of Kalkaska.

They will meet at the farm at 6:30 p.m. to watch a milking demonstration, this will be followed by a "Thresher Style" dinner served in the farm home. Following a short business session there will he a general discussion on undeveloped farm resources.

It is the hope of the Council that more industry can be brought into Northwest Michigan to provide off season and part time johs for farmers who desire add-income.

J. Fredrick Kirkpatrick, Kalkaska, vice-president of the Council and owner of Kirkpatrick's Dairy, is the local chairman.

Sanitation Needed In Fight On Rats

The only sure way of eliminating rats on the farm is through a program of sanitation, says Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County agricultural agent.

He says poisoning is not the only answer. Farms must be ratproofed to do the job completely.

Don W. Hayne, Michigan State College zoologist, says poisoning has its limitation Poisoning, he explains, reduces the rat numbers but makes it easier for the remaining rats to survive. And rats are prolific — more so when there are fewer rats.

With a program of sanitation however, the zoologist says, the farm's ability to support rats is very low.

Sanitation includes cleaning up refuse as well as ratproofing. County Agent Rebman says grain bins can be ratproofed by putting sheet metal or heavy hardware cloth around them and screening ventilators. New bins should be planned so that they are ratproofed.

Zoologist Hayne says that Warfarin is the recommended poison for use on the farm. It should be mixed with corn meal, rolled or ground oats or powdered sugar and vegetable oil for best results.

Color Of Exhaust Shows Trouble In Tractor Engines

The color of the exhaust may be the indication of what's wrong with your tractor engine, says Robert G. White, extension farm machinery specialist at Michigan State college.

If the tractor's exhaust pipe fumes black smoke, for example, it's getting more gas than it needs. The air-fuel mixture may be too rich. Or, says White, the black smoke may mean an improper float level or a plugged air cleaner.

When your tractor fumes bluish smoke, the engine is burning oil. Oil in the combustion chamber means that valves or piston rings aro worn or stuck.

White suggests having a mechanic find out the trouble and repair it before the job becomes more costly.

Placing of fertilizer in bands two inches below onions, sugar beets, head lettuce and spinach gave much bigger yields in Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station tests than drilling it in with seed.

Annual Poppy Sale Opened By Auxiliaries

Poppies will bloom in Charlevoix this weekend as the Auxiliaries of two veterans groups, the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, offer the colorful hand-made blossoms for sale today, tomorrow and Saturday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to support the extensive activities for the welfare of disabled veterans and needy children of veterans that are carried out constantly by the two Auxiliaries.

The major part of the funds remain in the local community and a small percentage is forwarded for national rehabilitation and welfare service. The VFW sends a portion of its funds to support the VFW national home for veterans, orphans and widows at Eaton Rapids.

Mayor Dean Davenport has proclaimed May 21-22-23 Poppy Days in Charlevoix, pointing out that the wearing of the poppy is an individual tribute to the memory of America's war dead.

Mrs. Lloyd Barnett, president of the American Legion Auxiliary and Mrs. Leroy Plum, president of the VFW Auxiliary, have joined in asking the people of Charlevoix to honor the dead by helping the living through a purchase of American Legion and VFW poppies this weekend.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

To the Editor:

I would like the readers of the Courier to know that the trip to Washington, D. C., which I described in the May 7 issue, was sponsored by the National Farmers Union, which every year sends many busloads of farm people to the Capitol to view its historic wonders, and to take an active part in the functions of government. They are made fully aware of the fact that all of us in the Nation, as voters, do have a definite responsibility in the running of our government.

Getting a first hand 'look-see' at what goes on in Washington, and an appreciation of the problems our Senators and Representatives must face daily, goes a long way towards making us better citizens, so the leaders of our organization believe.

Thank you,
Mrs. Julius J. Elzinga,

THE BIGGEST BARGAIN
for the Money

Nothing else you buy provides greater benefit, or contains greater value, than does prescribed medicine. Far from being a burdensome addition to the cost of illness, a prescription actually lessens the cost by shortening the duratinn of the illness and speeding the return to work. Illnesses which once meant weeks —and sometimes months — of convalescence now yield in a matter of days to treatment with the "miracle" drugs. Even if you could put a price upon a thing so priceless as your health, this alone would demonstrate that prescribed medicine is the biggest bargain for the money.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN of a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan, to be held at the time and place and for the purpose set forth in the following resolution adopted by the said Common Council at a special meeting held on April 27, 1953.

WHEREAS the City of Charlevoix is the owner of that parcel of land situate and being in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, described as follows:

"Commencing at a point which may be found by measuring along the center line of the highway known as the Stover Road in Section 35, Township 34 North, Range 8 West 14.11 chains East from the intersection of the West eighth line of said Section 35, with said center line of said highway; thence running North 7.50 chains to the Northwest corner of a parcel of land heretofore deeded by the Township of Charlevoix to the Cram, Whittort & Sons Company (now owned by the City of Charlevoix), thence East along the North line of said Cram, Whittort & Sons Company parcel to the shore of Lake Charlevoix, thence North 7.10 chains to the Southeast corner of land formerly owned by George G. Williams (now owned by Taesen-Clemens), which is the point of beginning of this description, thence West along the South line of said Williams parcel to its intersection with the Easterly line of Ferry Avenue, thence in a Southerly direction along the Easterly line of said Avenue 300 feet to an iron stake; thence East to the shore of Lake Charlevoix; thence in a Northerly direction along said shore to the point of beginning, being a part of Government Lot 1, Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; said parcel to include all land to the waters edge."

AND WHEREAS the said land constitutes the North 300 feet of the "Ferry Avenue Bathing Beach" of the City, and has been used by the City of Charlevoix as a part of the said "Ferry Avenue Bathing Beach," the whole tract of which now extends 963 feet North and South along the lake shore, although no formal dedication of the same as a public ground or park has ever been made; and

WHEREAS the South Bend Tool and Die Company, an Indiana Corporation seeks to purchase the same from the City of Charlevoix for use in conjunction with a new manufacturing plant it proposes to construct and for boat construction; and

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan, deems it expedient and advisable to vacate, discontinue and abolish the said North 300 feet of said "Ferry Avenue Bathing Beach" as above described as a public park or grounds, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix to be held in the Council Room in City Hall on Monday, June 1, 1953, at 8:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, be and the same is hereby appointed as the time to hear any and all objections to the vacating, discontinuing and abolishing said part of said park and that the Clerk publish notice of said meeting containing a copy of this resolution for four successive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier commencing with the issue of April 30, 1953.

The three members of the 1953 graduating class of St. James high school on Beaver Island will receive their diplomas at Commencement exercises scheduled for 8 p.m. June 7 at Holy Cross church.

Members of the class are Patricia Kinney, daughter of Mrs. Cecelia Kinney; Bernadette Malloy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Malloy and Helen Nackerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nackerman.

The Rev Fr. Xavier O. F. M. Conv. of Our Lady of Charity Perry, Ohio, will deliver the Commercement address based on the Class Motto, "Build for Eternity Not for Time."

Diplomas will be presented by the Rev. Joseph Herp, OFM Conv, pastor of Holy Cross church.

Activities honoring the graduates began last Thursday with the annual Junior-Senior banquet at the Beaver Lodge and the Prom at the Parish Hall.

Guests at the banquet were the graduates, their parents, Rev. Fr. Joseph, Dr. Harry Vail and William O'Donnell.

At the entertaining program which followed, Patricia presented a toast to the parents; Helen read the class prophecy; Berradette the class will and farewell; Margaret Ann LaFreniere gave a toast to the graduates and Alice Dubiel a toast to Rev. Fr. Joseph.

The Lodge dining room was decorated in an Hawaiian motif for the dinner. The theme was carried out in the Parish Hall where a palm tree centered the dance floor and Hawaiian murals decorated the walls. The class motto "Not for Time but Eternity" was placed over the statue of the Blessed Mother at the front of the hall.

The graduates and approximately 100 guests danced to the music of the Wayne Belding quartet of Charlevoix, who had flown to the island for the Prom.

PTA Gets Stung by a "Bee"

The local PTA is feeling sheepish today. Seems they complained the youngsters weren't learning enough. Said they couldn't even spell. So the kids challenged them to a spelling bee.

"I was captain of the PTA'ers," "Doc" Brown told me. "Both teams made the first round just fine. But on the second round Speedy Taylor went down on 'efficiency.' Then his boy Chip, who happened to be next on the school team, rattled it right off. From then on it was murder!"

So now "Doc" says that the whole PTA is thinking of signing up for night school!

From where I sit, it always pays to look and think before you leap to conclusions. Take those folks who would deny me a temperate glass of beer without a moment's thought. They wouldn't want me to interfere with their personal preferences for, say, buttermilk. It's a good idea to think twice before you "spell out" rules for your neighbor.

Start Campgaign For Sanitation In Handling Grain

That's the slogan used by the administrators of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act in their campaign to boost grain sanitation, reports Ed Rebman Charlevoix County Agricultural Agent.

Rebman points out that many farm storages are open so that rats, mice, cats and birds and other animals can contaminate grain in bins. This may be the grain which later goes to the mill to be made into food for human consumption.

Here are some tips from Arthur J. Bell, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State College, on protecting grain from rat contamination:

Bell reports that it's easy to protect new bins with half-inch hardware mesh or galvanized sheet metal. The entire bin, floors, walls and top should be lined. The door should have its edges protected with sheet metal, too. Galvanized bins would solve the problem quickly.

Rat proofing an old bin, he says, may be more of a problem, although the same principles apply. Sometimes it may be necessary only to put a two-foot strip of galvanized sheet metal at the base of the wall to stop gnawing. Then a 12-inch strip of sheet metal can be placed about four feet higher to prevent rats from crawling up the sides.

The floor should also be covered with sheet metal. If the wall metal is placed on the inside of the bins, it should overlap about six inches on the floor. Then the floor metal should be placed over the overlap to give a tight seal.

The top of the bin should be covered so animals can't get inside from overhead. This can be done by building the bins and bin partitions to the ceiling and lining the ceiling with metal.

If it's not possible or desirable to build the bins to the ceiling, a removable metal-covered top may be put on top of the bins. The top can be made in sections for easy handling.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration's plans to enforce the grain sanitation program have been set aside temporarily, pending further research and study.

Meeting May 28 To Discuss Bean Beetle Controls

There will be an important meeting for everyone interested in growing string beans ,either green beans or wax beans, this year. This meeting will be held Thursday, May 28, at 8:30 p.m., in the high school at East Jordan, Ed Rebman, County Agent, reported today.

The purpose of this very important meeting is to bring under control that bad pest known as the Mexican Bean Beetle. Many people in this area have seen these beetles and probably are more acquainted with the young larvae than with the adult. These larvae are yellow and they have six rows of black-tipped spines and are always found on the under side of the leaves.

Ray Janes, Extension Specialist in Entomology, from Michigan State college, will be present to lead the discussion at this meeting. Mr. Janes will discuss the life history of this insect and a means of control for both the small gardener and the commercial grower. The East Jordan Canning Company is cooperating in this meeting and will furnish refreshments at the end of the discussion.

Suggests Poison Bait To Control Pests In Garden

Garden slugs and snails in gardens, orchards and greenhouses in Charlevoix County can be controlled by poison bait, according to County Agricultural Agent, Ed Rebman

Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department at Michigan State college, recommends a poison bait containing metaldehyde plus either calcium arsenate or sodium fluosilicate.

In gardens snails and slugs cause serious losses through their attacks on seedlings, flowers and vegetables. The pests also hit at succulent plants and seedlings in greenhouses

The trail of slimy mucus left by the small animals reduces the sales value of many ornamental plants, and their habit of nibbling here and there makes some vegetables unfit for market.

Light infestations of snails and slugs can be eliminated by simple sanitation measures, Rebman reports. But widespread infestations may require the use of poison bait. It can be obtained at seed supply stores, at places where you buy your gardening supplies and at some drug stores.

Rates Given For Farm Custom Work

An extension folder giving the rates farmers expect to charge for custom work is off the press and available at the offices of county agricultural agents and at Michigan State college.

Authored by Karl A. Vary of M. S. C.'s agricultural economics department, the folder is the result of information from 196 farmers in all parts of Michigan. The publication is called "Custom Work in Michigan, 1952 and 1953."

Vary noted that custom rates for most farm jobs this year will be about what they were in 1952. He said that the last survey of custom rates—in 1950—showed them to be slightly lower on many jobs than the 1952 average. The jobs included field chopping, baling, cutting grain, cutting corn, loading and spreading manure, mowing hay, plowing muck, bulldozing, tiling, buzzing wood and farm trucking.

But, he reported, most farmers said they expected to charge the same custom rate in 1953 as last year. Field chopping, for example, will range from $10 to $12 per acre and baling will be 12 to 14 cents a bale.

State Judging Team To Participate At International Meet

Michigan's national champion 4-H Club dairy cattle judging team will take part in the International Dairy Judging Contest in July at the Royal Livestock Show in England. The Michigan purebred dairy cattle associations are heading up the fund raising.

All the dairy breed groups have done their part in raising funds for the trip, points out Nevels Pearson, assistant State 4-H Club leader, who will accompany the team. Some groups gave outright cash gifts and others sold calves to raise money for the travel fund.

The team will leave June 30, cross the Atlantic by plane and arrive July 2 in England. The show will be at Blackpole, north of Liverpool. Also on the trip will be stops at the Jersey and Guernsey (Channel) Isles—where those breeds were developed—and a tour of France, Belgium and Holland. They will see the home of the Holsteins in Schleswig-Holstein before returning July 25 by plane.

The team members are David VanDenHeuvel of Hart, Robert Meyer of Ypsilanti, Marilyn Tyge of Traverse City and Donald Proctor of Chelsea. They won national honors at Waterloo, Iowa and VanDenHeuvel was top entry in the contest.

WINDSTORM INSURANCE

THE ONLY PROTECTION AGAINST WIND DAMAGE

AGAINST most of the common hazards of life we can at least exert some elementary precautions. But wind is a frightening foe. There is so little you can do to protect your property.

There are, in this country, an average of 140 destructive WINDSTORMS annually. No section of the country is immune. So you cannot be sure that YOUR buildings are on "the safe side." Even structures of wind-resistant construction, such as brick, concrete or steel, may suffer heavy damage when they are so unfortunate as to lie in the path of a violent tornado.

BUT—and this is important to remember—you need not meet a tornado, or even a cyclone, to sustain sizeable damage. There are lots of little winds that can throw you for a big loss.

SO, the only really safe course—the course that will give you a feeling of serene satisfaction—is to have ADEQUATE WINDSTORM PROTECTION. THE COST? So little it is sure to prove a pleasant surprise. Especially is that true when you pause to reflect on the possible cost of not having WIND PROTECTION.

BE SAFE, and insure with us; the oldest and largest company of its kind in Michigan, and the second largest of its kind in the World.

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Ask us about our Safe-T-Way SERVICE
A public service program to promote safer driving.

This year—for the 12th straight production year—truck users are buying more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. That couldn't be true unless Chevrolet trucks offered more of what you want.

Already, 1953's official sales figures tell a remarkable story of clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks. But, this is not surprising, for truck users everywhere are discovering how far ahead of all others Chevrolet trucks really are.

They are discovering things like the tremendous new power in advanced Loadmaster engines in heavy-duty models . . . the remarkable gasoline economy . . . the extra ruggedness and strength of heavier, more rigid frame construction.

And, in addition to all these advantages, the Chevrolet line lists for less than any other trucks of comparable size and capacity. So, before you buy any truck, stop in and see us.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

WE HOPE that after all the 'weather' we've been hearing about this past week, you're thanking your lucky stars that you live in northern Michigan . . . It was pretty frightening last Thursday when the wind was blowing so and things looked bad . . . but the storm veered off and hit Port Huron . . . If it had happened here we wouldn't have had a town left . . . Families of people who were in the storm area were pretty worried but a wire from Mrs. Charles Novak who has been visiting in Sarnia brought the news that she was ok. Young Dick Van Raaphorst was telling us his grandmother lives in Port Huron but they had heard from her and she had weathered the storm . . .

AND DOWN south there's the floods . . . An S. O. S. for money from Gerry Left who is stationed at Lake Charles AFB, La., brought the news that place is a mess . . . Stranded away from the base, five servicemen moved in with a young couple . . . That was Wednesday and at last count there were 22 camping out in a small house . . . Guess mere words can't describe the devastation . . . So see what I mean about thanking your lucky stars . . .

Speaking of stars . . . didn't you like the way the Charlevoix band swung out on Stars and Stripes Forever at their last concert . . . But then they do a good job on most everything . . . Many thanks kids, we appreciated it . . .

HAVE YOU noticed how the islands have been standing out of Lake Michigan lately? . . . You'd think that South Fox island was only a short distance away . . . And even the south end of Beaver Island could be seen . . . was amazed to see that it was that far south . . . Don't know where we thought it was but it wasn't where we saw it . . . if you get what we mean.

EVERY SPRING, just as sure as that season rolls around, wild animals amble into town . . . We haven't heard about a deer dashing through anyone's yard yet . . . (But it will happen, that we'll bet on) . . . but last week we saw the other animal which makes an annual trek . . . the porcupine . . . were over on West Dixon ave. when we saw this funny animal lumbering toward us . . . For the first time in our lives we got a good look at a porky and now we can understand why dogs don't like them . . . Those quills sticking out are not for us . . . After being frightened away, it climbed a big beech tree in the middle of the block that runs from Dixon to River st. . . . Looks as tho' quite a lot of wildlife could live there . . .

WE UNDERSTAND there's quite a housing shortage this spring . . . among the birds, that is . . . Roy Ranger was telling us there were so many martins that he was having to erect a new apartment house . . . And speaking of birds . . . will someone tell us please, what the swallows are doing when dozens of them take off and flit back and forth in patterns as tho' they were playing . . . Several times in the past week we've seen them . . . it's the most amazing thing. . .

IF YOU'VE been wondering what to give those dignified seniors who will be graduating next week . . . just take a trip down town . . . Never have we seen such a variety of lovely things for the graduates . . . So take a second look here before you journey elsewhere . . .

IT WILL BE a great day, come next Wednesday, for the seniors for it will be graduation day . . . the first major milestone in their young lives . . . As each one walks across the stage to receive his or her diploma, he will be happy, a little sad, frightened a little about the future and walking on a little pink cloud . . . Chances are it will mark the last time that particular 51 will be together despite promises to the contrary . . . And those of us who are watching will be a little sad too for it will mark the end of another great class in our high school . . . With each and everyone will go our very best wishes for every success in his chosen field . . . And may God walk with you all the way . . .

A CHANCE visit with Mrs. H. G. Foster at Ironton brought the news that they had guests Sunday . . . two big, big 'coons whom they discovered when the crows made a fuss . . . They spent some time in a nearby tree and finally ambled away, to other things . . . dirty faces, ringed tails and all . .

SATURDAY will be Memorial Day . . . a day to remember all those servicemen who gave their lives in our country's wars . . . 22 of them from the Charlevoix area who didn't come home from World War II . . . the one who lost his life in Korea . . . and for the older generations, those who lost their lives during World War I or who have since died from injuries and illnesses as a result of combat . . .

BUT MEMORIAL DAY has become more than just a day to honor the war dead . . . It's a day to remember every loved one . . . And a day to be grateful for those who have been spared in wars and are still with us . . . And a day for prayer that the wars which brought about this day may some day be stilled forever . . . A lot to pray for but surely worth praying for . . . So when taps are sounded this Memorial Day, won't you include in your prayers just one little one for peace . . .

Mr. And Mrs. David Bergstrom Leave Tuesday For Summer Trip To Sweden

A trip to their native land, Sweden, will highlight the summer of 1953 for Mr. and Mrs. David Bergstrom who will leave here next Tuesday on the first leg of their journey.

After a brief visit in Chicago the couple will go to New York where they will board the liner Gripsholm, June 5 for the trip abroad.

It will mark Mr. Bergstrom's first trip to his homeland since 1916. Mrs. Bergstrom made the trip alone in 1948.

They will land at Gutenberg on June 15 and go directly to Varmland, Sweden. They plan to tour Sweden and during the late summer make the trip to the land of the midnight sun in the northern part of the country.

They will spend the time with Mr. Bergstrom's sister whom he has not seen in 37 years and with Mrs. Bergstrom's two brothers and other relatives.

Mrs. Bergstrom plans to join a friend, Mrs. Peter Westerberg of Chicago, who with her husband is spending a year in Sweden, for a trip through Europe. On July 24 they will join a tour which will take them to Denmark, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland and Italy where they will visit Milan, Pisa, Rome, Florence and other points of interest. The majority of the 24-day tour will be spent in Italy. Enroute home to Sweden they will visit Innesbruck.

The couple has booked passage home for Oct. 22.

Mrs. Bergstrom has been busy packing their trunks and bags which were sent early this week to the port of embarkation. She has been busy, also, shopping for gifts for members of their families still in Sweden.

Despite all this, however, the couple is looking forward to a happy reunion and visit.

New Restaurant At Susan Lake

Maria's Susan Lake Inn, formerly known as Ricco's will open this Saturday for the season its new owners, Mr. and Mrs. William George and Mrs. Delila George, have announced.

The popular eating place, located four miles east of Charlevoix on the Boyne City road, will specialize in both German and American cooking.

Mrs. George Sr. and her daughter-in-law will do the cooking in the new dining room. The former has done restaurant and hotel cooking in resorts for 20 years. Last summer she was at Atlantic City, N. J., and during the winter was at the Bel Harbor Hotel in Miami Beach.

Her daughter-in-law, for whom the restaurant is named, is the former Maria Moertll of Schwartz Tyrol, Austria. She will do the German cooking.

Mr. George first met his wife late in World War II, he said. He returned to German with C. I. D. in 1946 and following his discharge in 1949 they were married and after a three-months trip through the Tyrol retuned to Detoit to make their home. They have a seven-months old son, Eric.

Local Students Win Awards At U. of M.

Regents-Alumni Honor Awards as well as Regents-Alumni scholarships from the University of Michigan have been designated for two Charlevoix high school seniors, Raymond W. Sanford and Nancy E. Bodley, according to letters received by the pair from Erich A. Walter, dean student and chairman of the committee on scholarship awards.

Raymond plans to enroll in the College of Pharmacy and Nancy will enter the school of nursing.

The two were among the 736 seniors who received the Honor Awards and among 488 who were given the scholarship awards from the entire state.

The Honor Awards are without monetary value but it is from this list that the Regents-Alumni scholarship awards are granted. Only applicants who qualify for honor awards are eligible for the scholarships which carry a stipend equivalent to semester fees and are renewable for the student's undergraduate program at the University. Honor award winners were selected from 1,248 applicants representing 309 high schools.

This is the second year the Regents-Alumni Honor Awards have been made. They are in the form of certificates, designed to recognize outstanding high school seniors throughout the state who have been accepted for admission to the University of Michigan.

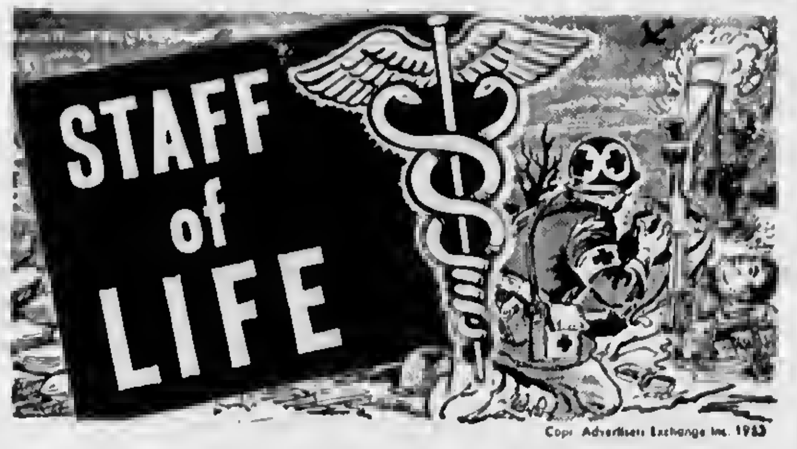
Eligibility for an award is based on the record made in high school, information provided by university alumni and other citizens of the community, recommendations of the high school principal and teachers and results of the special aptitude tests taken by the candidates.

The Regents-Alumni scholarships have been awarded since 1945.

Party Given For Steven Bergmann

Steven Bergmann celebrated his seventh birthday anniversary at a party given Saturday afternoon by his mother, Mrs. George Bergmann.

Twenty-five little friends gathered for the occasion and enjoyed games, refreshments and favors.



The caduceus—emblem of the Medical Corps—is truly a "Staff of Life". For wherever our fighting men go—there, too, go the legion of surgeons, physicians, nurses, and corpsmen to bring succor to the wounded and sick. It is fitting on this Memorial Day that we honor the men and women of the Medical Corps who have made the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country and their comrades. It is also fitting to honor the Soldiers of Science—the unsung heroes of the laboratories—who are winning the war against the diseases that enslave mankind. We honor them through our profressional service to the people of this town.

Nitrogen Needed On Corn Fields To Assure Crop

Good corn cannot grown on nitrogen-deficient gronnd, and if nitrogen is not adequate, it should be added, says Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County Agricultural Agent.

Michigan corn suffers more from lack of nitrogen than from lack of any other element. Rebman suggests that a soil test will show the fertilizer analysis that is needed.

Nitrogen can be supplied by plowing under a good legume sod or by harnyard manure; either may supply enough nitrogen but both together almost certainly will, Rebman advises.

Extra nitrogen can be applied where there is not enough from legumes or manure.\Rebman reminds. He cites work done at Michigan State college which shows that 40 to 50 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre, added to ground lacking it, has raised yields from 15 to 30 additional bushels per acre. The cost of the fertilizer is from $7 to $10 per acre.

When will corn need the extra nitrogen? Rehman advises adding it when manure has not been applied at a rate of ten tons or more per acre, when corn follows a grass sod having less than half legumes, after corn or other cultivated crops, or following small grains in which no legumes were seeded or in which seeding failed.

Applications should he made by June 25 if possible, or hy July 10 at the very latest. Any nitrogen fertilizer is suitable.

"Enough fertilizer is needed to give 40 or 50 pounds of the element per acre. The nitrogen per cent is printed on the bag and simple arithmetic will tell how much should be added," Rebman says.

All forms of nitrogen are highly soluble and can be applied on the soil or directly in the soil. Surface applications are carried to the corn roots by rain or dew.

Rebman recommends a planting time application of 100 to 150 pounds of a mixed complete fertilizer to hasten early growth. This makes early cultivation easier, faster and more effective, and will give a profitable yield increase in years of good rainfall.

With a 37 million bushel national increase in potatoes shaping up this year, Michigan State College potato growing and marketing specialists caution growers to take it easy. High-quality potatoes, high yields per acre and low costs will be needed for profits.

Farmers Warned To Be Careful With Chemicals

Even though an insecticide may not bear the "skull and crossbones" label, people should be cautious in handling the chemical, since many substances are harmful even if they are not poisonous.

That's a tip from Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent. He says that insecticides help fruits and vegetables but they often have the opposite effect on man.

David G. Steinicke, extension specialist in health and safety at Michigan State college, says that people handling insecticides should take special precautions not to inhale vapors or fumes. The insecticides should be labeled at all times and should be put in safe storage where children cannot reach them. Steinicke emphasizes. Here are some of the rules he suggests for handling insecticides safely:

Follow the directions of the manufacturer in handling, mixing and applying the chemical. Always spray or dust with the wind. Wear respirators when there is danger of inhaling fumes. Gloves, long-sleeved shirts and clothing to cover the entire body are recommended. Wash hands and other exposed parts of the body thoroughly with soap and water alter using poisonous chemicals. Store poisosous materials in strong leak-proof containers. Be sure they are out of reach of children or livestock. Thoroughly wash fruits and vegetables to which poisonous chemicals have been applied

New Soils Book Is Written By MSC Man

Contributing to a better understanding of the natural character of the land surface of Michigan is the purpose of a book authored by a Michigan State College soil scientist.

The book, "Soils and Land of Michigan," symbolizes the life work of Michigan's foremost student of soil types and land use, Prof. J. O. Veatch. The book and soil association map in colors were published by the Michigan State College Press. While designed to possess appeal for persons of all ocupations they will be of special interest to students and teachers of agriculture, builders, realtors, lawyers, engineers and to many farmers.

A delicate, soft meringue will be fluffy, tender, fine textured and it will stand in soft peaks that become golden brown when baked. The most satisfactory proportion of sugar to egg for such a meringue is two tablespoons of sugar per egg white.

Advise Planning For Emergency Pasture

Plans for emergency pasture come in plenty handy during periods when regular pastures fail, says Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County Agricultural Agent.

Found well adapted to Northern Michigan is a mixture of oats and field peas, Rebman says. This mixture is best suited to heavier soils but will also be well in light soils, he adds.

Usual rate of seeding is one bushel of oats and one bushel of peas per acre. It should be sown two to two and one-half bushels per acre. For pasture seeding the seed should be drilled half one way and half the other for a better sod, Rebman says. A legume seeding may be added and will not be harmed by normal pasturing.

Pastures being seeded in this manner should be fertilized with 300 pounds per acre of 10-6-4 analysis.

An emergency oat pasture is good for six to eight weeks, Rebman says. The second half of the oat pasture time will produce about half the cow-days pasture that the first half will.

Other emergency pasture possibilities: German millet seeded at 25-30 pounds per acre, after the ground is warm in the spring. This also makes an emergency hay crop.

Baebo rye seeded in mid-August for late fall pasture and a good early spring pasture.

How Does Gasoline Get Here?

When you swing into your favorite service station and tell the attendant to "fill 'er up," do you ever wonder how the gasoline gets to the other end of the hose?

You're miles from the refinery, miles from the bulk plant, miles from the nearest railway.

Well, take a look at that tank-trailer over near the edge of the driveway. It's delivering gasoline now into the station's huge storage tanks.

That's how gasoline gets here! That's how it gets to all the thousands of service stations the country over—one of hundreds of ways trucks serve you night and day.

If you've got it, a truck brought it!

Service Schools To Hold Exams For Appointment

Appointments to the U. S. Naval Academy or the U. S Military Academy from the 11th Congressional district which includes Charlevoix county are now open according to a newsletter from Victor A. Knox 11th district representative.

Each member of Congress is allowed a maximum of five midshipmen at Annapolis and four cadets at West Point. Due to graduation, the 11th district will have vacancies in both schools this year.

In order to give every boy a fair opportunity to be considered for the nomination, standard competitive civil service examinations will be conducted July 1 at Alpena, Cheboygan and Gaylord as well as in several upper peninsula cities.

Anyone wishing to take the examination must write to Mr. Knox in his own handwriting applying for an appointment before June 5 so the names can be filed with the Civil Service Commission and the places for the examinations designated.

The requirements for both academies are much the same. The applicant must be a citizen of the United States, not less than 17 or more than 22 on July 1, 1954 and single.

Further information regarding the examinations and appointments may be obtained by contacting H. E. Bingham, high school principal, or writing to Mr Knox.
